Terminal Pay Measure Sent To President

House Passes Bill By Voice Vote; Bond Provision Is Denounced

COMPENSATION WILL COST $3,000,000,000

Approval Follows Demands Next Congress Make Bonds Cashable

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—Amid bitter denunciation of the bond-payment provision, the House sent to President Truman today the $3,000,000,000 GI furlough pay bill.

Passage of the compromise measure, on which the House yielded to Senate insistence that the bulk of the payments be made in bonds payable in five years, was by voice vote and followed demands that the next Congress make the bonds cashable at once.

The legislation gives present and former enlisted personnel of the armed forces the same consideration that officers now receive in the matter of payment for furlough time not actually received—with the difference that officers receive theirs in cash and the GI's will get bonds unless their payments are below $50.

Payment Up To 120 Days

It provides for payment up to 120 days of accrued furlough time at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service. Payments are to be at the rate of base pay and longevity received at the time of discharge, plus a minimum subsistence allowance of 70 cents a day, and an additional $1.25 a day for sergeants and some technicians with dependents.

All enlisted personnel of the army, the navy, the marine corps and the Coast guard who have served at any time since September 8, 1939, will receive the payments for the furlough time to which they were entitled but which they did not receive.

Officers traditionally have received such pay in the form of terminal leave, an arrangement which permits them to leave the active service but to draw service pay for their unused furlough time. Technically they remain on duty during their period of terminal leave.

The House already has approved an appropriation to foot the bill for the enlisted men's payments.

16,000,000 Eligible

An estimated 16,000,000 past and present enlisted men and women will be eligible for the compensation, which the House was told would cost an aggregate of $3,000,000,000.

Payments will be in cash to men

MOVE TO LIMIT SENATE DEBATE ON ANTI-POLL TAX MEASURE FAILS

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—An attempt to reach the anti-poll tax bill before Congress quits failed today when the Senate refused to limit debate.

That meant that southerners could filibuster to prevent a vote on the measure itself, and hence its chances went glimmering.

The count was 39 for applying the debate limitation rule, and 33 against, but a two-thirds majority is required. The Senate hasn't invoked the rule in 19 years.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) told reporters before the roll call:

"Everybody understands that if we can't get cloture (debate curbs) we can't get a vote (on the bill), no matter if we stay in session a month."

Congress tentatively is due to quit Friday. Southern foes could hold the floor that long if necessary as they have demonstrated in the past against legislation which would outlaw the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting in federal elections. Seven southern states have the tax.

Action Against Spain Is Urged By Molotov

AMERICAN SHIP SUNK IN CRASH

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—(Thursday—(AP)—Air-sea rescue facilities of the coast guard said today the merchant ship American Farmer was sunk last night in a collision with the William J. Riddle, another American vessel. All persons aboard were rescued.

An earlier report by the Radiomarine Corporation of America, a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, said the Farmer was sunk in collision with the American Trader. The coast guard said, however, it was the William J. Riddle instead of the American Trader.

A message from the Riddle said the American Farmer was struck in its number two hatch at 11:56 p. m. (Greenwich mean Time) (7:56 p. m., EDT). The Riddle said it had taken aboard all personnel from the Farmer, including its master.

The accident scene was about 400 miles west of the British coast.

The coast guard said the Riddle was waiting until daylight to determine the extent of its damage, which was at the water line.

Meanwhile, two other vessels were standing by to offer assistance if needed. They were the Edward T. Ripley and the Benjamin Goodhue, the coast guard said.

Two-Thirds Majority Vote In Conference Is Favored By U. S.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, July 31 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov warned the 21-nation peace conference today that "preparations for fresh acts of aggression" were under way, and declared the wartime allies against fascism must act soon against the Franco regime in Spain —"this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini."

The Russian statesman addressed the conference soon after it became known that the United States would support the Soviet Union in its effort to establish a two-thirds voting majority as the standard for reaching decisions in this conference.

His address to a plenary session was welcomed by generous applause and climaxed a day which began with sharp debate in the Rules committee over the two-thirds rule.

The United States and the Soviet Union stood firm for the two-thirds majority in all essential substantive matters, and Secretary of State Byrnes will make a proposal to that effect to the Rules committee tomorrow morning.

Will Carry Proviso

It will, however, carry this proviso: That in the event any substantive proposal fails to secure a two-thirds majority in the assembly, it should be sent back to the Big Four council of foreign ministers, along with the record of the vote and a request that it be given special consideration by the Big Four.

Molotov's address expressed hopes for future peace, but he struck out hard at the Spanish regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"The time must not be too distant," he declared, "when democratic countries will be able to help the Spanish people, who groan under Franco's regime, to put an end to this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini, which is dangerous to the cause of peace."

Speaking in Russian, he said the nations which went to war on the side of Hitler must be punished for "crimes of their ruling circles," and added that any refusal to defend the legitimate rights of states which suffered from Fascist aggression "can only play into the hands of those who are engaged in preparation for fresh acts of aggression in pursuit of predatory and imperialistic ends."

He said that "at any rate," the interests of all freedom-loving peoples "demand that we bring to an end the fight against fascism which is the most dangerous aggressor in our time."

Refers To Italian Treaty Draft

Apparently referring to the fact that Yugoslavia was not awarded Trieste by the Big Four council's draft of the Italian treaty, now under consideration, Molotov said "we by no means feel that the just aspirations of Allied peoples have found a nadequate reflection in those drafts."

"But on the other hand," Molotov continued, "we cannot overlook the fact that at present the decisions of the council of foreign ministers are assailed by all sorts of reactionary elements who are stuffed with absurd anti-Soviet prejudice and who base their calculations on the frustration of the co-operation among the great powers. The drafts of peace treaties submitted to the conference deal a new blow to the efforts of these gentlemen."

Gromyko Flays Atomic Control Inspection Plan

Soviet Delegate Says Question Has Been "Exaggerated"

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, declared today that the question of inspections in control of atomic energy had been "greatly exaggerated in importance." He said the only real method of control is "by the co-operation of the United Nations."

The Soviet delegate spoke at length to members of the committee No. 2 of the United Nations Atomic Energy Committee at a closed meeting in which he dealt with phases of Russia's proposed plan for harnessing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. His remarks were made public by the United Nations press department.

The committee, in a three-hour meeting, decided to ask the Scientific and Technical committee, another branch of the commission, to hand in a report on the question whether effective control is possible and to indicate methods by which this control could be achieved. This action was taken on the suggestion of Alexandre Parodi, French delegate.

Gromyko made it clear that Russia feels the United Nations "and first and foremost the Security council" should have the responsibility of enforcing the convention that Russia has proposed for controlling atomic power.

U. S. Plan Not Mentioned

The Soviet delegate did not mention the United States plan specifically in his comments on inspections, but one of the cardinal points of the American proposal is for thorough and free right of inspection by agents of a proposed atomic development authority.

Gromyko said the proposed inspection plan is not reconcilable with the principles of sovereignty of states.

Besides ,he said "no inspection as such can guarantee peace and security."

"This idea of inspection of atomic energy is greatly exaggerated in importance," he added. "It is a

Russians Quizzed Two U. S. Officers

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—Two United States Army officers just released by the Russians said today they had been held for 27 days while the Soviets questioned them as suspected spies and refused to notify American authorities of their detention.

They said they were held most of the time at Soviet headquarters in Potsdam—during a time when the Russians officially told the United States command that they did not know where the pair was.

The officers, Capt. Harold Cobin, 53, New York, and Lt. George Wyatt, 23, Oklahoma City, were turned back to the American command early this morning.

They said the Russians questioned them daily and attempted to establish that they were secret agents. Once they said they were charged officially with being spies and were required to sign statements of denial.

Relating their experiences to a news conference, in the presence of United States Army staff and intelligence officers, the two men said the Russians repeatedly refused their requests that American authorities be notified. After the two were held for a full two weeks, Cobin said "they told us they would do so 'when your identity has been established.'"

On July 17 a United States Army public relations officer, announcing failure to locate the two officers, declared that Soviet authorities had said that "to the best of their knowledge," the men were not in the Russian zone.

Police Free Crippled Girl; Killing Of Stepfather Termed Justifiable

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 31 (AP)—A pretty, 19-year-old crippled girl, confined to a wheelchair since she was four, was released from police detention today after a prosecutor termed the fatal shooting and stabbing of her stepfather a justifiable homicide.

"It appears to be a case of self-defense," State's Attorney John W. Curren said of the shooting of Lawrence Barregarye, an electrician, last night on his 36th birthday anniversary.

"All indications point to justifiable killing."

Curren said there was no evidence to warrant filing any charge against Brunette Jacqueline Colburn but that he would present the case to the grand jury probably on Monday as a formality and "leave it to the jury's judgment."

The prosecutor said the girl, unable to walk, had told him in an unsigned transcribed statement that she had killed Barregarye in the latest episode of a long family quarrel after he knocked her from her wheelchair and yelled he was going to kill her.

Barregarye was arrested in 1940 and again in March on threat to kill charges after family quarrels, but the charges later were dismissed after reconciliations, Curren said. He added a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Barregarye on cruelty charges was pending.

Curren related Barregarye and the girl's mother had quarreled Saturday over the divorce proceeding and over money.

Arms Cache Is Found Under Tel Aviv Synagogue

Forged Bonds And Equipment For Making Them Are Discovered

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

TEL AVIV, Palestine, July 31—(AP)—British troops hunting for terrorists discovered an arms cache today beneath the great synagogue of Tel Aviv, the largest in all Palestine.

Equipment for forging government bonds and 20,000 forged £10 $(40) bonds also were found in the Jewish religious center, said a communique issued in Jerusalem.

A chaplain of the Church of England, the Rev. Harry Hyde of a British parachute brigade, accompanied the raiders. He said he went along just to see that the soldiers "didn't make a mess of things in the synagogue."

The communique said weapons, ammunition including dum-dum bullets and uniforms were found in the basement of the synagogue "all mixed up with bedding and religious literature."

Search Continues

Royal engineers were called to the synagogue on Allenby road in the heart of Tel Aviv, to hunt for further caches with mine detectors and automatic drills. The communique said "what appears to be a false wall in the synagogue is being investigated."

The search was watched by Maj. Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the city-wide hunt for terrorists; Lt. Col. L. H. Bennett Shaw, police superintendent of the Lydda district including Tel Aviv; and the city's mayor, Israel Rokach

The communique said the search through other sections of Tel Aviv had yielded nearly 500 bombs and grenades, five bangalore torpedoes, a wide assortment of rifle, revolver and tommygun magazines, many uniforms and helmets and large quantities of explosives and ammunition.

Also found were "military documents of identity x x x various documents and training manuals in Hebrew."

Statute Kept Coffee Check Case From Jury

SEN. MAGNUSON URGES PROBES TO INQUIRE INTO GEN. SOMERVELL

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) urged on the Senate floor tonight that the war investigating committee inquire into Gen. Brehon Somervell, wartime commander of the army service forces, saying that he "squandered practically $300,000,000 of American money with supreme arrogance."

The request came shortly after Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), summing up the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, demanded punitive measures against other army officers who, he said, "are easy in morals and careless in administration."

Magnuson said that his request was based upon his experience in dealing with Somervell in connection with the Alaskan highway and Canol oil projects. He said that so much secrecy was thrown around the latter that members of Congress could "hardly ask questions about it."

Inquiry Into Munitions Combine Produces New Repercussions

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, told the Senate War Investigating committee today that the case of a defense contractor's $2,500 payment to Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) would have been laid before a grand jury but for the statute of limitations.

Meanwhile there were fresh repercussions from the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, suspended temporarily during the Coffee hearings:

1. Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), of the committee, declared in a speech for delivery on the Senate floor that the military services "must take appropriate puntitive measures against officers who are easy in morals and careless in administration. The military uniform, in too many instances, has been changed from a cloak of honor and duty to a cloak of inconvenience and irresponsibility."

2. Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., a major Garsson unit, acknowledged "tangible net worth of $11,832 for its fiscal year ended November 30, 1943, when the War department contends it made $1,270,000 in "excessive profits." The company's statement contended, however, that the net worth figure "does not properly reflect the funds invested in and made available to petitioner by its principal stockholders." The report was filed in a United States tax court suit to bar the government from collecting a refund.

EX-GI WHO ADMITTED SLAYING SWEETHEART TO GET HEARING AUG. 5

CRISFIELD, Md., July 31. (AP)—State's Attorney Prentiss W. Evans announced today that a preliminary hearing for Ross J. Abbott, 24, charged with slaying his former sweetheart at a beach party, would be held before Trial Magistrate John S. Holland, August 5 at 8 p. m.

Evans said that Abbott admitted that he shot Pansy Lucille Twigg, 19, in a fit of jealousy, then said he was "sorry."

Abbott shot himself in the jaw after he fired several shots into the girl's body as she was swimming with friends, Evans said.

The state's attorney quoted Abbott, a veteran of the Italian campaign, as saying that the girl's family had been hostile to him as a suitor, and that she had stopped going with him.

NEW CLUE IN DEGNAN CASE IS BEING STUDIED

CHICAGO, July 31. (AP)—Investigators studied a possible new clue today in the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan as the state announced it was going ahead with plans to try William Heirens for that and the "lipstick" slaying of Frances Brown.

Experts in the police crime detection laboratory examined a stained hunting knife found in the Degnan neighborhood a day or two after the 6-year-old girl was killed and dismembered January 7. The knife was found on the elevated railroad tracks by an inspector who turned it over to investigators last night when he learned a search was being made for such a weapon.

Alvin Hansen, one of Heirens's attorneys, said he never had heard of the existence of such a knife.

Heirens will be arraigned on murder charges in the Degnan and Brown killings August 14 and State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said the state was ready to prosecute both cases.

Truman May Reject Plan For Palestine

President Calls U. S. Experts On Holy Land Home From London

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — President Truman today summoned American experts on Palestine to return home from London and there were reports he was dissatisfed with a British-approved plan to divided Palestine into four federal provinces.

The White House did not say what the president's attitude was, but officials in a position to know said he had tentatively decided against accepting the plan.

These officials, who cannot be named, said the plan had not been finally rejected but that the present proposals were regarded as unacceptable.

The president directed the American cabinet committee in London to return for review of the whole Palestine problem in detail. The Americans include Special Ambassador Henry F. Grady.

Secretary of State Byrnes was reported to share the president's view that the entire Palestine situation should be further explored in an effort to solve the question.

Britain Approves Plan

LONDON, July 31 (AP) — Britain announced today conditional approval of a plan to divide Palestine into four federal provinces, permit the immediate entry of 100,000 European Jews, and provide American aid to finance Arab economic development.

The plan, devised by British-American experts, would create a Jewish-dominated zone, an Arab-dominated zone, and two zones administered by the British-controlled central government. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison said it might lead to a trusteeship for Palestine.

He declared American co-operation was essential to put the plan as a whole into effect, and said the delegation of American experts had accepted it unanimously.

The plan suggests a "substantial grant" of American money for Arab economic development in Palestine and the Near East. The figure was not specified, but the British press estimated it at $300,000,000.

Would Admit 100,000 Jews

Each province could set its own immigration figures, and the experts said this would permit the influx of 100,000 European Jews. The Jewish province could admit Jewish immigrants, and the Arab province exclude them. The United States would be required to arrange sea transportation for 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

Morrison said Britain had hoped for quick acceptance of the proposals by President Truman, who this afternoon asked the American cabinet committee in London to return for a detailed review of the whole Palestine question.

If the United States does not accept, "we shall have to reconsider the position, particularly as regards the economic and financial implications," Morrison told the House of Commons. Dominions Secretary Lord Addison made a

ROCKET-PROPELLED TEST PLANE MAY HIT 1,500 MILES AN HOUR

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Ultimate speeds of "near 1,500 miles per hour at an altitude of 80,000 feet" were predicted tonight by the army air forces for a new rocket-propelled test plane.

It will make its first flight under power shortly at the Muroc army air field, California. Flights at supersonic speed, beyond 760 miles an hour, are not expected, however, before late next year.

The plane, designated the XS-1, is a joint project of the air forces, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and its builders, the Bell Aircraft Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Initial flights to be made by the Bell test pilot, Jack Woolams, will test only whether it meets contract specifications.

Described as a "flying test laboratory," the XS-1 will carry instruments to collect data on problems of breaking through what aircraft designers have referred to as a barrier around the speed of sound.

Board Decides To Begin Food Hearings Soon

Question Of Meat, Dairy Products Ceilings Will Be Decided

CENT-A-LOAF BREAD BOOST TO BE ASKED

Recommendation Will Be Submitted To OPA Chieftain Today

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — A recommendation for a cent-a-loaf bread increase and higher flour prices will be submitted to OPA Administrator Paul Porter tomorrow, a government official said tonight.

This official, who may not be identified by name, said the recommendation is based on a tentative decision against restoration of the flour subsidy at this time.

Meanwhile, the new price decontrol board announced that it expects to begin public hearings by August 12 on the question of whether price ceilings should be re-established August 21 on meats, dairy products, grains, cotton seed and soy beans.

The recommendation on bread and flour was prepared by OPA food price officials in consultation with agriculture department representatives. The approval of both Porter and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is required to put it into effect.

Subsidy Lapsed July 1

The flour subsidy lapsed July 1 and thus far there has been no compensating increase in ceilings on either flour or bread.

The subsidy was designed to hold down retail prices one-cent-a-loaf on bread and about one-cent-a-pound on wheat flour.

Officials said ceilings would be increased by at least these amounts if the subsidy is not revived with possibly a further hike on flour to offsett increases in wheat prices since ceilings on that grain lapsed July 1.

The tentative decision against resoration of the subsidy is contingent on the outcome of a study of OPA attorneys as to whether it may be paid again before August 20 when the decontrol board will decide whether to re-establish ceilings on wheat and other grains.

Roy L. Thompson, chairman of the three-man decontrol board, announced these decisions in a statement after conferences with Porter and Anderson.

The board plans to hold separate hearings on each of the five categories of commodities. Hearings are required under the new price control law.

Will Determine Procedures

Thompson said procedures for the hearings will be determined by next Tuesday. He added that representatives of agriculture, industry and consumer groups "will be notified immediately thereafter as to the dates of the hearings and the rules under which they will be held."

Thompson noted that under the OPA revival act, ceilings automatically will be re-established on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soy beans as well as hundreds of products made from these items unless the board acts by August 20.

The chairman said that when the board has made its determinations on these items, "we will then be ready to consider the second group of specifically decontrolled commodities, petroleum, poultry, eggs and leaf tobacco."

Unless the board acts to re-establish ceilings on these commodities after August 20, they will remain free from price control.

"The board," Thompson said, "will not consider the decontrol of any commodities that are not specifically decontrolled under the new law until the price administrator, in the case of non-agricultural commodities, or the secretary of agriculture in the case of agriculture commodities, have first thoroughly reviewed each case and ruled against decontrol of any commodity.

"Then and only then will the board consider the problem upon

Liner Halts In Mid-Ocean To Give Emergency Anti-Toxin To Troopship

BOSTON, July 31 (AP) — A crack passenger liner halted in mid-ocean today to give the American troopship Colby Victory emergency anti-toxin needed in checking an outbreak of diphtheria among 1,009 replacement troops bound for Germany.

One death from the disease was reported.

Just before noon army authorities at the New York port of embarkation said "no other cases have been reported."

In his original call for assistance last night reporting the death, the Colby Victory medical officer said "other patients are showing similar symptoms."

While all the troops were immunized against diphtheria before leaving New York Saturday for Bremerhaven, army doctors explained immunity "does not become effective until some time after the last injection."

The west-bound liner Brazil, en route from Cobh to New York with 531 commercial passengers, intercepted the troopship several hundred miles of Argentia, Nfld.

"SS Brazil merchant vessel passed on serum to SS Colby Victory," was the terse entry in the coast guard's log at Boston headquarters.

No details were given.

Just as the mercy ship was reported by the side of the transport, coast guard planes were flying medical supplies to to Argentia, preparatory to parachuting them to the Colby Victory.

Army medical records showed that that soldier-victim had received his last shot against diphtheria on

Terminal Pay Measure Sent To President

House Passes Bill By Voice Vote; Bond Provision Is Denounced

COMPENSATION WILL COST $3,000,000,000

Approval Follows Demands Next Congress Make Bonds Cashable

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—Amid bitter denunciation of the bond-payment provision, the House sent to President Truman today the $3,000,000,000 GI furlough pay bill.

Passage of the compromise measure, on which the House yielded to Senate insistence that the bulk of the payments be made in bonds payable in five years, was by voice vote and followed demands that the next Congress make the bonds cashable at once.

The legislation gives present and former enlisted personnel of the armed forces the same consideration that officers now receive in the matter of payment for furlough time not actually received—with the difference that officers receive theirs in cash and the GI's will get bonds unless their payments are below $50.

Payment Up To 120 Days

It provides for payment up to 120 days of accrued furlough time at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service. Payments are to be at the rate of base pay and longevity received at the time of discharge, plus a minimum subsistence allowance of 70 cents a day and an additional $1.25 a day for sergeants and some technicians with dependents.

All enlisted personnel of the army, the navy, the marine corps and the Coast guard who have served at any time since September 8, 1939, will receive the payments for the furlough time to which they were entitled but which they did not receive.

MOVE TO LIMIT SENATE DEBATE ON ANTI-POLL TAX MEASURE FAILS

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—An attempt to reach the anti-poll tax bill before Congress quits failed today when the Senate refused to limit debate.

That meant that southerners could filibuster to prevent a vote on the measure itself, and hence its chances went glimmering.

The count was 39 for applying the debate limitation rule, and 33 against, but a two-thirds majority is required. The Senate hasn't invoked the rule in 19 years.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) told reporters before the roll call:

"Everybody understands that if we can't get cloture (debate curbs) we can't get a vote (on the bill), no matter if we stay in session a month."

Congress tentatively is due to quit Friday. Southern foes could hold the floor that long if necessary as they have demonstrated in the past against legislation which would outlaw the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting in federal elections. Seven southern states have the tax.

Action Against Spain Is Urged By Molotov

Two-Thirds Majority Vote In Conference Is Favored By U. S.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, July 31 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov warned the 21-nation peace conference today that "preparations for fresh acts of aggression" were under way, and declared the wartime allies against fascism must act soon against the Franco regime in Spain —"this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini."

The Russian statesman addressed the conference soon after it became known that the United States would support the Soviet Union in its effort to establish a two-thirds voting majority as the standard for reaching decisions in this conference.

It will, however, carry this proviso: That in the event any substantive proposal fails to secure a two-thirds majority in the assembly, it should be sent back to the Big Four council of foreign ministers, along with the record of the vote and a request that it be given special consideration by the Big Four.

Molotov's address expressed hopes for future peace, but he struck out hard at the Spanish regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"The time must not be too distant," he declared, "when democratic countries will be able to help the Spanish people, who groan under Franco's regime, to put an end to this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini, which is dangerous to the cause of peace."

Speaking in Russian, he said the nations which went to war on the side of Hitler must be punished for "crimes of their ruling circles," and added that any refusal to defend the legitimate rights of states which suffered from Fascist aggression "can only play into the hands of those who are engaged in preparation for fresh acts of aggression in pursuit of predatory and imperialistic ends."

He said that "at any rate," the interests of all freedom-loving peoples "demand that we bring to an end the fight against fascism which is the most dangerous aggressor in our time."

Refers To Italian Treaty Draft

Apparently referring to the fact that Yugoslavia was not awarded Trieste by the Big Four council's draft of the Italian treaty, now under consideration, Molotov said "we by no means feel that the just aspirations of Allied peoples have found a nadequate reflection in those drafts."

"But on the other hand," Molotov continued, "we cannot overlook the fact that at present the decisions of the council of foreign ministers are assailed by all sorts of reactionary elements who are stuffed with absurd anti-Soviet prejudice and who base their calculations on the frustration of the co-operation among the great powers. The drafts of peace treaties submitted to the conference deal a new blow to the efforts of these gentlemen."

AMERICAN SHIP SUNK IN CRASH

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—(Thursday—(AP)—Air-sea rescue facilities of the coast guard said today the merchant ship American Farmer was sunk last night in a collision with the William J. Riddle, another American vessel. All persons aboard were rescued.

An earlier report by the Radiomarine Corporation of America, a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, said the Farmer was sunk in collision with the American Trader. The coast guard said, however, it was the William J. Riddle instead of the American Trader.

A message from the Riddle said the American Farmer was struck in its number two hatch at 11:56 p. m. (Greenwich mean Time) (7:56 p. m., EDT). The Riddle said it had taken aboard all personnel from the Farmer, including its master.

The accident scene was about 400 miles west of the British coast.

The coast guard said the Riddle was waiting until daylight to determine the extent of its damage, which was at the water line.

Meanwhile, two other vessels were standing by to offer assistance if needed. They were the Edward T. Ripley and the Benjamin Goodhue, the coast guard said.

Gromyko Flays Atomic Control Inspection Plan

Soviet Delegate Says Question Has Been "Exaggerated"

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, declared today that the question of inspections in control of atomic energy had been "greatly exaggerated in importance." He said the only real method of control is "by the co-operation of the United Nations."

The Soviet delegate spoke at length to members of the committee No. 2 of the United Nations Atomic Energy Committee at a closed meeting in which he dealt with phases of Russia's proposed plan for harnessing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. His remarks were made public by the United Nations press department.

The committee, in a three-hour meeting, decided to ask the Scientific and Technical committee, another branch of the commission, to hand in a report on the question whether effective control is possible and to indicate methods by which this control could be achieved. This action was taken on the suggestion of Alexandre Parodi, French delegate.

Gromyko made it clear that Russia feels the United Nations "and first and foremost the Security council" should have the responsibility of enforcing the convention that Russia has proposed for controlling atomic power.

U. S. Plan Not Mentioned

The Soviet delegate did not mention the United States plan specifically in his comments on inspections, but one of the cardinal points of the American proposal is for thorough and free right of inspection by agents of a proposed atomic development authority.

Gromyko said the proposed inspection plan is not reconcilable with the principles of sovereignty of states.

Besides, he said "no inspection as such can guarantee peace and security."

"This idea of inspection of atomic energy is greatly exaggerated in importance," he added. "It is a

Police Free Crippled Girl; Killing Of Stepfather Termed Justifiable

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 31 (AP)—A pretty, 19-year-old crippled girl, confined to a wheelchair since she was four, was released from police detention today after a prosecutor termed the fatal shooting and stabbing of her stepfather a justifiable homicide.

"It appears to be a case of self-defense," State's Attorney John W. Curren said of the shooting of Lawrence Barregarye, an electrician, last night on his 36th birthday anniversary.

"All indications point to justifiable killing."

Curren said there was no evidence to warrant filing any charge against Brunette Jacqueline Colburn but that he would present the case to the grand jury probably on Monday as a formality and "leave it to the jury's judgment."

The prosecutor said the girl, unable to walk, had told him in an unsigned transcribed statement that she had killed Barregarye in the latest episode of a long family quarrel after he knocked her from her wheelchair and yelled he was going to kill her.

Barregarye was arrested in 1940 and again in March on threat to kill charges after family quarrels, but the charges later were dismissed after reconciliations, Curren said. He added a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Barregarye on cruelty charges was pending.

Curren related Barregarye and the girl's mother had quarreled Saturday over the divorce proceeding and over money.

Arms Cache Is Found Under Tel Aviv Synagogue

Forged Bonds And Equipment For Making Them Are Discovered

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

TEL AVIV, Palestine, July 31—(AP)—British troops hunting for terrorists discovered an arms cache today beneath the great synagogue of Tel Aviv, the largest in all Palestine.

Equipment for forging government bonds and 20,000 forged £10 $(40) bonds also were found in the Jewish religious center, said a communique issued in Jerusalem.

A chaplain of the Church of England, the Rev. Harry Hyde of a British parachute brigade, accompanied the raiders. He said he went along just to see that the soldiers "didn't make a mess of things in the synagogue."

The communique said weapons, ammunition including dum-dum bullets and uniforms were found in the basement of the synagogue "all mixed up with bedding and religious literature."

Search Continues

Royal engineers were called to the synagogue on Allenby road in the heart of Tel Aviv, to hunt for further caches with mine detectors and automatic drills. The communique said "what appears to be a false wall in the synagogue is being investigated."

The search was watched by Maj. Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the city-wide hunt for terrorists; Lt. Col. L. H. Bennett Shaw, police superintendent of the Lydda district including Tel Aviv; and the city's mayor, Israel Rokach

The communique said the search through other sections of Tel Aviv had yielded nearly 500 bombs and grenades, five bangalore torpedoes, a wide assortment of rifle, revolver and tommygun magazines, many uniforms and helmets and large quantities of explosives and ammunition.

Also found were "military documents of identity x x x various documents and training manuals in Hebrew."

Russians Quizzed Two U. S. Officers

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—Two United States Army officers just released by the Russians said today they had been held for 27 days while the Soviets questioned them as suspected spies and refused to notify American authorities of their detention.

They said they were held most of the time at Soviet headquarters in Potsdam—during a time when the Russians officially told the United States command that they did not know where the pair was.

The officers, Capt. Harold Cobin, 53, New York, and Lt. George Wyatt, 23, Oklahoma City, were turned back to the American command early this morning.

They said the Russians questioned them daily and attempted to establish that they were secret agents. Once they said they were charged officially with being spies and were required to sign statements of denial.

Relating their experiences to a news conference, in the presence of United States Army staff and intelligence officers, the two men said the Russians repeatedly refused their requests that American authorities be notified. After the two were held for a full two weeks, Cobin said "they told us they would do so 'when your identity has been established.'"

On July 17 a United States Army public relations officer, announcing failure to locate the two officers, declared that Soviet authorities had said that "to the best of their knowledge," the men were not in the Russian zone.

Statute Kept Coffee Check Case From Jury

SEN. MAGNUSON URGES PROBES TO INQUIRE INTO GEN. SOMERVELL

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) urged on the Senate floor tonight that the war investigating committee inquire into Gen. Brehon Somervell, wartime commander of the army service forces, saying that he "squandered practically $300,000,000 of American money with supreme arrogance."

The request came shortly after Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), summing up the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, demanded punitive measures against other army officers who, he said, "are easy in morals and careless in administration."

Magnuson said that his request was based upon his experience in dealing with Somervell in connection with the Alaskan highway and Canol oil projects. He said that so much secrecy was thrown around the latter that members of Congress could "hardly ask questions about it."

Inquiry Into Munitions Combine Produces New Repercussions

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, told the Senate War Investigating committee today that the case of a defense contractor's $2,500 payment to Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) would have been laid before a grand jury but for the statute of limitations.

Meanwhile there were fresh repercussions from the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, suspended temporarily during the Coffee hearings:

1. Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), of the committee, declared in a speech for delivery on the Senate floor that the military services "must take appropriate puntitive measures against officers who are easy in morals and careless in administration. The military uniform, in too many instances, has been changed from a cloak of honor and duty to a cloak of inconvenience and irresponsibility."

2. Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., a major Garsson unit, acknowledged "tangible net worth of $11,832 for its fiscal year ended November 30, 1943, when the War department contends it made $1,270,000 in "excessive profits." The company's statement contended, however, that the net worth figure "does not properly reflect the funds invested in and made available to petitioner by its principal stockholders." The report was filed in a United States tax court suit to bar the government from collecting a refund.

EX-GI WHO ADMITTED SLAYING SWEETHEART TO GET HEARING AUG. 5

CRISFIELD, Md., July 31. (AP)—State's Attorney Prentiss W. Evans announced today that a preliminary hearing for Ross J. Abbott, 24, charged with slaying his former sweetheart at a beach party, would be held before Trial Magistrate John S. Holland, August 5 at 8 p. m.

Evans said that Abbott admitted that he shot Pansy Lucille Twigg, 19, in a fit of jealousy, then said he was "sorry."

Abbott shot himself in the jaw after he fired several shots into the girl's body as she was swimming with friends, Evans said.

The state's attorney quoted Abbott, a veteran of the Italian campaign, as saying that the girl's family had been hostile to him as a suitor, and that she had stopped going with him.

NEW CLUE IN DEGNAN CASE IS BEING STUDIED

CHICAGO, July 31. (AP)—Investigators studied a possible new clue today in the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan as the state announced it was going ahead with plans to try William Heirens for that and the "lipstick" slaying of Frances Brown.

Experts in the police crime detection laboratory examined a stained hunting knife found in the Degnan neighborhood a day or two after the 6-year-old girl was killed and dismembered January 7. The knife was found on the elevated railroad tracks by an inspector who turned it over to investigators last night when he learned a search was being made for such a weapon.

Alvin Hansen, one of Heirens's attorneys, said he never had heard of the existence of such a knife.

Heirens will be arraigned on murder charges in the Degnan and Brown killings August 14 and State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said the state was ready to prosecute both cases.

Truman May Reject Plan For Palestine

President Calls U. S. Experts On Holy Land Home From London

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — President Truman today summoned American experts on Palestine to return home from London and there were reports he was dissatisfed with a British-approved plan to divided Palestine into four federal provinces.

The White House did not say what the president's attitude was, but officials in a position to know said he had tentatively decided against accepting the plan.

These officials, who cannot be named, said the plan had not been finally rejected but that the present proposals were regarded as unacceptable.

The president directed the American cabinet committee in London to return for review of the whole Palestine problem in detail. The Americans include Special Ambassador Henry F. Grady.

Secretary of State Byrnes was reported to share the president's view that the entire Palestine situation should be further explored in an effort to solve the question.

Britain Approves Plan

LONDON, July 31 (AP) — Britain announced today conditional approval of a plan to divide Palestine into four federal provinces, permit the immediate entry of 100,000 European Jews, and provide American aid to finance Arab economic development.

The plan, devised by British-American experts, would create a Jewish-dominated zone, an Arab-dominated zone, and two zones administered by the British-controlled central government. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison said it might lead to a trusteeship for Palestine.

He declared American co-operation was essential to put the plan as a whole into effect, and said the delegation of American experts had accepted it unanimously.

The plan suggests a "substantial grant" of American money for Arab economic development in Palestine and the Near East. The figure was not specified, but the British press estimated it at $300,000,000.

Would Admit 100,000 Jews

Each province could set its own immigration figures, and the experts said this would permit the influx of 100,000 European Jews. The Jewish province could admit Jewish immigrants, and the Arab province exclude them. The United States would be required to arrange sea transportation for 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

Morrison said Britain had hoped for quick acceptance of the proposals by President Truman, who this afternoon asked the American cabinet committee in London to return for a detailed review of the whole Palestine question.

If the United States does not accept, "we shall have to reconsider the position, particularly as regards the economic and financial implications," Morrison told the House of Commons. Dominions Secretary Lord Addison made a

ROCKET-PROPELLED TEST PLANE MAY HIT 1,500 MILES AN HOUR

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Ultimate speeds of "near 1,500 miles per hour at an altitude of 80,000 feet" were predicted tonight by the army air forces for a new rocket-propelled test plane.

It will make its first flight under power shortly at the Muroc army air field, California. Flights at supersonic speed, beyond 760 miles an hour, are not expected, however, before late next year.

The plane, designated the XS-1, is a joint project of the air forces, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and its builders, the Bell Aircraft Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Initial flights to be made by the Bell test pilot, Jack Woolams, will test only whether it meets contract specifications.

Described as a "flying test laboratory," the XS-1 will carry instruments to collect data on problems of breaking through what aircraft designers have referred to as a barrier around the speed of sound.

Board Decides To Begin Food Hearings Soon

Question Of Meat, Dairy Products Ceilings Will Be Decided

CENT-A-LOAF BREAD BOOST TO BE ASKED

Recommendation Will Be Submitted To OPA Chieftain Today

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — A recommendation for a cent-a-loaf bread increase and higher flour prices will be submitted to OPA Administrator Paul Porter tomorrow, a government official said tonight.

This official, who may not be identified by name, said the recommendation is based on a tentative decision against restoration of the flour subsidy at this time.

Meanwhile, the new price decontrol board announced that it expects to begin public hearings by August 12 on the question of whether price ceilings should be re-established August 21 on meats, dairy products, grains, cotton seed and soy beans.

The recommendation on bread and flour was prepared by OPA food price officials in consultation with agriculture department representatives. The approval of both Porter and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is required to put it into effect.

Subsidy Lapsed July 1

The flour subsidy lapsed July 1 and thus far there has been no compensating increase in ceilings on either flour or bread.

The subsidy was designed to hold down retail prices one-cent-a-loaf on bread and about one-cent-a-pound on wheat flour.

Officials said ceilings would be increased by at least these amounts if the subsidy is not revived with possibly a further hike on flour to offsett increases in wheat prices since ceilings on that grain lapsed July 1.

The tentative decision against resoration of the subsidy is contingent on the outcome of a study of OPA attorneys as to whether it may be paid again before August 20 when the decontrol board will decide whether to re-establish ceilings on wheat and other grains.

Roy L. Thompson, chairman of the three-man decontrol board, announced these decisions in a statement after conferences with Porter and Anderson.

The board plans to hold separate hearings on each of the five categories of commodities. Hearings are required under the new price control law.

Will Determine Procedures

Thompson said procedures for the hearings will be determined by next Tuesday. He added that representatives of agriculture, industry and consumer groups "will be notified immediately thereafter as to the dates of the hearings and the rules under which they will be held."

Thompson noted that under the OPA revival act, ceilings automatically will be re-established on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soy beans as well as hundreds of products made from these items unless the board acts by August 20.

The chairman said that when the board has made its determinations on these items, "we will then be ready to consider the second group of specifically decontrolled commodities, petroleum, poultry, eggs and leaf tobacco."

Unless the board acts to re-establish ceilings on these commodities after August 20, they will remain free from price control.

"The board," Thompson said, "will not consider the decontrol of any commodities that are not specifically decontrolled under the new law until the price administrator, in the case of non-agricultural commodities, or the secretary of agriculture in the case of agriculture commodities, have first thoroughly reviewed each case and ruled against decontrol of any commodity.

"Then and only then will the board consider the problem upon

Liner Halts In Mid-Ocean To Give Emergency Anti-Toxin To Troopship

BOSTON, July 31 (AP) — A crack passenger liner halted in mid-ocean today to give the American troopship Colby Victory emergency anti-toxin needed in checking an outbreak of diphtheria among 1,009 replacement troops bound for Germany.

One death from the disease was reported.

Just before noon army authorities at the New York port of embarkation said "no other cases have been reported."

In his original call for assistance last night reporting the death, the Colby Victory medical officer said "other patients are showing similar symptoms."

While all the troops were immunized against diphtheria before leaving New York Saturday for Bremerhaven, army doctors explained immunity "does not become effective until some time after the last injection."

The west-bound liner Brazil, en route from Cobh to New York with 531 commercial passengers, intercepted the troopship several hundred miles of Argentia, Nfld.

"SS Brazil merchant vessel passed on serum to SS Colby Victory," was the terse entry in the coast guard's log at Boston headquarters.

No details were given.

Just as the mercy ship was reported by the side of the transport, coast guard planes were flying medical supplies to to Argentia, preparatory to parachuting them to the Colby Victory.

Army medical records showed that that soldier-victim had received his last shot against diphtheria on

McKellar, Dean Of Senate, Bids For Sixth Term

Septuagenarian Opposes CIO-PAC Backed Candidate In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 31. (AP)—Septuagenarian Kenneth D. McKellar, dean and presiding officer of the United States Senate, bids for a sixth senatorial term against a CIO-PAC backed candidate tomorrow in a Tennessee Democratic primary short on issues but long on personalities.

Principal opponent of the 77-year-old McKellar is Edward Ward Carmack, 46, the CIO committee's choice and himself the son and namesake of a one-time United States senator from Tennessee. Carmack's father was slain on a Nashville street 38 years ago by a pistol-wielding political foe.

Carmack Lost In 1944

Two years ago Carmack challenged Tennessee's junior senator, Tom Stewart, and lost. He rolled up to the Shelby county (Memphis) line with a state-wide lead of 17,000, but was snowed under by the potent Edward H. Crump Democratic organization, which backed Stewart then and is supporting McKellar, as usual, in tomorrow's primary. The senior senator's close political ties with Crump extend over a 30-odd year span since McKellar first went to the Senate.

Upwards of 300,000 voters, including the usual small proportion of negroes, are expected to ballot in both Democratic and Republican primaries tomorrow to select nominees also for governor, ten congressional seats and state utilities commissioner. In state-wide contests Democratic nominees usually win election in November.

McKellar, tied down in Washington by his senatorial duties, did not make a campaign appearance at home. However, he did take the Senate floor once to toss the "lie" wrathfully at a couple of his critics.

Crump Backs Governor

Carmack has made a long and active stumping campaign. Early he received the indorsement of the CIO-PAC which has been made a basic issue by the McKellar forces.

Crump also is backing incumbent Democratic Gov. Jim Nance McCord, former auctioneer, for a second two-year term. McCord's principal opponent is former Gov. Gordon Browning who was qualified by friends and who allowed his name on the ballot despite his absence in Berlin as a lieutenant colonel in the army civil affairs section.

Only seven of the state's ten congressional seats are contested. In the Republican First district five candidates are scrambling for the vacancy left by Rep. B. Carroll Reece, new Republican national chairman.

ACCUSED—Mrs. Nellie Stoneburner, 26, shown holding her 16-month-old daughter, Jane Ellen, is being held at Frederick, Md., under $2,000 bond on technical charges of assault and battery. She is accused of keeping a 2½-year-old son by a former marriage tied to a couch in a dark room. Mrs. Stoneburner told authorities she kept the child tied because he was not "housebroken."

Couple Accused Of Keeping Child Tied In Dark Room

FREDERICK, Md., July 31 (AP)—Accused by a probation officer of keeping a 2½-year-old boy tied to a couch in a dark room, William and Nellie Stoneburner, of near Burkittsville, were held today under $2,000 bond each on technical charges of assault and battery, State's Attorney Edwin F. Nikirk reported.

Mrs. William C. Roderick, Frederick county probation officer who obtained a warrant for the couple's arrest, said the child, Billy was treated at the county emergency hospital for bruises on his arm and body.

Billy, she said, is Mrs. Stoneburner's son by a former marriage. He was placed in a foster home where he will be maintained by the Children's Aid Society pending the outcome of the case.

Mrs. Roderick said she would file a petition tomorrow in juvenile court seeking custody of the boy and of the couple's 1½-year-old daughter.

State's Attorney Nikirk said Stoneburner, who is 27, was in jail in default of bond. Mrs. Stoneburner, 26, was under custody at the Frederick county home, where she was being kept in order to remain with her infant daughter, he said.

Mrs. Roderick reported she discovered the boy's situation while investigating a complaint.

The boy was bruised and looked thin, pale, and listless, the probation officer said. She declared Mrs. Stoneburner told authorities she kept Billy tied because he was not "housebroken." The room in which the child was kept, Mrs. Roderick stated, was dark and unused.

"BORDER DISPUTE" IS AVERTED BY OLD LINE AND KEYSTONE STATES

CARDIFF, Md., July 31 (AP)—What might have developed into a "border dispute" has been settled amicably between Pennsylvania and Maryland but the gasoline station involved, sitting astride the state line, is no beneficiary.

It'll go right on paying gasoline taxes—though not to Pennsylvania, as it has done for nine years, but now to Maryland collectors.

And all because surveyors discovered two of the station's three pumps were in Maryland, with the third neatly bisected by the boundary.

Pennsylvania agreed to the tax switch, retroactive to October 1, 1943, and Maryland promised to forget about her neighbor's collection of back taxes from the station, Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker reported.

G-Men Launch Investigation Of Ku Klux Klan

Justice Department Discloses Inquiry Under Way In Seven States

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—G-men are investigating the Ku Klux Klan in seven states, the Justice department disclosed today.

The inquiry, directed by Attorney General Clark, a Texan, is being conducted by the department's civil rights section assisted by the FBI. The seven states are: New York, Michigan, Tennessee, Florida, California, Mississippi and Georgia.

The department promised swift criminal prosecution if violations of federal law are uncovered. And if federal statutes do not cover any criminal acts which may be discovered, the evidence will be turned over to state authorities where they request it.

The government is concerned principally with possible violations of federal election laws and of two civil rights statutes. One of these makes it illegal to conspire to deprive a person of his civil rights. The other makes it a federal offense for any state official, such as a deputy sheriff, to use his official power in such a way as to deprive an individual of rights guaranteed by the constitution.

Although the investigation now is confined to seven states, complaints are pouring in from all sections of the country about renewed Klan activities, the department said. It added that this does not necessarily indicate that the hooded order is operating throughout the nation since many complaints from the North and West are directed against alleged Klan activities in the South.

Most of the protests come from individuals, labor unions and civil rights societies. Complaints which name individuals allegedly involved in Klan activities are turned over to the FBI which makes investigations for the civil rights section.

The department said the Klan investigation began several weeks before Clark, in an address at Philadelphia May 18, threatened prosecution of the Klan as a civil liberties foe.

Speaking before the national conference on citizenship, Clark singled out the Klan as an example of "organized bigotry." He declared that all "federal laws at my command x x x will be enforced to the very limit in stamping out any organization or group which aims at extermination of our priceless civil liberties."

Ford Declines Union's Invitation To Attend Production Conference

DETROIT, July 31 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company tonight declined an invitation to attend a meeting with the CIO-United Auto Workers Union to consider means of increasing car production, which the industry maintains has been retarded by strikes in supplier plants.

The invitation had been issued to all car makers by Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO president, who proposed a conference on August 2.

In a letter to Reuther, Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Company, suggested that "the UAW-CIO do something about current strikes in 16 plants supplying our company." Asserting that employes of these plants were represented by the UAW-CIO, Ford added:

"At this moment any or all of these strikes threaten to close us down at Ford. x x x You and your union could make a genuine contribution to automobile production by bringing about the resumption of work in these plants."

Thus far only the Kaiser-Fraser Corporation and Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., have accepted the Reuther invitation. Neither General Motors nor Chrysler, which with Ford comprise the industry's "big three," has yet replied.

In a statement issued simultaneously at the Ford offices, a number of the current supplies strikes were listed. Most critical were declared to be those the Federal Bearings Company, Inc., Pougkeepsie, N. Y., and its subsidiary, Waterbury Steel Ball Company manufacturers of ball bearings; Firestone Rubber and Metal Products division at Wyandotte, Mich., makers of truck wheel rims, and Dura division of the Detroit Harvester Company, Toledo, which makes Ford window regulators, top lifting devises for convertibles and ventilator handle assemblies for Ford.

BRAZILIAN LINER IS TOWED TOWARD PORT FOLLOWING EXPLOSION

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 31. (AP)—The liner Duque De Caxias, pride of the Brazilian transport fleet, was towed slowly toward this port tonight after a boiler explosion set her afire, killing ten crewmen and imperiling 1,060 passengers.

The 11,063-ton vessel, until 1944 the United States liner Orizaba, was devastated by flames before dawn six miles off the coast. The 28-year-old veteran of the seas had served in the invasion of Sicily and in Pacific campaigns and had helped succor survivors of the British liner Athenia, first victim of German sumarines in World War II. She went to Brazil on lend-lease.

Several passengers were injured before the British merchantman Dover Hill and Brazilian warships saved them. Three submarine chasers brought 672 survivors to Rio De Janeiro and the Dover Hill was expected to dock before midnight.

The 300 crewmen of the Duque De Caxias remained aboard and, with the help of 17 warships, three merchantment and two planes, beat down the flames and kept them from eating to the oil stores. The navy said that prevented total destruction.

Maryland's Crop Picture Improves

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—Maryland's pastures and most crops improved under rains last week but more precipitation will be needed in the western part of the state, the Commerce department said today in its weekly weather and crop report.

The department estimated about 35 per cent of the state's tomato crop would be destroyed by blight raging from the Southern Eastern shore to Emmitsburg.

Maryland's tomato pack is about one-fourth of the total United States output, the department said.

Wicomico, Worcester, and Somerset counties are expected to suffer heaviest losses due to the disease, ranging from 75 to 90 per cent.

The department also spoke of a possibility that cantaloupe and cucumber crops would be heavily damaged by a sudden outbreak of dawn mildew disease.

Untouched by these troubles are potato crops, with early plants satisfactory around Emmitsburg and late plants shaping up well in Western Maryland, the department reported.

A "good" crop of peas has been harvested in the Allegheny mountain region, it added.

SPARKMAN HAS CLEAR MAJORITY IN ALABAMA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 31 (AP)—Late returns from the Democratic primary for the Senate seat of the late John H. Bankhead today gave Rep. John J. Sparkman, the ex-tenant farm boy, a clear majority over four opponents.

The few missing boxes were scattered throughout the state, and election officials said indications were that the offical canvass August 8 by the state Democratic executive committee would be necessary to determine if a runoff will be held August 27 between Sparkman and the second man, State Sen. James A. Simpson, Birmingham.

With 2,197 of the 2,360 boxes tabulated, the count was:

Sparkman 81,842; Simpson 45,211; Rep. Frank Boykin, Mobile, 34,769; Ted Allen, Union Springs, 1,049; and Thomas H. Maxwell, Tuscaloosa, 510.

MARYLAND RELATIVELY FREE FROM VETERAN TRAINING RACKETEERING

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—W. L. Limburg, Veterans' Administration regional manager with headquarters here, disclosed today that although Maryland has been relatively free from racketeering by unscrupulous employers and promoters of fake schools to educate and train veterans, abuses have occurred.

He said subsistence pay of approximately 100 veterans, who enrolled in educational institutions or were being trained by Maryland establishments, had been cut off.

Upon discovery of an abuse in its program of offering veterans a proper and adequate course of education and training designed to fit them for well-paying jobs and ultimate self-sufficiency, the VA's major recourse is to withdraw the subsistence pay.

Educational institutions and commercial, agricultural, industrial, financial and miscellaneous establishments found guilty of abuses are discredited. Such action makes veterans enrolled or employed by these agencies ineligible for subsistence payments.

Smaller Nation's Champion

Evatt has championed the cause of smaller nations for a greater voice in the proceedings and has battled to establish the simple majority rule.

Evatt also took issue with the Big Four on the problem of the former Italian colonies, whose disposition, he contended, should rest not alone with the major powers, but "with all those countries which, like Australia and the British dominions, have through their great losses and sacrifices in liberating such territories, earned a vital interest in their future disposal or administration."

He attacked the reparations proposals before the conference as tending to assure Russia "a privileged position in the future direction of the trade and economic life of all the countries contributing reparations."

Molotov said that the views of all the 21 nations could be expressed freely at the conference and would be "heard with due respect," and that "the view of the states which are former satellites of Germany also will be heard."

Thompson asked all industries not covered by specifically decontrolled commodities to "refrain from contacting the board."

He said the "work load of handling these requests at this time might tend to hamper the board in its efforts to speedily get on with its first job, which must be accomplished by August 20."

In the case of meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soy beans, Thompson said that under the law these commodities will not be recontrolled after August 20 unless the board finds that:

1. Their prices have risen unreasonably above a price equal to the ceiling in effect June 30, plus the amount of any subsidy payable as of June 29.

2. They are in short supply and their regulation is practicable and enforceable.

3. The public interest will be served by regulation.

OPA today ground out the first of many increases required under the new price control law—an average six per cent boost in retail ceilings on farm machinery and replacement parts.

The agency has granted scores of price hikes since its rebirth, but all of these had been pending when the old law lapsed July 1. They were calculated under terms of the previous act.

The farm machinery increase was the first official pricing action under the law passed last week reviving OPA. The increase meets a new requirement that the profit margins of dealers in this equipment be restored to peacetime levels.

simultaneous announcement to the House of Lords.

Both warned that "the situation in Palestine will not brook delay," and said Britain, accepting the proposal as a basis for negotiation, was going ahead with plans to confer with Arabs and Jews. They appealed to Holy Land communities to consider it, for "the world is weary of this senseless strife of Jew and Arab."

Boundaries Undetermined

Boundaries for the four zones have not yet been determined exactly, but this would be the rough outline:

1. Jewish zone—Most of the highly-developed industrial Jewish settlements, including Tel Aviv, and other areas already populated by Jews.

2. Jerusalem zone—The ancient shrines of the holy city and Bethlehem with their surrounding territories with both Jewish and Arab inhabitants, to be administered by the central government.

3. The Negeb or south country—a largely uninhabited arid triangle with its apex on the Gulf of Aqaba and bounded by the Sinai desert, Trans-Jordania, and Saudi Arabia. For the time being the central government would administer this region, in which a few Jews settled under provisions of the 1940 land transfer regulations.

4. Arab zone—The rest of the country. Morrison said this would be "almost wholly Arab in both land and population."

Jewish and Arab leaders have protested the proposed division, and some declared Jews and Arabs would refuse to sit in conference with each other.

Earlier today, the foreign office announced that Saudi Arabia had accepted an invitation to a round-table conference on Palestine. It and the six other Arab League states were invited, but an informant said invitations had not been sent to Palestine Arabs and Jews because the basis of their representation had not been defined yet.

whose benefits do not exceed $50, to those discharged prior to January 1, 1943, and to the estates of those who have died since their discharge.

All others will be paid in special bonds bearing two and one-half per cent interest annually and maturing five years after the date of discharge. For some men the maturity date will be next year.

The bonds will bear the likeness of the late Carter Glass, senator from Virginia and secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson.

The bonds will be issued in denominations of $25, with cash being paid for odd amounts. They will not be negotiable but could be used for conversion of government life insurance or for payment of loans on the insurance.

House Finds Itself On Spot

The legislation fixes a maximum of 60 days of furlough pay that may be accrued and paid for after next August 31.

The House had insisted all along that the payments be made entirely in cash, but found itself in the position of endangering the entire bill if it did not give in to the Senate's bond proposal, which was advanced in that chamber as an anti-inflation plan.

"It's either this or nothing," Rep. Thomason (D-Tex), one of the House conferees who worked out the compromise, told the House.

Member after member rose to object to the bond plan.

Republicans stressed that the administration did not consider it inflationary to lend Great Britain $3,750,000,000, and Republicans and Democrats alike complained that no one thought it would be inflationary to pay cash to officers.

Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D-Fla), co-author of the original legislation, announced that he would introduce at the start of the new Congress a bill to redeem the bonds in cash.

Republican Leader Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts, also predicted that the new Congress would be asked to order the immediate payment of the bonds.

Arms Cache

munique also announced that "one British soldier was accidentally shot and killed during the night."

(Jerusalem officials announced that an illegal arms dump containing 30 Polish hand grenades, 69 grenade igniters and more than 3,000 rounds of ammunition was confiscated by police in Ataroth, a Jewish settlement five miles north of Jerusalem.)

Chaplain Hyde said he had "found Company C working near the synagogue and, as it is a place of worship, I came along to see that due formalities were observed."

On the way in," the chaplain said, "one of my boys happened to glance through a ventilator into the basement and saw a number of kit bags, which made him suspicious We found a locked iron door to part of the sub-basement and finally located, three blocks away, a man with the key."

The search of the synagogue was made in the second day of the British army's combing of this modern Jewish city of 200,000 for the men who bombed the British army headquarters and Palestine government secretariat at the King David hotel in Jerusalem, with a toll of 111 persons dead or missing.

Arrests totaled 466 persons. A rigid curfew kept residents indoors except for a two-hour shopping period, from 5 to 7 p. m.

Col. Shaw said "we don't believe we've caught any big fish yet, but we are only half through with the search."

Thirteen persons suspected of membership in Irgun Zvai Leumi or the Stern gang, Jewish underground organizations, were among those held.

The only civilian casualty in the search of the whole city so far has been, paradoxically, an Arab, a military officer said. He was wounded by a rifle bullet, they said, "after failing to heed a severe warning to return to his house" during widespread curfew-breaking in Tel Aviv's Oriental quarter, inhabited by Yemenite Jews and Arabs.

too superficial understanding of the problem of control."

Declaring that the only real method of control is "by the cooperation of the United Nations," the Russian delegate said that thus the main condition for the maintenance of international peace and security is international co-operation.

"But," he said, the Soviet proposal goes further and provides for the signatory states (states signing the convention proposed by Russia) to enact legislation providing severe punishment for the violation of the convention."

International Action

"The Soviet proposal," he continued, "presupposes also international action and if necessary sanctions for violations of the convention. The Soviet proposal provides that the United Nations, and first and foremost, the Security council shall take international action to insure the maintenance of those provisions of the charter which deal with international peace and security and therefore also with the enforcement of the convention."

Apparently referring to the United States insistence on its plan, Gromyko said:

"We are told in the Atomic Energy Commission that either you accept our plan or we will refuse to conclude a convention to prohibit the production and use of atomic weapons. This attitude is neither right nor lawful. Public opinion and the peoples of the world will not understand the reasons for refusing to conclude a convention as proposed by the Soviet government."

Russia has proposed an international treaty outlawing atomic weapons, calling for the destruction of atomic bombs within three months after the convention becomes effective and for the enactment of legislation by the signatory states providing penalties for violations of the convention.

Tacoma, Wash., declared was for "services"—was made five years ago.

McGranery testified that the transaction first came to his attention last March but then it was too late to proceed on account of a law barring prosecutions after three years.

Otherwise, he declared, he would have submitted the evidence to a grand jury. He did not particularize as to what law might have been violated or against whom charges might have been filed.

He told the committee, however, that so far as the recipient of a campaign gift from a contractor is concerned, "you can receive one and not be guilty of anything."

But he declared there is "no question Anderson was guilty of a violation of the law" and called his affidavit "in effect the confession of a crime."

Giving the money, McGranery told the committee, was illegal whether as payment for services or as a campaign contribution, but "if paid for services rendered it might be a crime on somebody else's part also."

Coffee took the witness stand a second time at the end of the hearing and conceded that there was "perhaps a question of ethics" involved. But he contended that neither he nor his secretary was "guilty of any crime."

Mead Sums Up Testimony

Summing up the testimony, Chairman Mead (D-NY) observed that it came down to a conflict as to whether the payment was a contribution or a payment for services.

"It occurs to me," he said "that while this may be morally wrong under these circumstances—"

"Believe me," Coffee interrupted, "I'll never accept another one, I'll tell you that."

Then, as Mead started to complete his remarks, he added, "of this character, I mean, or anything remotely resembling it."

Mead went on to say that while the transaction might have been "morally wrong," the government "didn't lose any money" because Anderson was the low bidder on the contract.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), a former judge, and McGranery, nominated by President Truman only today to become one, held an extended discussion of the legal aspects.

Under Ferguson's questions, McGranery declared there is a "defect" in the Corrupt Practices act under which candidates for public office apparently cannot be compelled to list campaign contributions if they are received 30 days after an election.

Coffee has testified that he did not report the $2,500 from Olson as a campaign contribution in 1941 and that he was not required to do so by law.

As a "horseback opinion," McGranery said, however, "that if a man gave me a contribution in an off year—the year between elections—I should feel honor bound to report that contribution."

McKellar, Dean Of Senate, Bids For Sixth Term

Septuagenarian Opposes CIO-PAC Backed Candidate In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 31. (AP)—Septuagenarian Kenneth D. McKellar, dean and presiding officer of the United States Senate, bids for a sixth senatorial term against a CIO-PAC backed candidate tomorrow in a Tennessee Democratic primary short on issues but long on personalities.

Principal opponent of the 77-year-old McKellar is Edward Ward Carmack, 46, the CIO committee's choice and himself the son and namesake of a one-time United States senator from Tennessee. Carmack's father was slain on a Nashville street 38 years ago by a pistol-wielding political foe.

Carmack Lost In 1944

Two years ago Carmack challenged Tennessee's junior senator, Tom Stewart, and lost. He rolled up to the Shelby county (Memphis) line with a state-wide lead of 17,000, but was snowed under by the potent Edward H. Crump Democratic organization, which backed Stewart then and is supporting McKellar, as usual, in tomorrow's primary. The senior senator's close political ties with Crump extend over a 30-odd year span since McKellar first went to the Senate.

Upwards of 300,000 voters, including the usual small proportion of negroes, are expected to ballot in both Democratic and Republican primaries tomorrow to select nominees also for governor, ten congressional seats and state utilities commissioner. In state-wide contests Democratic nominees usually win election in November.

McKellar, tied down in Washington by his senatorial duties, did not make a campaign appearance at home. However, he did take the Senate floor once to toss the "lie" wrathfully at a couple of his critics.

Crump Backs Governor

Carmack has made a long and active stumping campaign. Early he received the indorsement of the CIO-PAC which has been made a basic issue by the McKellar forces.

Crump also is backing incumbent Democratic Gov. Jim Nance McCord, former auctioneer, for a second two-year term. McCord's principal opponent is former Gov. Gordon Browning who was qualified by friends and who allowed his name on the ballot despite his absence in Berlin as a lieutenant colonel in the army civil affairs section.

Only seven of the state's ten congressional seats are contested. In the Republican First district five candidates are scrambling for the vacancy left by Rep. B. Carroll Reece, new Republican national chairman.

ACCUSED—Mrs. Nellie Stoneburner, 26, shown holding her 16-month-old daughter, Jane Ellen, is being held at Frederick, Md., under $2,000 bond on technical charges of assault and battery. She is accused of keeping a 2½-year-old son by a former marriage tied to a couch in a dark room. Mrs. Stoneburner told authorities she kept the child tied because he was not "housebroken."

Couple Accused Of Keeping Child Tied In Dark Room

FREDERICK, Md., July 31 (AP)—Accused by a probation officer of keeping a 2½-year-old boy tied to a couch in a dark room, William and Nellie Stoneburner, of near Burkittsville, were held today under $2,000 bond each on technical charges of assault and battery, State's Attorney Edwin F. Nikirk reported.

Mrs. William C. Roderick, Frederick county probation officer who obtained a warrant for the couple's arrest, said the child, Billy was treated at the county emergency hospital for bruises on his arm and body.

Billy, she said, is Mrs. Stoneburner's son by a former marriage. He was placed in a foster home where he will be maintained by the Children's Aid Society pending the outcome of the case.

Mrs. Roderick said she would file a petition tomorrow in juvenile court seeking custody of the boy and of the couple's 1½-year-old daughter.

State's Attorney Nikirk said Stoneburner, who is 27, was in jail in default of bond. Mrs. Stoneburner, 26, was under custody at the Frederick county home, where she was being kept in order to remain with her infant daughter, he said.

Mrs. Roderick reported she discovered the boy's situation while investigating a complaint.

The boy was bruised and looked thin, pale, and listless, the probation officer said. She declared Mrs. Stoneburner told authorities she kept Billy tied because he was not "housebroken." The room in which the child was kept, Mrs. Roderick stated, was dark and unused.

"BORDER DISPUTE" IS AVERTED BY OLD LINE AND KEYSTONE STATES

CARDIFF, Md., July 31 (AP)—What might have developed into a "border dispute" has been settled amicably between Pennsylvania and Maryland but the gasoline station involved, sitting astride the state line, is no beneficiary.

It'll go right on paying gasoline taxes—though not to Pennsylvania, as it has done for nine years, but now to Maryland collectors.

And all because surveyors discovered two of the station's three pumps were in Maryland, with the third neatly bisected by the boundary.

Pennsylvania agreed to the tax switch, retroactive to October 1, 1943, and Maryland promised to forget about her neighbor's collection of back taxes from the station, Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker reported.

G-Men Launch Investigation Of Ku Klux Klan

Justice Department Discloses Inquiry Under Way In Seven States

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—G-men are investigating the Ku Klux Klan in seven states, the Justice department disclosed today.

The inquiry, directed by Attorney General Clark, a Texan, is being conducted by the department's civil rights section assisted by the FBI. The seven states are: New York, Michigan, Tennessee, Florida, California, Mississippi and Georgia.

The department promised swift criminal prosecution if violations of federal law are uncovered. And if federal statutes do not cover any criminal acts which may be discovered, the evidence will be turned over to state authorities where they request it.

The government is concerned principally with possible violations of federal election laws and of two civil rights statutes. One of these makes it illegal to conspire to deprive a person of his civil rights. The other makes it a federal offense for any state official, such as a deputy sheriff, to use his official power in such a way as to deprive an individual of rights guaranteed by the constitution.

Although the investigation now is confined to seven states, complaints are pouring in from all sections of the country about renewed Klan activities, the department said. It added that this does not necessarily indicate that the hooded order is operating throughout the nation since many complaints from the North and West are directed against alleged Klan activities in the South.

Most of the protests come from individuals, labor unions and civil rights societies. Complaints which name individuals allegedly involved in Klan activities are turned over to the FBI which makes investigations for the civil rights section.

The department said the Klan investigation began several weeks before Clark, in an address at Philadelphia May 18, threatened prosecution of the Klan as a civil liberties foe.

Speaking before the national conference on citizenship, Clark singled out the Klan as an example of "organized bigotry." He declared that all "federal laws at my command x x x will be enforced to the very limit in stamping out any organization or group which aims at extermination of our priceless civil liberties."

BRAZILIAN LINER IS TOWED TOWARD PORT FOLLOWING EXPLOSION

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 31. (AP)—The liner Duque De Caxias, pride of the Brazilian transport fleet, was towed slowly toward this port tonight after a boiler explosion set her afire, killing ten crewmen and imperiling 1,060 passengers.

The 11,063-ton vessel, until 1944 the United States liner Orizaba, was devastated by flames before dawn six miles off the coast. The 28-year-old veteran of the seas had served in the invasion of Sicily and in Pacific campaigns and had helped succor survivors of the British liner Athenia, first victim of German sumarines in World War II. She went to Brazil on lend-lease.

Several passengers were injured before the British merchantman Dover Hill and Brazilian warships saved them. Three submarine chasers brought 672 survivors to Rio De Janeiro and the Dover Hill was expected to dock before midnight.

The 300 crewmen of the Duque De Caxias remained aboard and, with the help of 17 warships, three merchantment and two planes, beat down the flames and kept them from eating to the oil stores. The navy said that prevented total destruction.

NEARS COMPLETION—In the last phases of construction, Howard Hughes's eight-motored flying plane rapidly nears completion at its base in Terminal Island, Calif. Curved section lying on ground is part of the giant tail assembly of the world's largest flying boat. Recovering from injuries, Hughes will see it launched.

Ford Declines Union's Invitation To Attend Production Conference

DETROIT, July 31 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company tonight declined an invitation to attend a meeting with the CIO-United Auto Workers Union to consider means of increasing car production, which the industry maintains has been retarded by strikes in supplier plants.

The invitation had been issued to all car makers by Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO president, who proposed a conference on August 2.

In a letter to Reuther, Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Company, suggested that "the UAW-CIO do something about current strikes in 16 plants supplying our company." Asserting that employes of these plants were represented by the UAW-CIO, Ford added:

"At this moment any or all of these strikes threaten to close us down at Ford. x x x You and your union could make a genuine contribution to automobile production by bringing about the resumption of work in these plants."

Thus far only the Kaiser-Fraser Corporation and Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., have accepted the Reuther invitation. Neither General Motors nor Chrysler, which with Ford comprise the industry's "big three," has yet replied.

In a statement issued simultaneously at the Ford offices, a number of the current supplies strikes were listed. Most critical were declared to be those the Federal Bearings Company, Inc., Pougkeepsie, N. Y., and its subsidiary, Waterbury Steel Ball Company manufacturers of ball bearings; Firestone Rubber and Metal Products division at Wyandotte, Mich., makers of truck wheel rims, and Dura division of the Detroit Harvester Company, Toledo, which makes Ford window regulators, top lifting devises for convertibles and ventilator handle assemblies for Ford.

Member after member rose to object to the bond plan.

Republicans stressed that the administration did not consider it inflationary to lend Great Britain $3,750,000,000, and Republicans and Democrats alike complained that no one thought it would be inflationary to pay cash to officers.

Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D-Fla), co-author of the original legislation, announced that he would introduce at the start of the new Congress a bill to redeem the bonds in cash.

Republican Leader Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts, also predicted that the new Congress would be asked to order the immediate payment of the bonds.

Arms Cache

munique also announced that "one British soldier was accidentally shot and killed during the night."

(Jerusalem officials announced that an illegal arms dump containing 30 Polish hand grenades, 60 grenade igniters and more than 3,000 rounds of ammunition was confiscated by police in Ataroth, a Jewish settlement five miles north of Jerusalem.)

Chaplain Hyde said he had "found Company C working near the synagogue and, as it is a place of worship, I came along to see that due formalities were observed."

On the way in," the chaplain said, "one of my boys happened to glance through a ventilator into the basement and saw a number of kit bags, which made him suspicious We found a locked iron door to part of the sub-basement and finally located, three blocks away, a man with the key."

The search of the synagogue was made in the second day of the British army's combing of this modern Jewish city of 200,000 for the men who bombed the British army headquarters and Palestine government secretariat at the King David hotel in Jerusalem, with a toll of 111 persons dead or missing.

Arrests totaled 466 persons. A rigid curfew kept residents indoors except for a two-hour shopping period, from 5 to 7 p. m.

Col. Shaw said "we don't believe we've caught any big fish yet, but we are only half through with the search."

Thirteen persons suspected of membership in Irgun Zval Leumi or the Stern gang, Jewish underground organizations, were among those held.

The only civilian casualty in the search of the whole city so far has been, paradoxically, an Arab, a military officer said. He was wounded by a rifle bullet, they said, "after failing to heed a severe warning to return to his house" during widespread curfew-breaking in Tel Aviv's Oriental quarter, inhabited by Yemenite Jews and Arabs.

Declaring that the only real method of control is "by the co-operation of the United Nations," the Russian delegate said that thus the main condition for the maintenance of international peace and security is international co-operation.

"But," he said, the Soviet proposal goes further and provides for the signatory states (states signing the convention proposed by Russia) to enact legislation providing severe punishment for the violation of the convention."

International Action

"The Soviet proposal," he continued, "presupposes also international action and if necessary sanctions for violations of the convention. The Soviet proposal provides that the United Nations, and first and foremost, the Security council shall take international action to insure the maintenance of those provisions of the charter which deal with international peace and security and therefore also with the enforcement of the convention."

Apparently referring to the United States insistence on its plan, Gromyko said:

"We are told in the Atomic Energy Commission that either you accept our plan or we will refuse to conclude a convention to prohibit the production and use of atomic weapons. This attitude is neither right nor lawful. Public opinion and the peoples of the world will not understand the reasons for refusing to conclude a convention as proposed by the Soviet government."

Russia has proposed an international treaty outlawing atomic weapons, calling for the destruction of atomic bombs within three months after the convention becomes effective and for the enactment of legislation by the signatory states providing penalties for violations of the convention.

July 24. His name was withheld. The army statement said he died of an especially malignant form of the disease known as Laryngeal diphtheria.

Statute Kept

Tacoma, Wash., declared was for "services"—was made five years ago.

McGranery testified that the transaction first came to his attention last March but then it was too late to proceed on account of a law barring prosecutions after three years.

Otherwise, he declared, he would have submitted the evidence to a grand jury. He did not particularize as to what law might have been violated or against whom charges might have been filed.

He told the committee, however, that so far as the recipient of a campaign gift from a contractor is concerned, "you can receive one and not be guilty of anything."

But he declared there is "no question Anderson was guilty of a violation of the law" and called his affidavit "in effect the confession of a crime."

Giving the money, McGranery told the committee, was illegal whether as payment for services or as a campaign contribution, but "if paid for services rendered it might be a crime on somebody else's part also."

Coffee took the witness stand a second time at the end of the hearing and conceded that there was "perhaps a question of ethics" involved. But he contended that neither he nor his secretary was "guilty of any crime."

Mead Sums Up Testimony

Summing up the testimony, Chairman Mead (D-NY) observed that it came down to a conflict as to whether the payment was a contribution or a payment for services.

"It occurs to me," he said "that while this may be morally wrong under these circumstances—"

"Believe me," Coffee interrupted, "I'll never accept another one, I'll tell you that."

Then, as Mead started to complete his remarks, he added, "of this character, I mean, or anything remotely resembling it."

Mead went on to say that while the transaction might have been "morally wrong," the government "didn't lose any money" because Anderson was the low bidder on the contract.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), a former judge, and McGranery, nominated by President Truman only today to become one, held an extended discussion of the legal aspects.

Under Ferguson's questions, McGranery declared there is a "defect" in the Corrupt Practices act under which candidates for public office apparently cannot be compelled to list campaign contributions if they are received 30 days after an election.

Coffee has testified that he did not report the $2,500 from Olson as a campaign contribution in 1941 and that he was not required to do so by law.

As a "horseback opinion," McGranery said, however, "that if a man gave me a contribution in an off year—the year between elections—I should feel honor bound to report that contribution."

Sunday's program included another discussion on community, state, county and national problems. The group also attended church services at Headsville.

The 4-H Council is an older club of young people who are responsible for carrying out 4-H club programs of Mineral county. They act as an advisory capacity to the county extension service.

Decontrolers Of Office Of Price Administration

It couldn't be Baruch and Baruch and Baruch for that three-man Decontrol board, because Mr. Baruch isn't triplets, and besides he has a job with the atom. Such an ideal appointment being out, we believe the men selected are as good and as practical a choice as could be made.

Roy L. Thompson, chairman, seems an excellent balance of the practical and the theoretical. He is a banker with a professional background and familiar with agriculture.

George H. Meade is of the highest type of American businessman. He has met many a payroll. And he also has done conspicuous Federal service before and during World War II.

Daniel W. Bell rose the hard way in the U. S. Treasury, starting as a stenographer and bookkeeper and going up to directorship of the budget. He then became Undersecretary, succeeding John W. Hanes, who highly approved of the Bell appointment. All this, before Mr. Bell went into the banking business in Washington. He knows that dollars, prices, debts and deficits aren't just playthings. There is nothing starry-eyed about him.

Working with OPA Administrator Paul Porter, who is giving evidence of being much more realistic and less cocksure and schoolmasterish than his predecessors, Messrs. Henderson and Bowles, the Decontrol Board may get some results—we hope.

But we've got to be shown. For never in our time was there such a job. It calls for unscrewing the inscrutable and controlling the uncontrollable. Hercules, the big stable cleaner; Atlas, the heavy weight man, and Canute, who admitted that his "administration" couldn't stop the ocean waves—they face toil no less awesome than trying to subdue and restrain the law of supply and demand.

We wish them luck in their job. But we desire to add that the real measure of their performance will be how soon they can work themselves out of that job.

The Army has reported that approximately 4,000 of the 134,999 American World War II dead buried in military cemeteries in Europe still are unidentified.

Atomic Money Idea Premature

Prof. Farrington Daniels, director of the University of Chicago's metallurgical laboratory, has advanced an idea that economists should find interesting. He suggests that the development of atomic energy might lead to a new and more stable monetary system based on uranium instead of gold.

His argument is that a given quantity of uranium, or plutonium obtained from uranium, is equivalent to a definite number of kilowatt hours of energy having virtually a fixed value in the world's economy. He implies that currencies based on the uranium standard would not fluctuate up and down as currencies based on gold or silver do.

Whether this is sound thinking or not may be left to the experts in such matters, although it appears that the Daniels premise is open to the objection that the value of energy, like that of any other commodity used in industry, must vary with the demand for it. After all, a given quantity of coal or oil is also equivalent to a definite amount of power and no one is beating the drum for a monetary system based on either.

Then, too, substitution of uranium for gold would not insure a return to something like the system that worked with remarkable efficiency before World War I. Then gold was available on demand. Today no nation is on that kind of gold standard. But no nation would consent to have uranium handed out to any individual with a bank note because it is too great a source of possible evil to be allowed to circulate freely.

Anyhow, since atomic energy is yet to be adapted to constructive purposes, the Daniels suggestion is premature.

Veterans Know Where Housing Blame Lies

Veterans' organizations report growing bitterness among discharged veterans of World War II over their failure to find decent housing. The veterans blame the administration in Washington.

The fact is that the veterans' emergency housing program launched in January by the national housing agency is a shameful failure. The administration failed to get the key agencies together on a price and priority schedule that would have produced results.

For months the production of essential building material was blocked by such low price ceilings that producers could not meet their pay rolls, much less make a profit. Strikes in the steel and other industries held back production. Wilson W. Wyatt, federal housing expediter, is under fire as the goat in the failure.

Wyatt, who is well-intentioned, was tripped and pushed around by the left-wingers in Washington who want all housing taken over by the government so they can score another victory in their guerilla warfare on private enterprise. They hope that homeless veterans will blame the building industry for the housing program failure. But veterans know where the blame lies.

Ogling Ordinance May Prove Hard To Enforce

Detroit police have dug up an old ordinance providing penalties for ogling. Maybe they'll wish they hadn't, because:

1—Ogling is older than any ordinance.

2—Only pretty girls are ogled, so who's going to complain?

3—One pretty girl said if she wasn't ogled she'd think she was slipping.

4—Oglers would have to be caught in the act.

6—Since when don't policemen like to look at pretty girls?

7—Legislation and enforcement are two different things.

LEARN TO SWIM

OVER 7,000 lives are lost each year in the United States from drowning, a high price to pay for one of our favorite pastimes. But safety campaigns have been doing a fine job, for each year the total is decreased. The disaster occurs most frequently in the younger groups, especially between the ages of 15 and 19. This situation can be anticipated inasmuch as these are the adventurous years. Furthermore, our youths make up the bulk of devotees of beaches, pools, and swimming holes.

Before a child is allowed the freedom of the water, the parents should see to it that he can swim. A knowledge of the technic has preserved scores of lives, not only of youngsters but of service men during the war. On the other hand, many of our boys were spared in combat only to meet their fate in transit because they could not keep afloat for even a short time. Any one who likes boating and fishing should likewise be able to swim. In addition, it is an excellent exercise and, coupled with the sun and relaxation, is exceedingly healthful.

There are always cases in which unavoidable accidents occur. The boy or girl below the age of ten is the most likely victim. Water is fascinating and unless supervision is close their travels will take them sooner or later to the bank of a stream or lagoon. While throwing in sticks or stones they may slip into the "drink."

The same might be said of taking the family for a Sunday boat ride. Shenanigans or standing while the occupants change seats may send all overboard. It takes a good swimmer and a cool mind to rescue those who are helpless. By insisting that children wear life preservers, regardless of the size of the boat, mishaps can be minimized.

Even the most ardent "fish" may find himself in trouble if he attempts feats beyond his strength. Occasionally the water is too cold or he has not waited for his food to digest before taking a dip. There are other factors which play a role in saving lives among bathers. A well supervised beach or pool gives protection, particularly those which are accessible to large numbers of people.

Since any one of us might be called upon to help a person in distress, training in resuscitation is advisable. It is obvious that a nonswimmer can do no more than call for help or throw a line, if one is available. Anything else would be suicide. The same might be said of a novice who has all he can do to keep himself afloat. A person who is struggling in the water is not easy to handle.

Once an individual is removed and artificial respiration is necessary, the maneuver should be started immediately. If breathing has ceased for 15 minutes there is small chance of survival. Consequently these victims should not be transported over any distance. It is here that an understanding of the Schafer, Eve, or Silvester methods may save a life. [Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on artificial respiration]. If possible, a physician or the fire department should be called as they are better able to cope with the emergency.

If we expect to get anywhere with the drowning problem, all of us should learn to swim.

POSITIVE TUBERCULIN

Mrs. C. M. writes: My daughter had a medical examination at college and the doctor said the tuberculin test was positive and wants an X-ray. Does this mean she has tuberculosis?

REPLY

No. The results imply that tuberculosis has been contacted at some time. To determine whether activity exists will require more study, hence the need for a chest X-ray.

WORRIES ABOUT HEART

B. M. writes: My doctor tells me that my heart is fully compensated even tho I have a murmur. I continue to be concerned about my condition. Why is this?

REPLY

It is natural to be concerned about the heart when there is any abnormality. But since you have been reassured by your physician, thinking about it constantly will not help the situation. Try to forget it.

ENLARGED HEART

S. E. W. writes: Can athlete's heart affect one who has never gone in for sports?

REPLY

Yes, in the same way that athlete's foot (ringworm) can occur in one who has never done anything more strenuous than take a walk. In like manner, housewife's knee, a form of bursitis, has been observed in men who seldom help wifey with the scrubbing. In other words, enlargement of the heart can occur in any one without relation to their physical activity.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson's Secretary Keeps Him Up to Date on What Is Happening in Washington While He Is In Paris For Peace Conference

TO DREW PEARSON

Dear Boss:

Your sick cow is getting sicker. . . . Secretary Ickes did a good job for your on the first replacement broadcast. Frank Sinatra and General Omar Bradley follow. . . . Your pal, Congressman May, is still in hot water. . . . Your black cat is still spending most of her day in the letter box on your desk. She doesn't seem to miss you at all—though of course we do. . . . The West Virginia politico who called you a communist is being investigated by the Mead Committee. . . . The Atlanta radio station which had so much pressure brought on them not to carry your Ku Klux Klan broadcast is now feeling happier. Despite the threats of the Georgia Power Company, the final reaction in Atlanta was OK.

Incidentally, mail on the KKK broadcast would do your heart good. I am saving all the letters until you get back; know you will want to read them. They came from all sorts of people, big and little, with—this surprised me—a lot of fine letters from the south. . . . I have made a survey of how the solons voted on OPA. It shows two amazing miracles: Byrd of Virginia and McKellar of Tennessee voted right down the line for price control and the people. They bucked the lobbies. (Both are up for election this year.) The fight on McKellar is getting hotter. He may be licked. . . . Didn't suppose anything could overturn the Byrd machine in Virginia but he seems worried—at least worried enough to vote with the folks.

How Others Voted on OPA

Here is how other Senators, up for election this year, voted on OPA: of the Democrats, 14 up for election went right down the line for effective price control. Only Democrats who welched were O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Walsh of Mass., Murdock of Utah and Carville of Nevada—and they welched only a couple of times. . . . Of course, this doesn't take in the "Reprocrats" like George and Russell of Georgia, Eastland of Mississippi and others not up for reelection who ran out on Truman most of the time. . . . Here is the Republican score card: Langer and Young of North Dakota voted consistently against price control. They come from solid GOP farming areas. Austin of Vermont, another solid GOP state, also voted against price control. (He's leaving the senate in January for the United Nations.) . . . One Republican, La-Follette of Wisconsin, voted consistently for price control, except on one amendment—dairy products. Three other Republicans split their vote—Knowland of California, Smith of New Jersey, Stanfill of Kentucky. Most of the time they leaned against price control . . . Wonder what the reaction will be next November?

Did some more checking on Rep. Frank Keefe of Oshkosh, Wis., whom you listed as a "pocketbook" congressman. He's the guy who voted against national cemeteries to bury the war dead, and in favor of using private cemeteries. The Lakeview Mememorial Park cemetery, of which the Congressman is president, reported a total income of $22,533 last year. This was against $17,396 the year before. Thanks to Keefe's pocketbook voting, maybe the cemetery business will pick up . . . The Oklahoma newspapers are riding another of your "pocketbook" congressmen, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, in connection with his getting Ben Fields, of the Erie Basin war profiteers, out of the penitentiary . . . Poor Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah! People are always getting him mixed up with Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma. In contrast, Utah's Elbert is a saint.

Things Slow At State Dept.

I have been trying to get that solon from New England who handed you the big "exclusive" and then proceeded to give it out to the wire services. I want to tell him what I think of him . . . Bumped into Bob Wagner of New York. Wish there were more like him in the Senate. He was one man in the secret OPA House-Senate conference who really went down the line for the public. Wright Patman of Texas and William Barry of New York were two others.

Things are a little slow at the State Department with both you and Byrnes away. However, I picked up the following items The U.S.A. has decided to support Transjordania's bid for admission into the United Nations. This is to appease the Arabs . . . Truman has invited the Belgian Prince Regent to come to Washington in October as a government guest . . . Even tiny Honduras joined in the inter-American protests against the harsh peace terms imposed on Italy . . . The State Department protested to Bulgaria against the Bulgarian secret police who have threatened American diplomatic in the Balkans.

Slick Pants Willie May

Senator Ferguson of Michigan is strong for probing your friend, slick-pants Willie May, nephew of the elusive Congressman from Kentucky. The latter, by the way, lists himself in the Congressional Directory as having "had an active and successful business career." . . . Congressman Henry Jackson of Seattle is still battling to clean up scandals in the Maritime Commission—and doing a good job of it . . . Your admirer, Senator McKellar, got so bitter against his fellow-Tennesseean, Albert Gore, in a recent closed-door committee meeting that Congressman Ben Jensen of Iowa, a Republican, came to Gore's defense. McKellar wanted to build TVA dams simultaneously. Gore wanted to build one first and later the second, saving over a million bucks.

Even after Speaker Sam Rayburn warned against inserting critical material in the Congressional Record, never-say-die Lyle Boren of Oklahoma inserted an editorial from the Yonkers, N. Y., Herald-Statesman, proposing Jim Farley for Governor of New York, and balling out Senator Jim Mead. You have probably now seen that Boren bit the dust in the Oklahoma primary.

Oh, yes one other—about good old Herschel Johnson. Now that he's U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Herschel is getting hoity-toity about diplomatic precedence. A chart of the American delegation to the UN showed Bernard Baruch and ex-Ambassador John Winant ranking above Johnson, whereupon Herschel hit the ceiling and ordered a new chart, with his name, like Abou Ben Adhem's leading all the rest . . . Herschel also got huffy when the boys threw a fare-well party for Ed Stettinius and invited Ralph Bunch, a Negro, in charge of Dependent American Affairs, to attend. When Johnson objected, Sam Boykin, also of the American delegation, bawled him out. "I'm from Alabama," he said, "but Ralph Bunch has as much right as anyone to be at the party. I'm going to invite him. He did.

The office force wants me to remind you that we expect some real souvenirs of Paris. Come back soon.

MARIAN.

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

Southern California golf courses are holding qualifying rounds for juniors who hope to reach the finals in the Hearst Grand National Junior Golf Championship. I tried to enter but they were a bit skeptical about my age. When I told them I merely look old, they said that juvenile delinquents weren't allowed either.

I dropped by the Baldwin golf course here in town to see how the kids were making out. I wanted to give them a few pointers but they told me to keep my nose out of it.

I won't say the golfers were young, but when they got into a sand-trap . . . They stopped to make mud-pules.

They were really having their troubles. One kid was in the rough all day . . . his nurse forgot to powder him. I don't mind the kids shooting the ball into the cup like a marble, but when they start puttin with a lollypop, that's too much.

But they play like little professionals. In fact, on the tenth hole, one kid made a bad slice and they had to wash his mouth with soap.

It was a pleasure to see young, healthy boys competing in a clean American sport like golf, but the game was broken up by the sudden appearance of the truant officer.

Increase In Output Of Man Held Key To Prevention Of Inflation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 31—There is much talk nowadays about the "inevitable depression." But there is as yet no emphasis on the main reason why Great Britain and other nations are seeking to prepare themselves against the crash they anticipate in America.

The main reason, of course, is that labor union leaders in America have adopted and put into widespread effect the slogan of "more pay for less work," and the Truman administration has encouraged that policy.

All over the United States the impression has arisen that membership in a labor union means increases in pay every year irrespective of what the increases may have to be on prices. Labor leaders, fearing for their own jobs as officers in the unions, are often reluctant to tell the membership the truth, namely, that there must be an end to the program of "more pay for less work."

In other words, unless America can devise a way to increase the output per man, the wage spiral leads to an inflationary crash.

Printing Industry Example

A conspicuous example of how the process works is furnished by the printing industry where, unless there is a reversal promptly of the trend, not only tens of thousands of employes in the printing trades will soon be out of work but many others who depend indirectly for their livelihood on printing will be similiarly affected.

The latest figures from the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics show the man-hour output in 1945 was 11 per cent lower than in 1939 in the printing and publishing industry, whereas the hourly cost of labor increased by 25 per cent.

This means that, for less work done, the printers have been paid 25 per cent more wages. No national economy can survive that kind of trend.

Lately the printing unions, which are considered to be above the average of skilled workers in America in wage payments, have proposed in Chicago and Washington a tremendous increase in wages which is believed to be a pattern for printers throughout the nation. The proposals, applied on a nationwide basis, mean an increase in costs over present levels of 136 per cent.

The dollar cost to the printing and publishing industries of a wage rate such as is being asked in Washington, would amount to $1,102,000,000 more than the 1945 wages. Without any change in the prices of products, the result would mean before taxes an estimated loss for the industry of $533,000,000, as compared with profits for 1945 of $569,000,000.

This would mean also a concentration in the hands of big business of much of the volume now performed by small businesses. Thus for ten years between 1933 and 1943—the last year for which official statistics are available—the Bureau of Internal Revenue reports that 6,111 corporations reported losses averaging $74,000 a year and 5,398 reported profits averaging $358,000 a year. It will be seen that an increase in wage rates will bear heavily on the smaller corporations which normally experience difficulty in operating at a profit anyway.

Printers' Increases Substantial

The printers, on the other hand, have had a substantial increase in annual wage earnings since 1939. The rate of increase of annual income has been even larger than in the hourly earnings. In April 1946, the annual rate of earnings per worker employed in the printing industry was 157 per cent of the 1939 figure, or 120 per cent after adjustment for increased living costs. Trends have differed very little as between those in newspaper or periodical and the book or job segments of the printing industry.

It will be noted that printers' unions often quote the basic union wage rates which have increased relatively little, but with work weeks of 35 hours or less, it is in the overtime where the premium is paid. The basic rates usually cited exclude payments for overtime or vacations or holidays.

Even before computing the proposed increases now under consideration in various parts of the country, the printers have had a rise in real income in relation to man-hour output. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show that hourly earnings of production workers in printing and publishing were 44 per cent higher in April 1946 than the 1939 average, whereas living costs rose 32 per cent during this same period. The result was a 9 per cent rise in "real income" based on hourly earnings. In the face of an 11 per cent drop in man-hour output—which, of course, includes time not worked but paid for—the result is a 22 per cent rise in "real income."

This is not only true of the printing industry but to a large extent of other industries. The nation cannot afford to pay the prices that must result from a policy of more for less work.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Stephen Crane tells of his experience at sea, after a shipwreck in his story "The Open Boat." It was a tragic trip to land again, each man of the four concentrating all upon the oars, Crane stating that "none knew the color of the sky." I have often thought of that remark, as I have paced the busy streets of the city. People looking down, and forward, mostly — few knowing the color of the sky.

But here at Weskawenaak, the sky and its color, the patterns of the clouds against the blue, and the green foliage of the pines, form a most glorious sight — a sight of peacefulness, and silent awe. There are no pavements here—just velvety, mossy paths that wind and lead one ever to new vistas, each one never the same.

It has taken me forty years to earn this modest retreat and it has flowered my life with joy, happy memories, and communion with all of Nature's offerings. In nature you can select your friends, and your loves, and you unconsciously become enriched. Here upon this island there is spiritual warmth. The green and freshly fragrant branches of the pines reach out and spread their welcome, humanly inanimate.

My deep regret is that I can share these rocky shores with but an intimate few, but I can share my thoughts here with millions, many of whom have often experienced what I now experience, having that inbred understanding and appreciation that repeatedly ripen in the presence of natural beauty.

Here there are no boundless streets, no harsh noises, no rush for gain, no angry voices, no traffic jams—just an arena of peace, spiced with bird calls, the scent of wild flowers, and the warmth of dancing shadows underneath the glow of the sunlight. Here you are the slave of no one but yourself! Nature exacts nothing but your adherence to her laws.

In my hammock, on the rustic verandah, I read without loneliness, and I toss peanuts to my friendly red squirrels that keep interrupting me in my thoughts, but somehow I don't mind. After all, it was their land first! A hammock! A thing not enjoyed since my boyhood days in the little Michigan town.

Paris Scene Of Fight For Access To Minds Of Men

By MARK SULLIVAN

People read what is going on at Paris, follow it on the radio. Their mood is anxiety. Much of the anxiety is justified, yet some of it is more extreme than is necessary. For much of the anxiety assumes that what is involved is the possibility of another war. This can by no means be eliminated, but primarily what is going on at Paris is a conflict of ideas. It is a struggle for access to the minds of men, common men all over the world—to the end that they shall understand that two systems of government and society are in conflict, and be enabled to give allegiance to that which they prefer.

Since the conflict is of this nature, a wholesome early action is the position attributed to American Secretary of State Byrnes about publicity for the proceedings. He would have every conference open to those who report for the public. So far as this is not assented to by any other power, Mr. Byrnes is described by American correspondents as holding out assurance that ways will be found to let the world know what is said and done. As much of the world, that is, as is not limited by heads of governments to receiving only such accounts as that government desires.

Individual Vs. Mass Mind

Therein lies the most concrete illustration of the very deeps of the struggle. It is the freedom of information and opinion practiced in the United States, to the end that each individual may make up his own mind and take positions upon the promptings of his individual human spirit—contrasted with control and use of the mechanisms of information by the heads of the Russian government to the end that there be created a mass mind.

Many who are moved to anxiety assume that this struggle is new. But it is very old. The present manifestation of it was predestined. Even as long ago as when the Russian people were under the domination of the czars, it was predestined that the United States and Russia should be at the opposite poles of the fermentation and the confflict. What the leaders of the Communist revolution in Russia did was to take over a people accustomed to servitude, and substitute themselves for the czars. The other day a great French leader, equipped with scholarly knowledge of history and thoughtful about the philosophy of society, Charles de Gaulle, made an address to the French people on the eve of the Paris conference. He quoted another scholarly Frenchman who wrote more than a hundred years ago, de Toqueville:

"Two great peoples, starting at different points go forward. . . in a race of which the eye cannot see the limits. To attain his end the American relies on the strength and reason of individuals; Russia concentrates in one man all the power of society. The one has for his principal means of action liberty, the other servitude. The points of departure are difference, their paths are diverse. But each of these seems called by a secret design of Providence to hold one day in his hand the destinies of half the world."

Conflict of Ideas Irreconcilable

In that remarkable analysis and forecast deToqueville's only error was in assuming that the end would be two worlds, America heading the Western hemisphere, Russia the Eastern. What has been brought about by invention extinguishing space is one world, in all of which either the American idea or the Russian one will prevail. The Communist heads see it that way. They are intent upon infiltration and propaganda in the countries of the Western hemisphere, including the United States itself.

The conflict of ideas is irreconcilable, and that word gives anxiety to many, causing some to think of appeasement. The deepest cause of anxiety is that the conflict may end in war. Prevention of war, assurance of ending the conflict another way, will be best promoted by our being militarily as strong as Russia. When in any controversy one side is stronger than the other in the physical sense, peaceful outcome is thereby made less sure. In this controversy there is no umpire, no court. The setting up of a court to decide international disputes is one of the purposes of the present discussion, and courts for the settlement of controversies are one of the essential features of the system for which the United States stands. Lacking a court, there is always temptation to use force. The Russian heads have used force, within the past few years they have brought under their dominion the whole or parts of thirteen countries.

The most decisive battle that could be won by the United States and those associated with us, would be to bring it about that the Russian people had the same access to information and the same opportunity for individual opinion that exists outside Russia. By this could the controversy be kept most surely within the arena of men's minds.

Decontrolers Of Office Of Price Administration

It couldn't be Baruch and Baruch and Baruch for that three-man Decontrol board, because Mr. Baruch isn't triplets, and besides he has a job with the atom. Such an ideal appointment being out, we believe the men selected are as good and as practical a choice as could be made.

Roy L. Thompson, chairman, seems an excellent balance of the practical and the theoretical. He is a banker with a professional background and familiar with agriculture.

George H. Meade is of the highest type of American businessman. He has met many a payroll. And he also has done conspicuous Federal service before and during World War II.

Daniel W. Bell rose the hard way in the U. S. Treasury, starting as a stenographer and bookkeeper and going up to directorship of the budget. He then became Undersecretary, succeeding John W. Hanes, who highly approved of the Bell appointment. All this, before Mr. Bell went into the banking business in Washington. He knows that dollars, prices, debts and deficits aren't just playthings. There is nothing starry-eyed about him.

Working with OPA Administrator Paul Porter, who is giving evidence of being much more realistic and less cocksure and schoolmasterish than his predecessors, Messrs. Henderson and Bowles, the Decontrol Board may get some results—we hope.

But we've got to be shown. For never in our time was there such a job. It calls for unscrewing the inscrutable and controlling the uncontrollable. Hercules, the big stable cleaner; Atlas, the heavy weight man, and Canute, who admitted that his "administration" couldn't stop the ocean waves—they face toil no less awesome than trying to subdue and restrain the law of supply and demand.

We wish them luck in their job. But we desire to add that the real measure of their performance will be how soon they can work themselves out of that job.

Atomic Money Idea Premature

Prof. Farrington Daniels, director of the University of Chicago's metallurgical laboratory, has advanced an idea that economists should find interesting. He suggests that the development of atomic energy might lead to a new and more stable monetary system based on uranium instead of gold.

His argument is that a given quantity of uranium, or plutonium obtained from uranium, is equivalent to a definite number of kilowatt hours of energy having virtually a fixed value in the world's economy. He implies that currencies based on the uranium standard would not fluctuate up and down as currencies based on gold or silver do.

Whether this is sound thinking or not may be left to the experts in such matters, although it appears that the Daniels premise is open to the objection that the value of energy, like that of any other commodity used in industry, must vary with the demand for it. After all, a given quantity of coal or oil is also equivalent to a definite amount of power and no one is beating the drum for a monetary system based on either.

Then, too, substitution of uranium for gold would not insure a return to something like the system that worked with remarkable efficiency before World War I. Then gold was available on demand. Today no nation is on that kind of gold standard. But no nation would consent to have uranium handed out to any individual with a bank note because it is too great a source of possible evil to be allowed to circulate freely.

Anyhow, since atomic energy is yet to be adapted to constructive purposes, the Daniels suggestion is premature.

Veterans Know Where Housing Blame Lies

Veterans' organizations report growing bitterness among discharged veterans of World War II over Their failure to find decent housing. The veterans blame the administration in Washington.

The fact is that the veterans' emergency housing program launched in January by the national housing agency is a shameful failure. The administration failed to get the key agencies together on a price and priority schedule that would have produced results.

For months the production of essential building material was blocked by such low price ceilings that producers could not meet their pay rolls, much less make a profit. Strikes in the steel and other industries held back production. Wilson W. Wyatt, federal housing expediter, is under fire as the goat in the failure.

Wyatt, who is well-intentioned, was tripped and pushed around by the left-wingers in Washington who want all housing taken over by the government so they can score another victory in their guerilla warfare on private enterprise. They hope that homeless veterans will blame the building industry for the housing program failure. But veterans know where the blame lies.

Ogling Ordinance May Prove Hard To Enforce

Detroit police have dug up an old ordinance providing penalties for ogling. Maybe they'll wish they hadn't, because:

1—Ogling is older than any ordinance.

2—Only pretty girls are ogled, so who's going to complain?

3—One pretty girl said if she wasn't ogled she'd think she was slipping.

4—Oglers would have to be caught in the act.

6—Since when don't policemen like to look at pretty girls?

7—Legislation and enforcement are two different things.

Any one who likes boating and fishing should likewise be able to swim. In addition, it is an excellent exercise and, coupled with the sun and relaxation, is exceedingly healthful.

There are always cases in which unavoidable accidents occur. The boy or girl below the age of ten is the most likely victim. Water is fascinating and unless supervision is close their travels will take them sooner or later to the bank of a stream or lagoon. While throwing in sticks or stones they may slip into the "drink."

The same might be said of taking the family for a Sunday boat ride. Shenanigans or standing while the occupants change seats may send all overboard. It takes a good swimmer and a cool mind to rescue those who are helpless. By insisting that children wear life preservers, regardless of the size of the boat, mishaps can be minimized.

Even the most ardent "fish" may find himself in trouble if he attempts feats beyond his strength. Occasionally the water is too cold or he has not waited for his food to digest before taking a dip. There are other factors which play a role in saving lives among bathers. A well supervised beach or pool gives protection, particularly those which are accessible to large numbers of people.

Since any one of us might be called upon to help a person in distress, training in resuscitation is advisable. It is obvious that a non-swimmer can do no more than call for help or throw a line, if one is available. Anything else would be suicide. The same might be said of a novice who has all he can do to keep himself afloat. A person who is struggling in the water is not easy to handle.

Once an individual is removed and artificial respiration is necessary, the maneuver should be started immediately. If breathing has ceased for 15 minutes there is small chance of survival. Consequently these victims should not be transported over any distance. It is here that an understanding of the Schafer, Eve, or Silvester methods may save a life. (Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on artificial respiration). If possible, a physician or the fire department should be called as they are better able to cope with the emergency.

If we expect to get anywhere with the drowning problem, all of us should learn to swim.

POSITIVE TUBERCULIN

Mrs. C. M. writes: My daughter had a medical examination at college and the doctor said the tuberculin test was positive and wants an X-ray. Does this mean she has tuberculosis?

REPLY

No. The results imply that tuberculosis has been contacted at some time. To determine whether activity exists will require more study, hence the need for a chest X-ray.

WORRIES ABOUT HEART

B. M. writes: My doctor tells me that my heart is fully compensated even tho I have a murmur. I continue to be concerned about my condition. Why is this?

REPLY

It is natural to be concerned about the heart when there is any abnormality. But since you have been reassured by your physician, thinking about it constantly will not help the situation. Try to forget it.

ENLARGED HEART

S. E. W. writes: Can athlete's heart affect one who has never gone in for sports?

REPLY

Yes, in the same way that athlete's foot (ringworm) can occur in one who has never done anything more strenuous than take a walk. In like manner, housewife's knee, a form of bursitis, has been observed in men who seldom help wifey with the scrubbing. In other words, enlargement of the heart can occur in any one without relation to their physical activity.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson's Secretary Keeps Him Up to Date on What Is Happening in Washington While He Is In Paris For Peace Conference

TO DREW PEARSON

Dear Boss:

Your sick cow is getting sicker. . . . Secretary Ickes did a good job for your on the first replacement broadcast. Frank Sinatra and General Omar Bradley follow. . . . Your pal, Congressman May, is still in hot water. . . . Your black cat is still spending most of her day in the letter box on your desk. She doesn't seem to miss you at all—though of course we do. . . . The West Virginia politico who called you a communist is being investigated by the Mead Committee. . . . The Atlanta radio station which had so much pressure brought on them not to carry your Ku Klux Klan broadcast is now feeling happier. Despite the threats of the Georgia Power Company, the final reaction in Atlanta was OK.

Incidentally, mail on the KKK broadcast would do your heart good. I am saving all the letters until you get back; know you will want to read them. They came from all sorts of people, big and little, with—this surprised me—a lot of fine letters from the south. . . . I have made a survey of how the solons voted on OPA. It shows two amazing miracles: Byrd of Virginia and McKellar of Tennessee voted right down the line for price control and the people. They bucked the lobbies. (Both are up for election this year.) The fight on McKellar is getting hotter. He may be licked. . . . Didn't suppose anything could overturn the Byrd machine in Virginia but he seems worried—at least worried enough to vote with the folks.

How Others Voted on OPA

Here is how other Senators, up for election this year, voted on OPA: of the Democrats, 14 up for election went right down the line for effective price control. Only Democrats who welched were O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Walsh of Mass., Murdock of Utah and Carville of Nevada—and they welched only a couple of times. . . . Of course, this doesn't take in the "Reprocrats" like George and Russell of Georgia, Eastland of Mississippi and others not up for re-election who ran out on Truman most of the time. . . . Here is the Republican score card: Langer and Young of North Dakota voted consistently against price control. They come from solid GOP farming areas. Austin of Vermont, another solid GOP state, also voted against price control. (He's leaving the senate in January for the United Nations.) . . . One Republican, LaFollette of Wisconsin, voted consistently for price control, except on one amendment—dairy products. Three other Republicans split their vote—Knowland of California, Smith of New Jersey, Stanfill of Kentucky. Most of the time they leaned against price control . . . Wonder what the reaction will be next November?

Did some more checking on Rep. Frank Keefe of Oshkosh, Wis., whom you listed as a "pocketbook" congressman. He's the guy who voted against national cemeteries to bury the war dead, and in favor of using private cemeteries. The Lakeview Mememorial Park cemetery, of which the Congressman is president, reported a total income of $22,533 last year. This was against $17,396 the year before. Thanks to Keefe's pocketbook voting, maybe the cemetery business will pick up . . . The Oklahoma newspapers are riding another of your "pocketbook" congressmen, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, in connection with his getting Ben Fields, of the Erie Basin war profiteers, out of the penitentiary . . . Poor Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah! People are always getting him mixed up with Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma. In contrast, Utah's Elbert is a saint.

Things Slow At State Dept.

I have been trying to get that solon from New England who handed you the big "exclusive" and then proceeded to give it out to the wire services. I want to tell him what I think of him . . . Bumped into Bob Wagner of New York. Wish there were more like him in the Senate. He was one man in the secret OPA House-Senate conference who really went down the line for the public. Wright Patman of Texas and William Barry of New York were two others.

Things are a little slow at the State Department with both you and Byrnes away. However, I picked up the following items The U.S.A. has decided to support Transjordania's bid for admission into the United Nations. This is to appease the Arabs . . . Truman has invited the Belgian Prince Regent to come to Washington in October as a government guest . . . Even tiny Honduras joined in the inter-American protests against the harsh peace terms imposed on Italy . . . The State Department protested to Bulgaria against the Bulgarian secret police who have threatened American diplomatic in the Balkans.

Slick Pants Willie May

Senator Ferguson of Michigan is strong for probing your friend, slick-pants Willie May, nephew of the elusive Congressman from Kentucky. The latter, by the way, lists himself in the Congressional Directory as having "had an active and successful business career." . . . Congressman Henry Jackson of Seattle is still battling to clean up scandals in the Maritime Commission—and doing a good job of it . . . Your admirer, Senator McKellar, got so bitter against his fellow-Tennesseean, Albert Gore, in a recent closed-door committee meeting that Congressman Ben Jensen of Iowa, a Republican, came to Gore's defense. McKellar wanted to build TVA dams simultaneously. Gore wanted to build one first and later the second, saving over a million bucks.

Even after Speaker Sam Rayburn warned against inserting critical material in the Congressional Record, never-say-die Lyle Boren of Oklahoma inserted an editorial from the Yonkers, N. Y., Herald-Statesman, proposing Jim Farley for Governor of New York, and balling out Senator Jim Mead. You have probably now seen that Boren bit the dust in the Oklahoma primary.

Oh, yes one other—about good old Herschel Johnson. Now that he's U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Herschel is getting hoity-toity about diplomatic precedence. A chart of the American delegation to the UN showed Bernard Baruch and ex-Ambassador John Winant ranking above Johnson, whereupon Herschel hit the ceiling and ordered a new chart, with his name, like Abou Ben Adhem's leading all the rest . . . Herschel also got huffy when the boys threw a fare-well party for Ed Stettinius and invited Ralph Bunch, a Negro, in charge of Dependent American Affairs, to attend. When Johnson objected, Sam Boykin, also of the American delegation, bawled him out. "I'm from Alabama," he said, "but Ralph Bunch has as much right as anyone to be at the party. I'm going to invite him. He did.

The office force wants me to remind you that we expect some real souvenirs of Paris. Come back soon.

MARIAN.

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

Southern California golf courses are holding qualifying rounds for juniors who hope to reach the finals in the Hearst Grand National Junior Golf Championship. I tried to enter but they were a bit skeptical about my age. When I told them I merely look old, they said that juvenile delinquents weren't allowed either.

I dropped by the Baldwin golf course here in town to see how the kids were making out. I wanted to give them a few pointers but they told me to keep my nose out of it.

I won't say the golfers were young, but when they got into a sand-trap . . . They stopped to make mud-pules.

They were really having their troubles. One kid was in the rough all day . . . his nurse forgot to powder him. I don't mind the kids shooting the ball into the cup like a marble, but when they start puttin with a lollypop, that's too much.

But they play like little professionals. In fact, on the tenth hole, one kid made a bad slice and they had to wash his mouth with soap.

It was a pleasure to see young, healthy boys competing in a clean American sport like golf, but the game was broken up by the sudden appearance of the truant officer.

Increase In Output Of Man Held Key To Prevention Of Inflation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 31—There is much talk nowadays about the "inevitable depression." But there is as yet no emphasis on the main reason why Great Britain and other nations are seeking to prepare themselves against the crash they anticipate in America.

The main reason, of course, is that labor union leaders in America have adopted and put into widespread effect the slogan of "more pay for less work," and the Truman administration has encouraged that policy.

All over the United States the impression has arisen that membership in a labor union means increases in pay every year irrespective of what the increases may have to be on prices. Labor leaders, fearing for their own jobs as officers in the unions, are often reluctant to tell the membership the truth, namely, that there must be an end to the program of "more pay for less work."

In other words, unless America can devise a way to increase the output per man, the wage spiral leads to an inflationary crash.

Printing Industry Example

A conspicuous example of how the process works is furnished by the printing industry where, unless there is a reversal promptly of the trend, not only tens of thousands of employes in the printing trades will soon be out of work but many others who depend indirectly for their livelihood on printing will be similiarly affected.

The latest figures from the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics show the man-hour output in 1945 was 11 per cent lower than in 1939 in the printing and publishing industry, whereas the hourly cost of labor increased by 25 per cent.

This means that, for less work done, the printers have been paid 25 per cent more wages. No national economy can survive that kind of trend.

Lately the printing unions, which are considered to be above the average of skilled workers in America in wage payments, have proposed in Chicago and Washington a tremendous increase in wages which is believed to be a pattern for printers throughout the nation. The proposals, applied on a nationwide basis, mean an increase in costs over present levels of 136 per cent.

The dollar cost to the printing and publishing industries of a wage rate such as is being asked in Washington, would amount to $1,102,000,000 more than the 1945 wages. Without any change in the prices of products, the result would mean before taxes an estimated loss for the industry of $533,000,000, as compared with profits for 1945 of $569,000,000.

This would mean also a concentration in the hands of big business of much of the volume now performed by small businesses. Thus for ten years between 1933 and 1943—the last year for which official statistics are available—the Bureau of Internal Revenue reports that 6,111 corporations reported losses averaging $74,000 a year and 5,398 reported profits averaging $358,000 a year. It will be seen that an increase in wage rates will bear heavily on the smaller corporations which normally experience difficulty in operating at a profit anyway.

Printers' Increases Substantial

The printers, on the other hand, have had a substantial increase in annual wage earnings since 1939. The rate of increase of annual income has been even larger than in the hourly earnings. In April 1946, the annual rate of earnings per worker employed in the printing industry was 157 per cent of the 1939 figure, or 120 per cent after adjustment for increased living costs. Trends have differed very little as between those in newspaper or periodical and the book or job segments of the printing industry.

It will be noted that printers' unions often quote the basic union wage rates which have increased relatively little, but with work weeks of 35 hours or less, it is in the overtime where the premium is paid. The basic rates usually cited exclude payments for overtime or vacations or holidays.

Even before computing the proposed increases now under consideration in various parts of the country, the printers have had a rise in real income in relation to man-hour output. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show that hourly earnings of production workers in printing and publishing were 44 per cent higher in April 1946 than the 1939 average, whereas living costs rose 32 per cent during this same period. The result was a 9 per cent rise in "real income" based on hourly earnings. In the face of an 11 per cent drop in man-hour output—which, of course, includes time not worked but paid for—the result is a 22 per cent rise in "real income."

This is not only true of the printing industry but to a large extent of other industries. The nation cannot afford to pay the prices that must result from a policy of more for less work.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Stephen Crane tells of his experience at sea, after a shipwreck in his story "The Open Boat." It was a tragic trip to land again, each man of the four concentrating all upon the oars, Crane stating that "none knew the color of the sky." I have often thought of that remark, as I have paced the busy streets of the city. People looking down, and forward, mostly — few knowing the color of the sky.

But here at Weskawenaak, the sky and its color, the patterns of the clouds against the blue, and the green foliage of the pines, form a most glorious sight — a sight of peacefulness, and silent awe. There are no pavements here—just velvety, mossy paths that wind and lead one ever to new vistas, each one never the same.

It has taken me forty years to earn this modest retreat and it has flowered my life with joy, happy memories, and communion with all of Nature's offerings. In nature you can select your friends, and your loves, and you unconsciously become enriched. Here upon this island there is spiritual warmth. The green and freshly fragrant branches of the pines reach out and spread their welcome, humanly inanimate.

My deep regret is that I can share these rocky shores with but an intimate few, but I can share my thoughts here with millions, many of whom have often experienced what I now experience, having that inbred understanding and appreciation that repeatedly ripen in the presence of natural beauty.

Here there are no boundless streets, no harsh noises, no rush for gain, no angry voices, no traffic jams—just an arena of peace, spiced with bird calls, the scent of wild flowers, and the warmth of dancing shadows underneath the glow of the sunlight. Here you are the slave of no one but yourself! Nature exacts nothing but your adherence to her laws.

In my hammock, on the rustic verandah, I read without loneliness, and I toss peanuts to my friendly red squirrels that keep interrupting me in my thoughts, but somehow I don't mind. After all, it was their land first! A hammock! A thing not enjoyed since my boyhood days in the little Michigan town.

Paris Scene Of Fight For Access To Minds Of Men

By MARK SULLIVAN

People read what is going on at Paris, follow it on the radio. Their mood is anxiety. Much of the anxiety is justified, yet some of it is more extreme than is necessary. For much of the anxiety assumes that what is involved is the possibility of another war. This can by no means be eliminated, but primarily what is going on at Paris is a conflict of ideas. It is a struggle for access to the minds of men, common men all over the world—to the end that they shall understand that two systems of government and society are in conflict, and be enabled to give allegiance to that which they prefer.

Since the conflict is of this nature, a wholesome early action is the position attributed to American Secretary of State Byrnes about publicity for the proceedings. He would have every conference open to those who report for the public. So far as this is not assented to by any other power, Mr. Byrnes is described by American correspondents as holding out assurance that ways will be found to let the world know what is said and done. As much of the world, that is, as is not limited by heads of governments to receiving only such accounts as that government desires.

Individual Vs. Mass Mind

Therein lies the most concrete illustration of the very deeps of the struggle. It is the freedom of information and opinion practiced in the United States, to the end that each individual may make up his own mind and take positions upon the promptings of his individual human spirit—contrasted with control and use of the mechanisms of information by the heads of the Russian government to the end that there be created a mass mind.

Many who are moved to anxiety assume that this struggle is new. But it is very old. The present manifestation of it was predestined. Even as long ago as when the Russian people were under the domination of the czars, it was predestined that the United States and Russia should be at the opposite poles of the fermentation and the conflict. What the leaders of the Communist revolution in Russia did was to take over a people accustomed to servitude, and substitute themselves for the czars. The other day a great French leader, equipped with scholarly knowledge of history and thoughtful about the philosophy of society, Charles de Gaulle, made an address to the French people on the eve of the Paris conference. He quoted another scholarly Frenchman who wrote more than a hundred years ago, de Toqueville:

"Two great peoples, starting at different points go forward. . .in a race of which the eye cannot see the limits. To attain his end the American relies on the strength and reason of individuals; Russia concentrates in one man all the power of society. The one has for his principal means of action liberty, the other servitude. The points of departure are difference, their paths are diverse. But each of these seems called by a secret design of Providence to hold one day in his hand the destinies of half the world."

Conflict of Ideas Irreconcilable

In that remarkable analysis and forecast deToquevile's only error was in assuming that the end would be two worlds, America heading the Western hemisphere, Russia the Eastern. What has been brought about by invention extinguishing space is one world, in all of which either the American idea or the Russian one will prevail. The Communist heads see it that way. They are intent upon infiltration and propaganda in the countries of the Western hemisphere, including the United States itself.

The conflict of ideas is irreconcilable, and that word gives anxiety to many, causing some to think of appeasement. The deepest cause of anxiety is that the conflict may end in war. Prevention of war, assurance of ending the conflict another way, will be best promoted by our being militarily as strong as Russia. When in any controversy one side is stronger than the other in the physical sense, peaceful outcome is thereby made less sure. In this controversy there is no umpire, no court. The setting up of a court to decide international disputes is one of the purposes of the present discussion, and courts for the settlement of controversies are one of the essential features of the system for which the United States stands. Lacking a court, there is always temptation to use force. The Russian heads have used force, within the past few years they have brought under their dominion the whole or parts of thirteen countries.

The most decisive battle that could be won by the United States and those associated with us, would be to bring it about that the Russian people had the same access to information and the same opportunity for individual opinion that exists outside Russia. By this could the controversy be kept most surely within the arena of men's minds.

Bowman's Addition Firefighters Burn $5,000 Mortgage

Debt On Buiding Is Liquidated In Less Than Three Years

Members of Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, started a fire Tuesday night, and stod by smiling, while it burned.

They were burning a $5,000 mortgage on their firehouse and club rooms.

The company was organized April 22, 1942, and work was started a short time later on construction of a brick building. Additions were made and in 1943 a one story brick building to house two pieces of apparatus and provide adequate quarters for social affairs was completed. But there was a mortgage of $5,000.

Since that time, a series of parties, socials, box socials, picnics, contests and other events have been held at the fire hall, and yesterday, the mortgage was burned and the place was debt free.

Speakers at the mortgage burning celebration included William Wilson of Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association; Herbert Sarver, president of the Bowman's Addition company; Harry McLucas, fire fire chief; James Bittner, treasurer chief; David Robertson, assistant and Albert Hillegas, trustee.

The speakers talked about the past activities of the company, the co-operation of residents of the company and make it debt-free, and community in helping establish the of the record it has made in fire prevention and submission.

During the company's history, 137 calls have been answered, and many thousands of dollars worth of property has been saved from fire loss. The company has covered a wide range and has fought fire at Flintstone, Manns Choice and Cresaptown.

Chief McLucas said last night, "We are ready to go anywhere, any time."

Motorist Ignores Order To Turn In Tags, Pays Fine

A Klondyke motorist who state police said refused to turn in his automobile license tags after being ordered to do so by the commissioner of motor vehicles was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Owen L. Porter, Frostburg, Tuesday morning on a charge to that effect. The motorist, listed as Frank Spataro, entered a plea of guilty.

State police said Spataro was convicted of drunken driving by Magistrate Porter several years ago and that the conviction was upheld in circuit court when Spataro filed an appeal. Subsequently his operator's license and tags were suspended.

After taking out financial responsibility insurance and filing an application, Spataro again received his operator's license and tags, police said. They added, however, that a short time ago, the insurance was about to lapse and the commissioner of motor vehicles ordered Spataro to turn in his license and tags.

Spataro turned in his license but refused to submit the tags, according to police.

Monday morning, W. B. Byrnes, an investigator for the department of motor vehicles, called on Spataro, showing him an order from the commissioner to pick up the tags, but Spataro refused to turn them over to him, police reported.

Yesterday morning, Byrnes reported the incident to state police and he and Trooper G. M. Rotruck went to Klondyke where they arrested Spataro and picked up the tags and his registration card. He was taken before Magistrate Porter who assessed the $10 fine.

State police took occasion to warn other motorists that whenever they receive orders from the commissioner of motor vehicles to turn over their tags they should do so at once or face arrest.

Baker Hospital To Be Given To VA.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 31 (AP)—Martinsburg business groups were informed today by Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-WVa) that papers implementing the transfer of the former Newton D. Baker general hospital to the Veterans Administration will be submitted to the Federal Hospitalization board tomorrow.

The transaction will take place in Washington, Randolph said, and will follow the official announcement earlier in the month that the VA would exercise its right to use the structures declared surplus cy the army last June 30.

It was explained that another 10 days probably would be required before technical acquisition of the war-built institution can be accomplished. The papers must be approved by the Budget Bureau and the White House.

Randolph added that an application from Shepherd college at Shepherdstown for use of some of the hospital accommodations for veterans seeking to enroll at the school also is being processed, but formal action must wait the VA's technical acquisition of the property.

The chap who ignores his obligations never gets far.

This meeting will be followed by a meeting a week later for the purpose of electing officers and the appointment of the charter night committee.

The charter will be presented by a representative of Optimist International, Seymour said, and the installation of officers will be conducted by District Governor John T. McRae, of Portsmouth, Va.

Additions were made and in 1943 a one story brick building to house two pieces of apparatus and provide adequate quarters for social affairs was completed. But there was a mortgage of $5,000.

Since that time, a series of parties, socials, box socials, picnics, contests and other events have been held at the fire hall, and yesterday, the mortgage was burned and the place was debt free.

Speakers at the mortgage burning celebration included William Wilson of Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association; Herbert Sarver, president of the Bowman's Addition company; Harry McLucas, fire fire chief; James Bittner, treasurer chief; David Robertson, assistant and Albert Hillegas, trustee.

The speakers talked about the past activities of the company, the co-operation of residents of the company and make it debt-free, and community in helping establish the of the record it has made in fire prevention and submission.

During the company's history, 137 calls have been answered, and many thousands of dollars worth of property has been saved from fire loss. The company has covered a wide range and has fought fire at Flintstone, Manns Choice and Cresaptown.

Motorist Ignores Order To Turn In Tags, Pays Fine

A Klondyke motorist who state police said refused to turn in his automobile license tags after being ordered to do so by the commissioner of motor vehicles was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Owen L. Porter, Frostburg, Tuesday morning on a charge to that effect. The motorist, listed as Frank Spataro, entered a plea of guilty.

State police said Spataro was convicted of drunken driving by Magistrate Porter several years ago and that the conviction was upheld in circuit court when Spataro filed an appeal. Subsequently his operator's license and tags were suspended.

After taking out financial responsibility insurance and filing an application, Spataro again received his operator's license and tags, police said. They added, however, that a short time ago, the insurance was about to lapse and the commissioner of motor vehicles ordered Spataro to turn in his license and tags.

Spataro turned in his license but refused to submit the tags, according to police.

Monday morning, W. B. Byrnes, an investigator for the department of motor vehicles, called on Spataro, showing him an order from the commissioner to pick up the tags, but Spataro refused to turn them over to him, police reported.

Yesterday morning, Byrnes reported the incident to state police and he and Trooper G. M. Rotruck went to Klondyke where they arrested Spataro and picked up the tags and his registration card. He was taken before Magistrate Porter who assessed the $10 fine.

State police took occasion to warn other motorists that whenever they receive orders from the commissioner of motor vehicles to turn over their tags they should do so at once or face arrest.

Baker Hospital To Be Given To VA.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 31 (AP)—Martinsburg business groups were informed today by Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-WVa) that papers implementing the transfer of the former Newton D. Baker general hospital to the Veterans Administration will be submitted to the Federal Hospitalization board tomorow.

The transaction will take place in Washington, Randolph said, and will follow the official announcement earlier in the month that the VA would exercise its right to use the structures declared surplus cy the army last June 30.

It was explained that another 10 days probably would be required before technical acquisition of the war-built institution can be accomplished. The papers must be approved by the Budget Bureau and the White House.

Randolph added that an application from Shepherd college at Shepherdstown for use of some of the hospital accommodations for veterans seeking to enroll at the school also is being processed, but formal action must wait the VA's technical acquisition of the property.

The chap who ignores his obligations never gets far.

It's The Blueberries For Summer

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

What fruit seems more beautifully cooling—just to look at—than a big, ripe, frosty cultivated blueberry? This year's crop seems to be larger and more handsome than ever, and certainly at the peak of flavor. They should be served, of course, icy cold, which makes that frosty look which tney have when they come off the vine even more authentic.

Blueberries can be served in any number of ways, starting with breakfast. What more delicious start for a hot summer's morning than a glass dish of them, topped with cream if you like, or just plain—in any case, requiring no precious sugar?

For luncheon, how about blueberry pancakes? Start with a jellied madrilene. Then come the pancakes. Then a tossed green salad instead of dessert, perhaps with a cheese dressing—or with a bit of cheese served with crackers to accompany it.

BLUEBERRY ROLL . . . grand finale to a summer meal.

Blueberry Pancakes

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 or 2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups milk (scant)
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 cup cultivated blueberries

Washing and pick over blueberries. Drain thoroughly. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg and milk. Add flour mixture and beat until smooth. Add shortening and mix thoroughly. Sprinkle a little flour over the drained blueberries and add them to the batter. Bake cakes slowly on hot, greased griddle. Serve with melted butter and a bit of powdered sugar if desired.

For dinner, use blueberries as dessert, this time dressed up a little, but happily requiring very little sugar, even so.

Blueberry Roll

5 eggs
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons sifted flour
2 3-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup cultivated blueberries

Separate the eggs. To the yolks add five tablespoons of sugar and beat. Beat the whites until very stiff and fold into the yolks with the sifted flour. Oil a cookie sheet lightly. Cover bottom and sides with waxed paper and oil the paper very lightly. Spread mixture on cookie sheet and bake at 350° for 10-15 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove. Sprinkle top of cake with three tablespoons sugar and loosen cake from the cookies sheet. Turn out onto another sheet of waxed paper and carefully remove other paper on top of cake. Roll up like a jelly roll without any filling, and place in refrigerator to cool. When cake has cooled; unroll it very carefully. Cream the cheese with the milk until it is soft enough to spread easily, then spread smoothly over the cake. Add a layer of blueberries. Rolly up the cake and serve in slices, with or without additional blueberries poured over. Serves 10.

Fire Fails To Halt Lichfield Trials

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, July 31. (AP)—A fire, apparently started deliberately by an incendiary bomb, broke out today in the Park hotel—the scene for the past three months of the trials of United States Army personnel accused of cruelty to American soldier-prisoners at the Lichfield, England, guardhouse.

The blaze was extinguished before serious damage was caused.

The German manager of the hotel, once a luxurious home for wealthy vacationers in this internationally known spot, said that two German hotel employes had been picked up for questioning by counter-intelligence agents. Neither the agents nor army officers would discuss the case.

An American soldier who turned in the alarm said a flash of smoke and fire was seen and that investigators later found the firing pin from a phosphorus incendiary grenade near the spot where the fire began in an unoccupied room. The blaze was confined to this room on the top floor of the five-story structure. Officer-defendants in the Lichfield case are housed in the hotel.

Despite the distraction of the fire engines, which arrived after hand extinguishers had controlled the blaze, hearings continued without interruption in the two courts-martial trying Col. James A. Killian, Highland Park, Ill., former Lichfield commander, and Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, Toledo, Ohio, former commander of a Lichfield guard company. Both are charged with authorizing and aiding guardhouse cruelties.

Cloture Roll Call

West Virginia's Mental Hospitals Are Understaffed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 31 (AP)—Board of Control President J. Z. Terrell perused an advertisement for mental hospital attendants in a Baltimore, Md., newspaper, then asked plaintively today, "How can we meet competition like that?"

A Maryland state institution was advertising for attendants and offering "a beginning salary of approximately $96—month, plus board, lodging, uniforms, and laundry, merit system status, vacation with pay, regular increase in salary, liberal retirement plan."

And that, Terrell said, is for an eight-hour day, 48-hour week, after which the attendants are paid overtime.

For West Virginia institutions, which he said are badly understaffed, the board can offer only $75 a month plus board and lodging for a 72-hour week with no overtime payment. Any extra work which emergencies require is the worker's own contribution, without pay.

There is no merit system status, no retirement plan, no security system of any comparable kind in the West Virginia hospital organization. Vacations are provided, but sometimes cannot be given because no replacements are available.

Such offers are being considered. A survey report to a special legislative committee on health urged the need particularly of a merit system and higher salary scale for both attendants and professional employes to provide larger and better trained staffs.

But legislative action is needed for such changes and the legislature, even if it were to authorize all such things, will not meet regularly until next January.

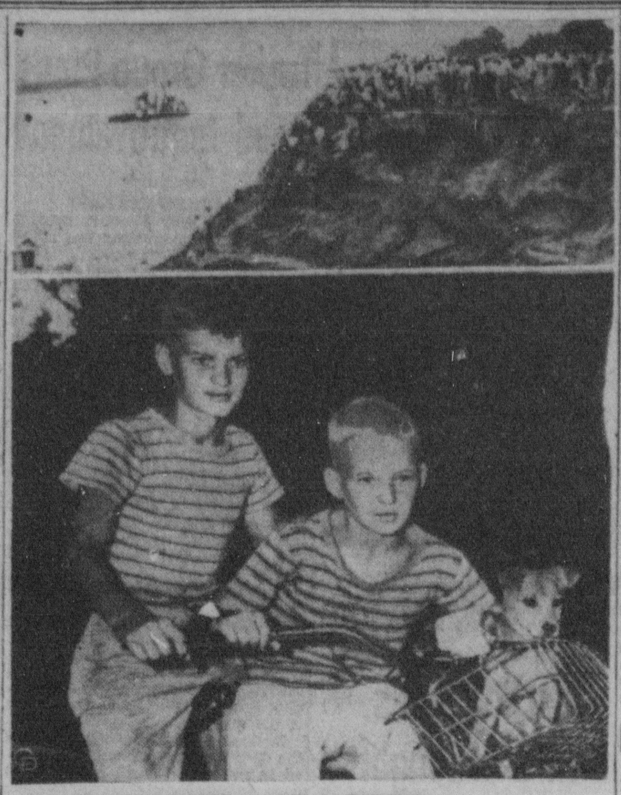

Meantime every state hospital is operating with a short staff, and Terrell expressed the fear that th shortages will continue as long as present low wages there and better salaries elsewhere continu.

The condition has improved somewhat in thel ast year, but the improvement has been slight compared with the need, he said.

FATHER WHO CHAINED DAUGHTER RECEIVES SUSPENDED SENTENCE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 31 (AP)—Kirby Leon Twitty, 38, today received a suspended sentence of one year in the house of correction and was fined $100 and $2.50 costs after his conviction of assault and battery against his 14-year-old daughter, Doris Joann.

Twitty, a naval academy employe, admitted at his trial before Magistrate James G. Woodward yesterday that he had chained the girl to a bed and had beaten her with a leather strap to punish her for leaving her home without her parents' consent and "going off with boys in automobiles."

The father, who pleaded innocent, told the magistrate it had been a choice between correcting the girl or turning her over to authorities after she continually "disobeyed her parents."

Mrs. Martha Twitty, Doris Joann's mother, appeared as a prosecution witness to testify the girl had "sassed her father" last July 20, when he fastened her to the bed and gave her about half a dozen strokes—according to his testimony, a hundred according to his daughter's—with a double-thonged leather strap.

Baltimore Fails To Get All-America Franchise

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—Prospects for a Baltimore entry in the All-America Football Conference have dwindled in the face of two difficulties mentioned at a luncheon here today by Joe Petritz, publicity director of the league.

Petritz addressed officials, radio and press representatives when James Crowley, president of the league, who was expected at the luncheon failed to show up.

Baltimore, Petritz said, was a desirable football city and the conference wished to include it but:

1. For the local franchise to become operative, one of the present eight cities would have to drop out, or

2. The conference would have to be enlarged.

"ELECTRICAL SOURCE" IGNITED AIRLINER

READING, Pa., July 31—(AP)—A Civil Aeronautics Board official said tonight that evidence at a CAB hearing "proves almost conclusively an electrical source" ignited the fire which sent a giant Transcontinental and Western Airlines Constellation plane crashing to the ground here July 11, killing five men.

As a result of that crash all Constellations—huie four-engine planes called by airlines the fastest in the world commercial transport service—have been grounded.

Joseph B. Duckworth, director of the safety bureau of the CAB, said in connection with his statement on the cause of the crash, that the electric wiring must be changed before Constellation planes can be returned to service.

'Conscience Fund' Of U. S. Treasury Nears $1,000,000

By JAY RICHTER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In 1811, there was in this country a citizen with the miseries in his conscience. His conscience hurt him so badly that the pain reached way down into his pockets. That was quite a pain, even in those days.

As a matter of fact, this unknown and unsung hero is the first American citizen on record whose conscience pained him to that degree. He explained it all to Uncle Sam on an anonymous letter containing a five-dollar bill. It was plain but eloquent prose.

He simply confessed that he had once bilked the government. For this misdeed, he had undergone "the most painful qualms of conscience," and wanted "to make things right."

Since that historic time 135 years ago, the country's conscience qualms have netted Uncle Sam almost a million dollars, United States treasury records show. Tens of thousands of citizens have sent in a total of $910,884.83 to ease their pain.

Donations have ranged from a nickel, which the donor gave "to reduce the national debt to a round figure," to the $30,000 which was contributed for no reason at all, as far as the records show.

Probably the most businesslike contributor in the fund's history was the man who sent in torn halves of 8,000 dollar bills.

"I'll send in the missing halves," he wrote, "as soon as you guarantee me the money will be put to good use."

Uncle Sam guaranteed same, and the matching halves came along as promised.

Quite a few contributors have been followers of Father Divine, well-known Negro evangelist. He tells members of his far-flung flock if they cannot settle for old sins with the victims thereof, they should pay off to the government.

A contribution of $30.37 from one follower was accompanied by a note which explained: "Inclosed please find United States postal money order for past evils and obligations explained herein."

There followed a bill of particulars which included a watermelon valued at 25 cents, stolen peanuts at 50 cents, baby chicks removed from a henhouse, a free movie "seen by slipping past the cashier when she looked the other way," cream drunk off the top of a milk can, and several other comparable crimes against ordered society.

Sometimes, it is quite a spell before conscience overtakes its victims. A Civil war veteran sent in $10 to pay for a federal mule a half-century after he'd walked off with it.

Treasury officials say that money is now beginning to come in from veterans of this war who brought government property home with them. It will probably dribble in for years to come. Not long ago, a World War I veteran sent in $2. He'd stolen a gas mask right after the war, turned it back to the army, then stole it again, and finally decided to pay for it.

Customs violations also plague the American conscience to a considerable degree. For example, a Floridian sent in a check for $2,000. His letter explained that he'd slipped two fur coats past customs inspectors.

The typical contributor, says the treasury, is the resident of a small town whose donation is fairly modest. He probably explains why he's sending the money, but doesn't give his name. An example is a recent offering of $1 from Scotts Bluff, Nebr.

"This is conscience money," said the enclosed check. "I am sorry. Forgive me. Citizen of the U. S. A."

Foreign contributions, however, are not unknown. The largest of these was a healthy $14,000 sent in by a Londoner via his British pastor.

Incidentally, anyone who feels he can ease Uncle Sam's conscience by taking some of that million off his hands had better relax until the feeling passes.

A lot of other people have felt the same way, and made generous offers. But the treasury is sorry. Conscience money goes into the general fund, and cannot be paid out without the okay of Congress.

Action Over Child's Custody Dismissed

Testimony Shows Petitioner And Defendant Live In Double House

Habeas corpus proceedings filed by George H. Wilson, Route 2, Williams road, to regain custody of his son, George H. Wilson, Jr., 6, were dismissed by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, who stated that the petitioner failed to show that the child was illegally detained by Mrs. Eva B. See, his grandmother.

Testimony in circuit court showed that Wilson and his wife, and Mrs. See, Wilson's mother, and the child live in a double house on Williams road.

The group lived together when the child was born and as the parents were working the grandmother took care of him, witnesses said. They added that when Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved away, the parents paid Mrs. See to take care of the boy.

It was testified that the boy sleeps at his grandmother's home and indications were that he preferred to stay with her since she had been taking care of him.

Mrs. See said, however, that she had not tried to force the boy to stay with her and pointed out that he was with his parents Tuesday.

Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., represented Wilson, and Urner G. Carl and Robert MacDonald Bruce represented Mrs. See.

A New York City mechanic has been arrested for operating as a dentist. Hadok Dumkopf who has disliked the profession since he was a small boy wonders how they knew the difference.

ANOTHER NEW CAR—Howard Darrin, custom auto designer, enters the automotive field with this lightweight six-cylinder car now going into production at Grand Rapids, Mich. Named the "Darrin", it will sell in the $2,000 class.

City Council Airs Traffic Problem

The local traffic and parking situation was given a lengthy airing yesterday at the semi-monthly payroll meeting of the mayor and city council. Several definite steps were announced, as means of helping relieve congestion.

Commissioner of Police and Fire William V. Keegan said he is endeavoring to eliminate a number of downtown parking areas so streets can be used for moving more traffic. He expects some of this work to be completed before the American Legion state convention and the races this month.

Keegan said meters are being installed in areas adjacent to the downtown area, to provide places for shoppers to park.

Commissioner of Streets Myers G. Light and Commissioner Kegan were authorized to have the "island" in City Hall plaza removed. Council concurred in the proposal that none but city employes and officials should use the plaza for parking.

Keegan also told council that parking in the vicinity of the post office will be prohibited, as complaints have come from a post office inspector about congestion there. He also declared when work on installing new parking meters is finished, a man will be employed on a full time basis as a meter-checker.

The mayor and council named Robert E. Barnard, Carl Schmutz and Robert L. Kifer, members of a three-man insurance commission to investigate the closing of an alley adjacent to the Schmidt Baking Company plant. The pay for members serving on such commissions was raised by council from $5 per job to $10 per job.

Street repairs and digging up streets by local companies was discussed. Council authorized Commissioner Light to have an ordinance prepared covering replacing of streets by such firms when their work was completed.

Council reappointed Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman for the ensuing year, following the submission of a medical report by Dr. J. K. Rozum to the effect that Chief Eyerman is in good physical condition.

Eyerman, who reached retirement age several years ago, has been police chief for 25 years.

Injunction Suit's Dismissal Sought

Declaring that circuit court lacks jurisdiction, a demurrer has been filed by counsel for Mildred Shinholt, Cumberland property owner, asking that a petition for an injunction sought by tenants to halt eviction proceedings be dismissed.

F. Brooke Whiting, counsel for the property owner, filed the demurrer and answer to the petition of Hayes M. Robertson and his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Robertson, who seek to prevent Sheriff David M. Steele from carrying out an eviction order issued two weeks ago in trial magistrates court at the request of the house owner.

Whiting said the Robertsons are not entitled to injunctive relief inasmuch as they failed to appeal within the period required by law. He also asserted the Robertsons could have rented another place after receiving notice last September 13 to vacate the house by November 13 that year, but did not do so.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper have sustained the demurrer of defense counsel in the equity action of Mrs. Eleanor Kaefer against the Second National bank, executor and trustee of the estate of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Kaefer. The petitioner was given the right to file an amended bill of complaint.

Mrs. Catherine Kaefer's will directed the bank, as executor, to pay $35 monthly to her son, Frederick and $25 monthly to his three children. In the meantime, the son was committed to a state hospital and his wife is seeking to have the payments made to her.

Harry I Stegmaier filed the demurrer for the bank since the will does not direct that payments be made to her. Edward J. Ryan represented Mrs. Kaefer.

'Conscience Fund' Of U. S. Treasury Nears $1,000,000

By JAY RICHTER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In 1811, there was in this country a citizen with the miseries in his conscience. His conscience hurt him so badly that the pain reached way down into his pockets. That was quite a pain, even in those days.

As a matter of fact, this unknown and unsung hero is the first American citizen on record whose conscience pained him to that degree. He explained it all to Uncle Sam on an anonymous letter containing a five-dollar bill. It was plain but eloquent prose.

He simply confessed that he had once bilked the government. For this misdeed, he had undergone "the most painful qualms of conscience," and wanted "to make things right."

Since that historic time 135 years ago, the country's conscience qualms have netted Uncle Sam almost a million dollars, United States treasury records show. Tens of thousands of citizens have sent in a total of $910,884.83 to ease their pain.

Donations have ranged from a nickel, which the donor gave "to reduce the national debt to a round figure," to the $30,000 which was contributed for no reason at all, as far as the records show.

Probably the most businesslike contributor in the fund's history was the man who sent in torn halves of 5,000 dollar bills.

"I'll send in the missing halves," he wrote, "as soon as you guarantee me the money will be put to good use."

Uncle Sam guaranteed same, and the matching halves came along as promised.

Quite a few contributors have been followers of Father Divine, well-known Negro evangelist. He tells members of his far-flung flock if they cannot settle for old sins with the victims thereof, they should pay off to the government.

A contribution of $30.37 from one follower was accompanied by a note which explained: "Inclosed please find United States postal money order for past evils and obligations explained herein."

There followed a bill of particulars which included a watermelon valued at 25 cents, stolen peanuts at 50 cents, baby chicks removed from a henhouse, a free movie "seen by slipping past the cashier when she looked the other way," cream drunk off the top of a milk can, and several other comparable crimes against ordered society.

Sometimes, it is quite a spell before conscience overtakes its victims. A Civil war veteran sent in $10 to pay for a federal mule a half-century after he'd walked off with it.

Treasury officials say that money is now beginning to come in from veterans of this war who brought government property home with them. It will probably dribble in for years to come. Not long ago, a World War I veteran sent in $2. He'd stolen a gas mask right after the war, turned it back to the army, then stole it again, and finally decided to pay for it.

Customs violations also plague the American conscience to a considerable degree. For example, a Floridian sent in a check for $2,000. His letter explained that he'd slipped two fur coats past customs inspectors.

The typical contributor, says the treasury, is the resident of a small town whose donation is fairly modest. He probably explains why he's sending the money, but doesn't give his name. An example is a recent offering of $1 from Scotts Bluff, Nebr.

"This is conscience money," said the enclosed check. "I am sorry. Forgive me. Citizen of the U. S. A."

Foreign contributions, however, are not unknown. The largest of these was a healthy $14,000 sent in by a Londoner via his British pastor.

Incidentally, anyone who feels he can ease Uncle Sam's conscience by taking some of that million off his hands had better relax until the feeling passes.

A lot of other people have felt the same way, and made generous offers. But the treasury is sorry. Conscience money goes into the general fund, and cannot be paid out without the okay of Congress.

Action Over Child's Custody Dismissed

Testimony Shows Petitioner And Defendant Live In Double House

Habeas corpus proceedings filed by George H. Wilson, Route 2, Williams road, to regain custody of his son, George H. Wilson, Jr., 6, were dismissed by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, who stated that the petitioner failed to show that the child was illegally detained by Mrs. Eva B. See, his grandmother.

Testimony in circuit court showed that Wilson and his wife, and Mrs. See, Wilson's mother, and the child live in a double house on Williams road.

The group lived together when the child was born and as the parents were working the grandmother took care of him, witnesses said. They added that when Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved away, the parents paid Mrs. See to take care of the boy.

It was testified that the boy sleeps at his grandmother's home and indications were that he preferred to stay with her since she had been taking care of him.

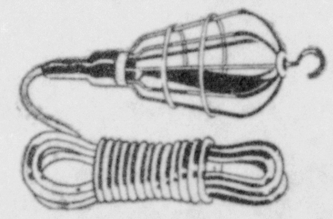

Mrs. See said, however, that she had not tried to force the boy to stay with her and pointed out that he was with his parents Tuesday.

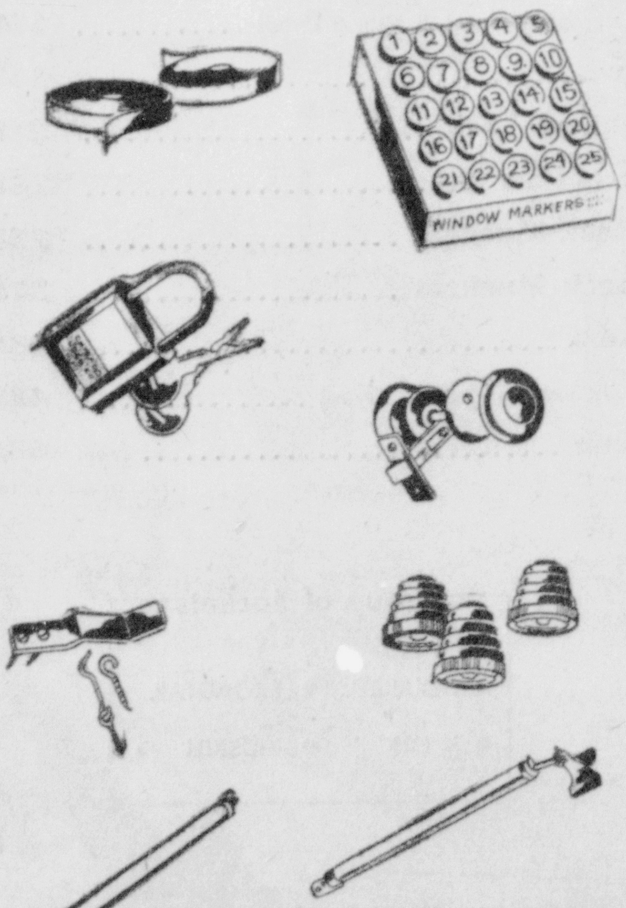

Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., represented Wilson, and Urner G. Carl and Robert MacDonald Bruce represented Mrs. See.

A New York City mechanic has been arrested for operating as a dentist. Rudok Dumkopf who has disliked the profession since he was a small boy wonders how they knew the difference.

Franklin Airs Sewage Menace

The septic system which carries sewage into the run on the south side of Bedford street, was criticized yesterday and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer conferred with Mayor Thomas S. Post regarding municipal action.

Dr. Franklin said the run flows over the road and creates a health hazard as well as a bad odor in warm weather. Although the decomposed material is partially taken care of by yeast, Dr. Franklin said the health hazard is still great.

Mayor Post said the Bedford road situation isn't a new problem, but the matter is one of cost and the city has authority for only $60,000 worth of bonds for such work. He estimated the Bedford road project would cost a half-a-million dollars.

Three Plans Considered

Three plans have been studied to alleviate the condition, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said and named them as follows:

1—Establish a small sewerage disposal plant in the valley by Nave's Crossroads. This plan was abandoned because of continuous maintenance costs that would be involved.

2—Install pumps to bring the sewage to where the city line ends on the grade at Bopp's and then carry it off through the Frederick street line Here again the matter of maintenance costs seemed to make such a project inadvisable plus the fact that doubt was expressed if the Frederick street line could handle the additional load.

3—Build an outfall sewer, using the gravity system, that would extend over four miles to the Evitts Creek section to connect with the city line on Williams Road. This plan, which would probably cost over half a million dollars, has been tentatively approved by the State Health Department.

Myers G. Light, commissioner, said he is aware of the Bedford street condition but added that a similar situation exists at Mapleside addition.

DECATUR STREET RESIDENTS NOTIFY MAYOR OF PROTEST

Mayor Thomas S. Post, has received notice that the residents of Decatur street will fight the council action to access them two-thirds of the cost for paving Decatur street.

The mayor said he didn't expect any trouble, at least until the work is finished and assessment liens are filed. He explained that William A Spruill, Decatur street, called Monday night and informed him that 40 residents of the street will probably instigate court action when the city levies an assessment against them to pay the paving cost.

The notice followed a vote by the mayor and city council to make improvements on Decatur street with the city paying one-third and the residents two-thirds of the cost.

The residents who filed a petition with 43 names, are protesting against the proposed levy for two-thirds of the cost because they contend that a paving job done in 1930 was inferior and other streets paved at that time are still in good condition. But minutes of the mayor and city council meeting of July 20, 1931 show that the work was inspected and approved by the city.

Spruill indicated that legal action will be taken when the council files proposed assessment rates in circuit court after the work is completed The assesment must be filed 90 day after the completion of the job, according to law.

Accident Results In Damage Action

An automobile accident on McMullen highway near McCoole July 24 has resulted in a $3,000 damage action being filed in circuit court by Thomas E. Danner, Cumberland, against John E. Glass, McCoole.

Danner, a veteran of World War II, said a car operated by Glass rounded a curve at excessive speed and crashed against his machine. He accused Glass of negligence. Danner said his car was completely demolished and had to be towed to a garage. Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., are his attorneys.

The Maryland Workshop for the Blind, through its attorneys, D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter, this city, and John G. Schipp, Baltimore, have filed a demurrer to the petition for a restraining order asked by James William O'Neal, blind operator of a vending stand in the lobby of the postoffice building. O'Neal opposes efforts of the state agency to take over the stand and pay him a salary.

Steve Drabish has filed suit against James S. Sheehe and his wife, Mrs. Frances R. Sheehe, asking $750. Drabish, represented by Baron, claims he painted the National hotel at Grantsville, owned by the defendants, and sent them a bill for $476.60, which they refused to pay.

Examination Announced

Applications for examinations by the Civil Service Commission for transportation tariff examiner (freight), inspector of locomotives, inspector of safety appliances, inspector of hours of service and inspector of railway signaling and train control, must be on file in the commission offices not later than Sept. 9. Forms may be obtained from the local secretary, Lawrence E. Crabtree, Room 120, post office building, or from the U. S. Civil service Commission, Washington, 25, D. C.

"But we do use electricity in lots of ways. It cooks our food and warms our baths and whisks our spare hairs off the furniture."

"Hm-m—guess you're right, gorgeous gal. . . . And it'll please you to know that the average family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!"

"Twenty years ago—when Grandpa was a pup—and hamburger was . . . how much did you say hamburger was?"

"I'll have to scratch up the exact figure for you. But now I must run along and pick up a scent. Electricity and I—forgive me—do a great deal of work for a cent. Yip, yip! Good day, Mrs. Spaniel."

Though this story's all fun, its facts are all true. Many things are scarce and expensive these days, but electricity is plentiful and cheap. One reason it's so cheap is because of your wider use—but another big reason is because America's business-managed electric companies constantly seek and find new ways to keep it so.

Franklin Airs Sewage Menace

The septic system which carries sewage into the run on the south side of Bedford street, was criticized yesterday and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer conferred with Mayor Thomas S. Post regarding municipal action.

Dr. Franklin said the run flows over the road and creates a health hazard as well as a bad odor in warm weather. Although the decomposed material is partially taken care of by yeast, Dr. Franklin said the health hazard is still great.

Mayor Post said the Bedford road situation isn't a new problem, but the matter is one of cost and the city has authority for only $60,000 worth of bonds for such work. He estimated the Bedford road project would cost a half-a-million dollars.

Three Plans Considered

Three plans have been studied to alleviate the condition, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said and named them as follows:

1—Establish a small sewerage disposal plant in the valley by Nave's Crossroads. This plan was abandoned because of continuous maintenance costs that would be involved.

2—Install pumps to bring the sewage to where the city line ends on the grade at Bopp's and then carry it off through the Frederick street line. Here again the matter of maintenance costs seemed to make such a project inadvisable plus the fact that doubt was expressed if the Frederick street line could handle the additional load.

3—Build an outfall sewer, using the gravity system, that would extend over four miles to the Evitts Creek section to connect with the city line on Williams Road. This plan, which would probably cost over half a million dollars, has been tentatively approved by the State Health Department.

Myers G. Light, commissioner, said he is aware of the Bedford street condition but added that a similar situation exists at Mapleside addition.

DECATUR STREET RESIDENTS NOTIFY MAYOR OF PROTEST

Mayor Thomas S. Post, has received notice that the residents of Decatur street will fight the council action to access them two-thirds of the cost for paving Decatur street.

The mayor said he didn't expect any trouble, at least until the work is finished and assessment liens are filed. He explained that William A. Spruill, Decatur street, called Monday night and informed him that 40 residents of the street will probably instigate court action when the city levies an assessment against them to pay the paving cost.

The notice followed a vote by the mayor and city council to make improvements on Decatur street with the city paying one-third and the residents two-thirds of the cost.

The residents who filed a petition with 43 names, are protesting against the proposed levy for two-thirds of the cost because they contend that a paving job done in 1930 was inferior and other streets paved at that time are still in good condition. But minutes of the mayor and city council meeting of July 20, 1931 show that the work was inspected and approved by the city.

Spruill indicated that legal action will be taken when the council files proposed assessment rates in circuit court after the work is completed. The assesment must be filed 90 day after the completion of the job, according to law.

Accident Results In Damage Action

An automobile accident on McMullen highway near McCoole July 24 has resulted in a $3,000 damage action being filed in circuit court by Thomas E. Danner, Cumberland, against Jonn E. Glass, McCoole.

Danner, a veteran of World War II, said a car operated by Glass rounded a curve at excessive speed and crashed against his machine. He accused Glass of negligence. Danner said his car was completely demolished and had to be towed to a garage. Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., are his attorneys.

The Maryland Workshop for the Blind, through its attorneys, D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter, this city, and John G. Schupp, Baltimore, have filed a demurrer to the petition for a restraining order asked by James William O'Neal, blind operator of a vending stand in the lobby of the postoffice building. O'Neal opposes efforts of the state agency to take over the stand and pay him a salary.

Steve Drabish has filed suit against James S. Sheehe and his wife, Mrs. Frances R. Sheehe, asking $750. Drabish, represented by Baron, claims he painted the National hotel at Grantsville, owned by the defendants, and sent them a bill for $476.60, which they refused to pay.

Examination Announced

Applications for examinations by the Civil Service Commission for transportation tariff examiner (freight), inspector of locomotives, inspector of safety appliances, inspector of hours of service and inspector of railway signaling and train control, must be on file in the commission offices not later than Sept. 9. Forms may be obtained from the local secretary, Lawrence E. Crabtree, Room 120, post office building, or from the U. S. Civil service Commission, Washington, 25, D. C.

Wife Says Male Ran With Women, Gets Divorce

An absolute divorce has been granted in circuit court to Mrs. Marie Gomer, 27, Mt. Savage, who said her husband, Harvey Gomer, was "running around continually with other women," had an apartment "fixed up" in a garage in Baltimore and was staying there with another woman, and is now serving time in jail after getting "mixed up in a lot of trouble."

The decree, signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster, orders Gomer to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Ralph H. Rice, a member of the marine corps, stationed at Augusta, Ga., has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Wilda Zembower Rice, Cumberland, on a charge of desertion. He also asks custody of their two children.

Mrs. Mildred F. Humbertson, this city, has filed suit for a divorce from James E. Humbertson, and asks the right to resume use of her maiden name, Wagner. Her counsel, Ryan, said they were married September 15, 1943, in Cumberland, and lived together until last November 11.

Mrs. Peggy O'Neill Phipps, represented by John T. Fey, has docketed suit for divorce from William Irving Phipps, but grounds were not disclosed.

Mrs. Emma M. Stride has filed suit for divorce from Hugh Stride on undisclosed grounds. Harold E. Naughton is her attorney.

High School Girl Has Two Problems For Miss Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a junior in high school, and I have two problems that I would like answered.

1. I like two boys. I would like to drop one and I don't know which one. One is overseas, and the other is here at home. I have never gone out with the one in the armed services, but I have constant dates with the other. Please solve this for me.

2. My boy friend here at home likes me, I'm sure, but yet my girl friend tries to make me jealous of her. She has tried to get him away from me, and I believe that he would like her. Please solve this for me, too.

WORRISOME"

Know what I think, "Worrisome"? I think these are not two problems but just one. I think what you're really wondering is whether you hadn't better drop the boy friend here at home before he drops you and takes up with your girl friend. That situation has you scared. If you were quite sure of this boy, you'd hardly be worrying about his ever giving the other girl a moment's thought, now would you?

Ordinarily, I'd be inclined to say that a boy friend at home, with whom you have "constant dates," is worth two overseas with whom you have never gone out. But under all circumstances, this may not turn out to be the case.

So why try to "drop" either one of them right now? Wouldn't it be better sense to just let things ride as they are for awhile, keeping a weather eye on the girl friend's progress with the boy friend? Then, if you really think he shows signs of giving you up in favor of her, you'll still have the one overseas to whom you can nonchalantly switch your interest as if that's what you had in mind all the time. If you should drop the overseas boy now, to concentrate on the other and keep him out of the girl friend's clutches, you'd be out on a limb all alone if your efforts were unsuccessful.

A Question About A Name

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had a child and wasn't married. Now he is starting to school in the fall. I am married now, and have been for four years.

My husband was in service three years and five months, and supported this child all the time. Would he legally have to adopt him for the child to take his name before going to school?

MRS. BETTY C.

You do not say definitely that your husband was the father of this child, but I assume that he was. If so, then the father's name is already rightfully the child's, and there would be no reason why any legal procedure need be involved.

If, however, the child is the son of another man, and the man now your husband wishes to adopt him and give him his name, that is another matter. You would then need to legalize the adoption in order to clear the way for the boy to take your husband's name.

Strikers Rebuffed By Plant Manager

Maurice Milberg, manager of the Cumberland Undergarment Company, yesterday refused to enter into contract negotiations with a new negotiation committee which is seeking a wage increase at the Gay street garment factory.

The plant manager said he had received a telegram which asked him to contact the strikers and arrange for a conference.

Milberg explained he was negotiating with bona-fide representatives of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union when the strike occurred July 18 and said the group which contacted him is not recognized by the ILGWU.

In her letter to Milberg, Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chairman of the negotiating committe of Local 434, ILGWU, declared the strikers have "full authority to conduct the business of the local" and called upon the plant manager to recognize officers elected at a meeting here Monday afternoon.

Persons who are foolish are often penalized by adversity.

Frank Spychalski of Milwaukee explained his presence in the park pond by saying he jumped in to prove his love for his wife. The judge fined him $5 for drunken and disorderly conduct.

Police Are Seeking Hit-Run Driver

Police were searching yesterday for the driver of a car which collided with a motorcycle at the intersection of North Mechanic and Bow streets yesterday at 12:55 a. m. and painfully injured the youth who was operating the motorcycle.

The victim, Eugene Grabenstein, 18, 541 Fairview avenue, was treated in Allegany hospital for brush burns of both knees and an ankle injury. Lt. James E. Van said the motorcycle operated by Grabenstein was parked on the right side of the street when it was struck by a Ford coupe bearing Pennsylvania tags.

Treated in the same hospital yesterday morning were O. W. Crothers, 38, Route 1, after he fell on a "sharp object" and injured his thigh, and Roy Emerick, 33, Fairhope, Pa., for a laceration above the left eye. The B. and O. worker said he was hurt at Ellerslie.

Mrs. Joseph Emerick, 44, wife of Ross Emerick, Hyndman, Pa., was treated in Allegany hospital late Tuesday night for a lacerated right arm and facial injuries.

Detective Thomas J. See, who took the woman to the hospital, said she told an officer a man struck her in the face and then stole her pocketbook containing $6 and a railroad ticket. Police said they later learned the woman was seen in a Centre street alley with a man.

Australia's contest to select the continent's tallest woman was won by a stately creature towering six feet, five-and-one-half inches.

High School Girl Has Two Problems For Miss Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a junior in high school, and I have two problems that I would like answered.

1. I like two boys. I would like to drop one and I don't know which one. One is overseas, and the other is here at home. I have never gone out with the one in the armed services, but I have constant dates with the other. Please solve this for me.

2. My boy friend here at home likes me, I'm sure, but yet my girl friend tries to make me jealous of her. She has tried to get him away from me, and I believe that he would like her. Please solve this for me, too.

WORRISOME"

Know what I think, "Worrisome"? I think these are not two problems but just one. I think what you're really wondering is whether you hadn't better drop the boy friend here at home before he drops you and takes up with your girl friend. That situation has you scared. If you were quite sure of this boy, you'd hardly be worrying about his ever giving the other girl a moment's thought, now would you?

Ordinarily, I'd be inclined to say that a boy friend at home, with whom you have "constant dates," is worth two overseas with whom you have never gone out. But under all circumstances, this may not turn out to be the case.

So why try to "drop" either one of them right now? Wouldn't it be better sense to just let things ride as they are for awhile, keeping a weather eye on the girl friend's progress with the boy friend? Then, if you really think he shows signs of giving you up in favor of her, you'll still have the one overseas to whom you can nonchalantly switch your interest as if that's what you had in mind all the time. If you should drop the overseas boy now, to concentrate on the other and keep him out of the girl friend's clutches, you'd be out on a limb all alone if your efforts were unsuccessful.

A Question About A Name

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had a child and wasn't married. Now he is starting to school in the fall. I am married now, and have been for four years.

My husband was in service three years and five months, and supported this child all the time. Would he legally have to adopt him for the child to take his name before going to school?

MRS. BETTY C.

You do not say definitely that your husband was the father of this child, but I assume that he was. If so, then the father's name is already rightfully the child's, and there would be no reason why any legal procedure need be involved.

If, however, the child is the son of another man, and the man now your husband wishes to adopt him and give him his name, that is another matter. You would then need to legalize the adoption in order to clear the way for the boy to take your husband's name.

Two of the four men were named as witnesses on the warrant charging the liquor violation.

Strikers Rebuffed By Plant Manager

Maurice Milberg, manager of the Cumberland Undergarment Company, yesterday refused to enter into contract negotiations with a new negotiation committee which is seeking a wage increase at the Gay street garment factory.

The plant manager said he had received a telegram which asked him to contact the strikers and arrange for a conference.

Milberg explained he was negotiating with bona-fide representatives of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union when the strike occurred July 18 and said the group which contacted him is not recognized by the ILGWU.

In her letter to Milberg, Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chairman of the negotiating committe of Local 434, ILGWU, declared the strikers have "full authority to conduct the business of the local" and called upon the plant manager to recognize officers elected at a meeting here Monday afternoon.

Persons who are foolish are often penalized by adversity.

Frank Spychalski of Milwaukee explained his presence in the park pond by saying he jumped in to prove his love for his wife. The judge fined him $5 for drunken and disorderly conduct.

Police Are Seeking Hit-Run Driver

Police were searching yesterday for the driver of a car which collided with a motorcycle at the intersection of North Mechanic and Bow streets yesterday at 12:55 a. m. and painfully injured the youth who was operating the motorcycle.

The victim, Eugene Grabenstein, 18, 541 Fairview avenue, was treated in Allegany hospital for brush burns of both knees and an ankle injury. Lt. James E. Van said the motorcycle operated by Grabenstein was parked on the right side of the street when it was struck by a Ford coupe bearing Peunsylvania tags.

Treated in the same hospital yesterday morning were O. W. Crothers, 38, Route 1, after he fell on a "sharp object" and injured his thigh, and Roy Emerick, 33, Fairhope, Pa., for a laceration above the left eye. The B. and O. worker said he was hurt at Ellerslie.

Mrs. Joseph Emerick, 44, wife of Ross Emerick, Hyndman, Pa., was treated in Allegany hospital late Tuesday night for a lacerated right arm and facial injuries.

Detective Thomas J. See, who took the woman to the hospital, said she told an officer a man struck her in the face and then stole her pocketbook containing $6 and a railroad ticket. Police said they later learned the woman was seen in a Centre street alley with a man.

Australia's contest to select the continent's tallest woman was won by a stately creature towering six feet, five-and-one-half inches.

Improvements To Beall High Grounds Begin

Hundreds Of Tons Of Earth Have Been Removed From Banks

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, July 31 — Work of cutting back large banks of earth on the east and north sides of Beall high school was started Monday with a power shovel recently secured from the government by the board of education. Hundreds of tons of earth have already been removed and spread on the surface of the ground in front and on the west side of the building. This side is to be graded so that surface water will flow away from the structure's foundations.

In the space from which the earth is being taken, a hard surfaced road will be built completely around the school. The lack of such a road has made it impossible in wet weather or during the winter months for trucks to reach the rear of the building where the elevator is located. Consequently milk and other supplies for the cafeteria had to be carried in the main entrance and up the stairways used by pupils.

When the spaces in front of the building on the east and west side of the main entrance sidewalk are graded, they will be seeded with grass and bordered with shrubbery and a hedge.

The work now being done is part of a plan to beautify the grounds immediately around the school.

The work of grading for the proposed athletic field in front of the school building will be started after the work now underway is completed.

Parole Is Sought By Men Convicted In Dornon's Death

Michael And Fazenbaker Are Serving One Year Sentences In Jail

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., July 31.—Russell Michael and Alvin Fazenbaker who are each serving a one-year sentence in the Mineral county jail for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Charles Dornon, last January appealed to the Mineral county circuit court today for parole.

The petition for their parole was presented by their attorney, E. L. Tyler.

H. G. Shores, attorney for the Dornon family, objected on the grounds that the court had been exceedingly lenient in passing sentence.

In addition to the jail sentence Michael and Fazenbaker were each fined $500 and assed with the costs of prosecution of the case. Arrangements have been made whereby the fines and cost will be paid if parole is granted.

Judge Ernest A. See has the appeal under consideration, but has not yet made a ruling.

Improvements To Beall High Grounds Begin

Hundreds Of Tons Of Earth Have Been Removed From Banks

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, July 31 — Work of cutting back large banks of earth on the east and north sides of Beall high school was started Monday with a power shovel recently secured from the government by the board of education. Hundreds of tons of earth have already been removed and spread on the surface of the ground in front and on the west side of the building. This side is to be graded so that surface water will flow away from the structure's foundations.

In the space from which the earth is being taken, a hard surfaced road will be built completely around the school. The lack of such a road has made it impossible in wet weather or during the winter months for trucks to reach the rear of the building where the elevator is located. Consequently milk and other supplies for the cafeteria had to be carried in the main entrance and up the stairways used by pupils.

When the spaces in front of the building on the east and west side of the main entrance sidewalk are graded, they will be seeded with grass and bordered with shrubbery and a hedge.

The work now being done is part of a plan to beautify the grounds immediately around the school.

The work of grading for the proposed athletic field in front of the school building will be started after the work now underway is completed.

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 — For my money Olivia de Havilland is one of the best actresses on the screen and I'm not alone in thinking that because almost every reviewer touted her as an Oscar candidate for her performance in "To Each His Own". Olivia's in Barbara Stanwyck's class for missing Oscars she should have won. And now I get around to the point—Livvy's been signed for the star role in "Ivy", Sam Wood's first picture on his International contract. It's her second in a row for Bill Goetz—the first being "The Dark Mirror".

The plot returns Sam Wood to one of his favorite movie settings, England ("Mr. Chips") although the Marie Belloc-Lowndes story is far from tender or sentimental. It's a chiller about an English wife responsible for the murder of her husband, who doesn't bat an eyelash when the crime is pinned on her innocent boy friend.

Don Ameche goes to Frank Borzage for "Gallant Man" to play a role of a married gambler who just can't stop taking chances he can't afford. The original is by Steve Fisher who received the most original bonus ever handed an author. In addition to a fat sized check, Steve also collected a thoroughbred colt in payment. Well, Fred Astaire paid only $6,000 for Triplicate who romped home with $79,000 on his nose in the Hollywood gold cup—so who knows what Fisher's "Bonus" will eventually pay off? Ralph Neves, one of the best riders in the country, plays a jockey in "Gallant Man".

When Frank Horn was Cary Grants' secretary he used to ask him what was the best way to become a writer. "Just write," replied Cary—which is the best advice on the subject I've heard to date. Frank took his boss at his word and authored "Feather On the Tide" which is so good that Rosalind Russell, Freddie Brisson and Dudley Nichols have bought it for their Independent Artists Corporation. This is all very fine for everybody but Cary. He's out a good secretary.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello interrupt their first vacation since 1941 to launch their one-night personal appearance tour raising funds for the free recreational and medical facilities of the Lou Costello Jr., Youth Foundation. The Boys themselves are kicking in to the tune of $350,000 of their own and expect to draw another $200,000 from 11 performances. In one appearance alone, at Buffalo's Stadium on Labor Day, they have been guaranteed $50,000. Universal co-operates by shoving back the starting date on the next Abbott and Costello movie, "Buck Privates Return" until September.

Chatter in Hollywood: It was a phony tip that Phyllis Brooks is just "dying" to come back to Hollywood and the movies. Her husband, Torbet McDonald, was here a couple of days on business, and says Phyllis is through with pictures for good. "I thought perhaps she would like to come out here with me and say hello to her old friends," he laughed, "but she wouldn't even do that. The big attraction back home is the baby. Phyllis is a wonderful mother—won't go anywhere without the youngster—and it's too hot to take a baby traveling."

Hollywood in shorts: Greg Bautzer dating Inez Bynum after those very emphatic denials from Joan Crawford that she and Bautzer are marriage minded. . . . The Joe Pasternaks tossed the best "musical" of the year in their garden Sunday The event was primarily to preview Joe's 12-year-old protege, Andra Mazel, a wonderfully talented violinist. The "artistes" who followed were Jimmy Durante burning up the piano keyboard in his old (and best) routines, Harry Richman and Dean Murphy whose imitation of Richman is just one lisp off being as good as Harry's. Spotted among the hors d'ouevres were Walter Pidgeon, Peter Lawford, Martha Stewart, Danny Thomas, Louis B. Mayer and Paul Lukas . . . . Yvonne de Carlo and Helmut Dantine are one degree above the latest thermometer reading. . . . Jean Negulesco gave an interview to a national magazine six months ago on how to keep from getting married. The mag hit the stands the day Jean took Dusty Anderson as his bride. . . . John Flinn Jr., one of the most popular press agents, moves from Warners to Lou Lifton's praisery at Monogram. . . . Charlie Foy is a very sick boy following his operation Monday. Last week another Foy, Eddie, was dangerously ill in New York. . . . Jack Dempsey's back in town but most of Estelle Taylor's dates are with New York actor, Kenneth Manning. They're regulars at the Beverly Tropics. . . . Bobby soxers tagging Cornel Wilde to a broadcast, smashed into his car and almost wrecked it—but Wilde was not hurt. . . . Brian Aherne and his bride dining with her daughter, Leonie, at the Brown Derby; Bill Goodwin has chartered a sky lanes blimp for the sole purpose of parking it over the ocean and fishing from it. That's all today.

Market Registers Sixth Straight Recovery On Expanding Volume

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Stocks and commodities exhibited a burst of strength today with the share market registering its sixth straight recovery on expanding volume and cotton futures climbing the permissible limit of $10 a bale.

Steels led the stock division on a bulge of one to four points or so around the fourth hour after modest and selective improvement had been achieved before midday. Motors, rubbers, aviations and assorted "thin" blue chips participated and a few of the recently wavering rails did better although a number of the carriers still were hesitant. Dealings picked up on the swing but soon slowed and top marks were well reduced at the close. Transfers of 1,020,000 shares compared with 810,000 Tuesday and were the largest since July 24.

Bethlehem was one of the day's wide swingers, up nearly five points at one time. It ended ahead 3¾ at $113.75. Chrysler was up as much at $121.50. Hiram Walker added 3½ at $140, Glidden 1⅝ at $49 on a lifted dividend, Du Pont 3½ at $214.50 and National Distillers 3⅛ at $90.75.

Pennsylvania railroad touched a new year's low and emerged off three-fourths at $37.87. Minus signs were retained by Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Texas Company, J. I. Case and Eastman Kodak.

Reorganization rails loans did better. At Chicago, corn was up 3⅞ to four cents a bushel, Barley 2¼ to 2½ and Oats seven-eights to 1¾.

Among Curb gainers were Cities Service, American Gas, Aluminum of America and Great Northern Paper. Turnover here was 300,000 shares versus 220,000 yesterday.

Lower-priced rail issues advanced briskly in the bond market as Congress moved toward approval of the Wheeler-Reed rail reorganization bill.

Gains ranged to an outside of around two points with most obligations ending at the season's best marks. House passage of the bill was announced shortly after the close.

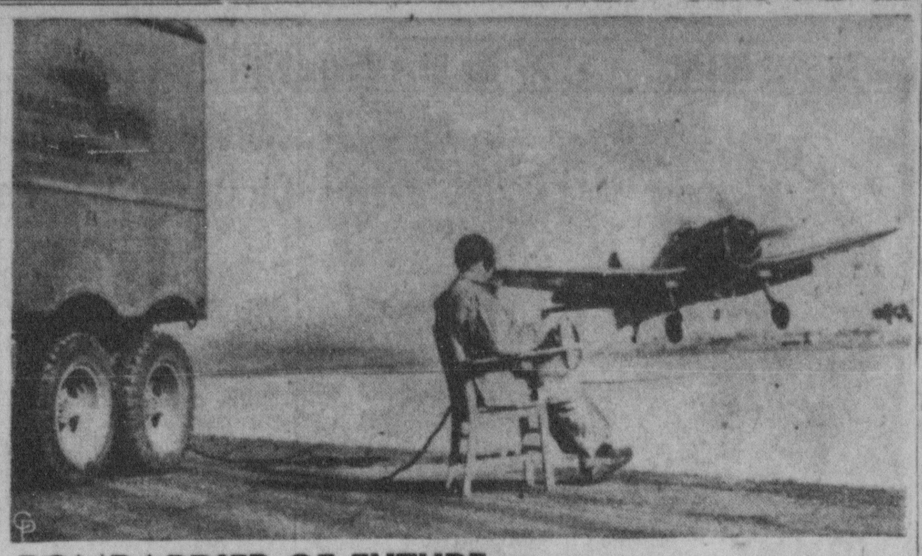

Gainers included Baltimore and Ohio convertibles at 67⅝, Central of Georgia "C" 5s at 24, Missouri Pacific general 4s at 44, and Frisco "A" 4s at 52.

Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s of '55 improved on substantial turnover. Brokers reported considerable speculative interest in the issue.

United States governments in the long-term brackets pulled ahead as much as one-quarter point after drifting slowly for a number of sessions. The Victory loan December 2½s closed one-quarter ahead at 102 25-32 bid.

BOMBARDIER OF FUTURE—Comfortably seated in a chair, a ground control officer brings a Navy Hellcat to a perfect landing during practice operations for the atomic test at Bikini. The facility and smoothness with which army and navy technicians operated their "drones" by remote control demonstrated that the age of push-button warfare is here and that the United States has the "know-how". Military men say that the performance of the "drones" at the Bikini test proved the fearsome potential of the radio-radar guided missile.

Market Registers Sixth Straight Recovery On Expanding Volume

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Stocks and commodities exhibited a burst of strength today with the share market registering its sixth straight recovery on expanding volume and cotton futures climbing the permissible limit of $10 a bale.

Steels led the stock division on a bulge of one to four points or so around the fourth hour after modest and selective improvement had been achieved before midday. Motors, rubbers, aviations and assorted "thin" blue chips participated and a few of the recently wavering rails did better although a number of the carriers still were hesitan.. Dealings picked up on the swing but soon slowed and top marks were well reduced at the close. Transfers of 1,020,000 shares compared with 810,000 Tuesday and were the largest since July 24.

Bethlehem was one of the day's wide swingers, up nearly five points at one time. It ended ahead 3⅝ at $113.75. Chrysler was up as much at $121.50. Hiram Walker added 3½ at $140. Glidden 1⅛ at $49 on a lifted dividend. Du Pont 3⅛ at $214.50 and National Distillers 3⅛ at $90.75.

Pennsylvania railroad touched a new year's low and emerged off three-fourths at $37.87. Minus signs were retained by Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Texas Company, J. I. Case and Eastman Kodak.

Reorganization rails loans did better. At Chicago, corn was up 3¾ to four cents a bushel, Barley 2¼ to 2½ and Oats seven-eights to 1¾.

Among Curb gainers were Cities Service, American Gas, Aluminum of America and Great Northern Paper. Turnover here was 300,000 shares versus 220,000 yesterday.

Lower-priced rail issues advanced briskly in the bond market as Congress moved toward approval of the Wheeler-Reed rail reorganization bill.

Gains ranged to an outside of around two points with most obligations ending at the season's best marks. House passage of the bill was announced shortly after the close.

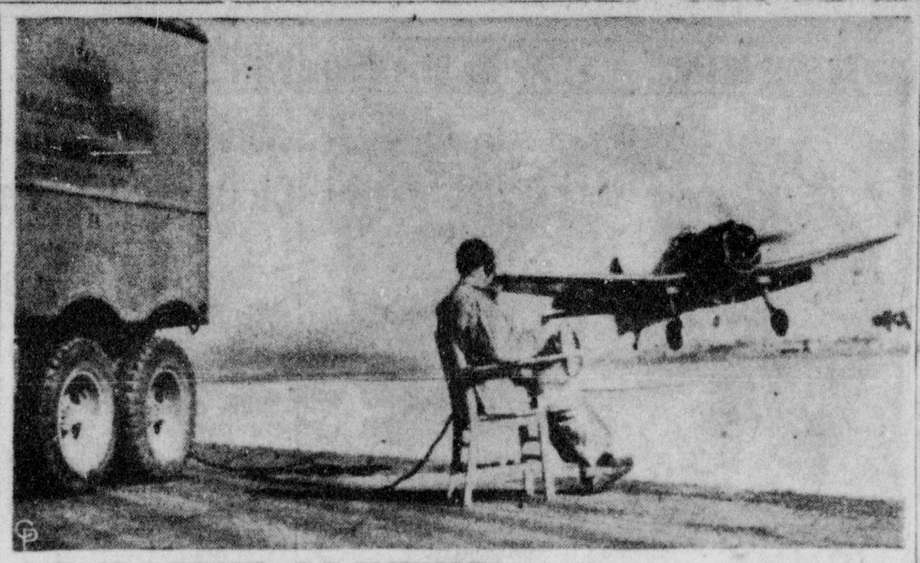

Gainers included Baltimore and Ohio convertibles at 67⅝, Central of Georgia "C" 5s at 24, Missouri Pacific general 4s at 44, and Frisco "A" 4s at 52.

Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s of '55 improved on substantial turnover. Brokers reported considerable speculative interest in the issue.

United States governments in the long-term brackets pulled ahead as much as one-quarter point after drifting slowly for a number of sessions. The Victory loan December 2½s closed one-quarter ahead at 102 25-32 bid.

BOMBARDIER OF FUTURE—Comfortably seated in a chair, a ground control officer brings a Navy Hellcat to a perfect landing during practice operations for the atomic test at Bikini. The facility and smoothness with which army and navy technicians operated their "drones" by remote control demonstrated that the age of push-button warfare is here and that the United States has the "know-how". Military men say that the performance of the "drones" at the Bikini test proved the fearsome potential of the radio-radar guided missile.

Chicago Grain Market

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—Advances in corn extended to four cents, in oats to nearly two cents and in barley to more than two cents today when fairly heavy shortcovering developed on continued dry weather in most of the grain belt.

Adding stimulus to the upturn were advancing hog prices in all midwestern livestock centers and trade reports that the Commodity Credit Corporation was in the market for 1,500,000 bushels of cash oats. Dealers said the oats apparently were wanted for UNRRA. Closing grain quotations:

CORN—January 1.43¾, March 1.44¼-½, May 1.41¾-½, July 1.39¾-¼, September 72-71⅞, November 72⅛-¼, December 73, March 74⅜-½.

Racing's FBI Reveals Allpulch Is Ringer

Horse Is Actually Sea Command, Son Of War Admiral; One Bettor Cleaned Up $30,000

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP)—Racing's "FBI" wound up an eight-state investigation of alleged "ringer" cases at several race tracks today, and announced that one horse has been running under false identity for eight months and that one man cleaned up more than $30,000 on him in one race.

Spencer Drayton, the former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, who heads the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, charged that this horse has been running in Florida and New England since last November as Allpulch, a five-year-old brown gelding once purchased for a mere $210, when actually it was Sea Command, a five-year old son of War Admiral. The records list Allpulch as having won five races in the last eight months.

Scratched At Rockingham

The horse entered as Allpulch was ordered scratched from today's fifth race at the Rockingham Park track in New Hampshire, where it was listed under the ownership of the Frances Stable. Drayton asserted Allpulch was bought in June 1945 for $210 "by an agent acting for" William P. Mink of Wilmington, Del. J. A. Creal, an owner, said he bought the horse, "sight unseen" for $500 last November. Sea Command has not been seen in action since he was claimed for $3,750 at Pimlico last fall. Drayton announced that "Robert Drummonds, trainer for W. F. Mink, has stated that he claimed Sea Command for Mink in the name of another party."

Mink and another Wilmington man, Paul Middleton, who owns a dairy farm in Delaware, are under charges in Maryland of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the alleged substitution of the horse Don't Delay for All Flo in a race at Bel Air tracks last Wednesday. Drayton contended that case, too, was the result of the investigation of his TRPB.

Won At Fancy Price

Drayton explained Drummonds related that after claiming Sea Command for $3,750, he shipped the horse, at Mink's direction, "to a farm in Delaware," from where he was re-shipped to Rockingham. He arrived at the New Hampshire track, Drayton added, with "the jockey club registration certificate for Allpulch." On November 13, he was entered as a $1,250 claimer in a race for maidens. A maiden is a horse that has never won a race. He won that race at a fancy $26.40 for $2 pay-off.

"It has been definitely established that Mink was in New England at the time," Drayton went on. "It has furthermore been developed that an unknown individual cashed over $30,000 worth of winning $100 tickets when the horse won what was supposedly its maiden race."

Since then the horse entered as Allpulch won another race in 1945 and has won three races and $6,300 so far this year.

Beat Cheaper Horses

In disclosing the investigation, Drayton explained that his agents had gone into Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Maryland, Delaware, Florida, Texas and Pennsylvania looking for evidence of "practices of certain individuals of putting over ringers at several race tracks." He described the practice as "the means of entering a horse of better breeding or speed in the name of a cheaper horse and running him against cheaper horses."

Purse Upped 300 Per Cent

* * * *

That "Hidden Ball Trick"

* * * *

Murphy Has Good Season

* * * *

Jim Leads Whitewashers

By C. V. BURNS

Announcement by the Cumberland Fair Association that the purse for the Clifton W. White Handicap this year has been upped from $1,000 to $1,200 indicates an increase of 300 per cent over the purses offered here for the main event ten years ago.

The top purse in 1936 was $400 while the minimum was $300 for the other six races on the card that year. Only seven races daily were run then.

The minimum today is $800 per race, which is a boost of 167 per cent over the amount paid to horsemen in 1936.

Last year at Fairgo, seventy-eight $800 purses and two $1,000 purses were offered—a total of $64,400 for eighty races. This year the program calls for seventy $800 events, nine $1,000 contests and one $1,200 race—a total of $66,200.

We don't know whether racegoers are aware of the fact but it will be dusk when they leave Fairgo after the eighth race daily this season. War time prevailed a year ago and it was actually 5:15 Eastern Standard Time when the last race was run here. And the 1945 meeting, which got under way August 7, ended on August 18, two days before this month's program is slated to start.

It was during last year's session the good news was received that Japan surrendered, ending the Second World War. That memorable date was Tuesday, August 14, which marked the opening of the second week of racing at the local half mile plant.

A rare play was executed in the first inning of the second game of Sunday's doubleheader here between American Legion junior nines when Jimmie Collins, centerfielder of Fort Cumberland Post became the victim of the ancient "hidden ball trick."

It was rare inasmuch as two players handled the ball before Collins was caught flatfooted off first base. We've seen players step off a base and get nailed by the guardian of that hassock but rarely do two players get away with such a killing.

Collins, first up, beat out a hit through the box. Jimmie apparently figured that the pitcher had possession of the ball and he took a few steps off base. Jim Bashelor, Leonardtown second sacker, then lined the ball to Francis Mattingly, guardian of the initial station, and Collins was a dead duck. The expression on Jimmie's face as he walked to the dugout indicated that it was a most embarrassing moment for him.

Garden State Park at Camden, N. J., doubted the popularity of the "daily double" and decided to test public opinion about this form of betting. The management soon found out. The vote was 9 to 1 for it so the "double" will be continued at the track's fall meeting which opens August 19.

Merle Lockard, who served as mascot for Cumberland Colt teams managed in past years by Eddie Eichner, dropped in to say "hello" the other evening. He's been employed at the Glenn L. Martin airplane manufacturing plant in Baltimore for three years. Merle, a former student manager of Fort Hill's basketball team, left greetings for his many friends and requested that we tell Bobby Cavanaugh to "run this town right until he comes back."

Presley "Red" Mauk's South Cumberland Athletic Club amateur boxers will resume their tour of the summer circuit tomorrow night when they appear on a card at Ebensburg, Pa.

Mauk hopes to land seven of his boys on the program, namely, Bobby Goss, Eddie King, new Negro bantam, Jimmie Catanese, Pat Murphy, Bill Frazier, Mike Leslie and Frank Metz or Charley Smith, a heavyweight just out of the navy.

The SCAC leather pushing team has figured in shows at St. Michael, Ebensburg, Windber, Pa., and Grafton, W. Va., this summer and has a record of seven wins and thirteen losses in a total of twenty bouts away from home.

Pat Murphy, the bantamweight, is the current ace of Mauk's string with three wins and one defeat. Murphy lost his first out-of-town match to Frank Chippie at St. Michael on May 24 then whipped Vic Tosa, at Ebensburg, June 7, duplicated the feat at Windber, June 12, and decisioned Don Post, of the Zan A. C. in Grafton, July 19. Murphy has won five out of seven matches since he entered the break-busting business last winter.

After tomorrow's show Mauk will get a team of five boys ready for the show at Portage, Pa., August 14.

When Keegan's Jupers were swamped by Williams Street, 30-0, in a City Softball League game Monday it was the eighth shutout suffered by the team which bears the police commissioner's name. Lacy's Delicatets is the only City loop team that has escaped a goose egg diet this season and the Cifala-backed outfit has engaged in 34 contests. Eighteen shoutouts have been recorded to date in the league.

Jimmie Wilkinson, B.P.O. Elks' pitching ace, is the local champ when it comes to dealing out horse collars to opposing teams. Four of his twelve wins were shutouts and his victims were the Jaycees, Outdoor Club, Texcel and the Legion. Jim has won his last five starts. His losses for the season total four.

Wilkinson has scored enough shutouts to qualify for membership in Whitewashers' Local No. 898¾.

Doerr's Single Robs Bob Feller Of No-Hit Game

Cleveland Ace Fans Nine And Scores 20th Win Over Boston, 4-1

CLEVELAND, July 31—(AP)—Bobby Doerr's single in the second inning robbed Bob Feller of a no-hitter today as the Cleveland Indians' fireball ace became the second major league hurler to notch 20 victories with a 4-to-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

BOBBY DOERR

Rapid Robert whiffed Ted Williams for the first time this year and fanned eight other Sox to rocket his total for the season to 239. Feller swept honors for the day by belting a towering two-run triple in the second and scoring the Indians' third marker a moment later.

Rudy York, hefty Boston first baseman whose heavy hitting has been a feature of the league leaders' pennant drive, went down swinging three time on Bob's fast ball and Feller humbled Williams in the fourth frame. Other strikeout victims of Feller were Dominic DiMaggio, losing Pitcher Mickey Harris, John Lazor, Wally Moses and Don Gutteridge. Box:

TIGERS BLANK YANKS, TAKE SECOND PLACE

DETROIT, July 31 (AP) — Big Alton Benton, making his first start since May 5, shut out the New York Yankees 6 to 0 on a five-hit performance today to pitch the Detroit Tigers into second place in the American League.

Birdie Tebbetts, Hank Greenberg and Dick Wakefield backed up Benton's air-tight flinging with a homer apiece, knocking in four of the Tiger tallies.

Both the other Detroit runs were forced across the plate when starting Yankee Pitcher Marius Russo walked Roy Cullenbine with the bases loaded in the first inning and passed Wakefield with the sacks jammed in the second.

Mel Queen, who relieved Russo in the second, hurled one-hit ball until the seventh when Hoot Evers singled, Greenberg blasted his 24th home run of the season and Wakefield followed with his fifth circuit swat.

Detroit's second straight triumph over the New Yorkers gave the Tigers sole possession of second place with a percentage of .583 to New York's .582. Box:

CHISOX WIN IN NINTH

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox scored three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Athletics, 3 to 2, today after the A's had taken a lead with two runs in the seventh.

The A's scored two runs on four hits to assume a 2 to 0 lead in the seventh.

The Sox, however, won the game in the ninth on Bob Kennedy's fifth homer of the season, a single by Ralph Hodgin, Michael's sacrifice, Lopat's single, Tucker's fielder's choice and Luke Appling's single to center, which drove in the winning run. Box:

Cards Emerge From Slump To Trounce Dodgers, 10-3

St. Louis Evens Series As Dickson Cops 9th; Brecheen To Oppose Vic Lombardi Today

BROOKLYN, July 31 (AP) — Exploding from a dismal batting slump, The St. Louis Cardinals today shelled three Brooklyn hurlers for 15 solid hits in piling up a 10-3 victory that sliced the Dodgers' league lead to 2½ games.

In squaring their "crucial" series with the Brooks, Eddie Dyer's awakened Redbirds ran up their biggest hit total since July 3, and routed Lefty Joe Hatten to disprove Leo Durocher's theory that they are easy meat for southpaws.

Murry Dickson, a 28-year-old righthander from Tracy, Mo., with a matchstick build, weathered a fourth-inning storm to get home with a 10-hit decision, his ninth of the season to three setbacks and his second in a row over the Dodgers.

For the finale of the short series tomorrow, Dyer named Harry (The Cat) Brecheen who has won seven and dropped 10 to oppose Brooklyn's Vic Lombardi, also a southpaw, with a 10-5 record. Box:

REDS CAPTURE PAIR

PHILADELPHIA, July 31 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds overwhelmed their Shibe Park jinx today, sweeping a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and 2-0 before 13,569.

Previously the Reds had lost six successive games in the "house that Connie Mack built."

Bill McKechnie's crew had to go eleven innings to win the opener, and when they did it was largely on the strength of three Philadelphia errors that sent two runs across the plate to break a 2-2 tie. The Phils rallied but could score only once in their their half of the frame. Ray Mueller homered for the Reds in the second inning.

Ewell Blackwell outpitched Blix Donnelly in the nightcap, but needed some last-inning help from Harry Gumbert. Held to four hits in the first eight frames, the Phils got three more to load the bases in the ninth before Gumbert forced Frank McCormick to hit into a game-ending double play. Box:

Beall High Football Fund Nears $3,000 Goal; Committee Will Meet

FROSTBURG, July 31 — A recent donation of $100 from the Frostburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, has boosted the Beall high school football fund to $2,967.50, just $32.50 short of the goal of $3,000, it was announced today by Lloyd G. Griffith, publicity chairman of the Football for Beall Committee.

Part of the equipment for outfitting the team has been packed and will be sent to the school in the near future.

Progress has been reported on the proposed insurance policy to cover the players of the football team.

CUBS TRIP GIANTS

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, with Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson hitting home runs, shellacked the New York Giants 8-1 before a paid attendance of 25,288 tonight.

Claude Passeau, aided by a 14-hit attack, coasted to his eighth victory of the season as he limited the Giants to five hits.

A double by Willard Marshall and a single by Johnny Mize gave them a 1-0 lead in the third inning, but after Pafko tied up the game with his fourth inning home run, Peanuts Lowrey doubled to bring in two more Chicago runs. A double by Phil Cavarretta highlighted a four-run sixth inning.

The victory was Passeau's first since June 25 and ended a five-game losing skein. The veteran righthander had been on the sidelines with an ailing back. Score:

Browns Subdue Nats

ST. LOUIS, July 31 (AP)—Four hits and an error produced four runs in the eighth inning for the St. Louis Browns tonight in their 6-2 triumph over the Washington Senators behind Nelson Potter's six-hit pitching.

Potter faltered in the ninth as Washington filled the bases on three walks but with two out Relief Pitcher Tom Ferrick forced Joe Grace to pop out to Vern Stephens at short.

Grace assisted the Senators to an early two-run lead with his first-inning homer followed by successive doubles by Gerald Priddy and Mickey Vernon which produced the second tally.

The Browns waited until the sixth to tie the score with Walt Judnich's single which drove in Stephens and Jeff Heath. They loaded the bases in the third with two out but couldn't get a man home. Score:

The Dean brothers—not Dizzy and Paul but Harry and Bill—pulled a game out of the fire for Williams Street yesterday on the Rolling Mill diamond when they provided timely base hits in the last of the seventh inning to sink Lacy's Delicatets by the score of 8-7.

Williams Street took its last turn at bat trailing by two runs and Harry Dean put the City Softball League leaders all-square with the Delicatets when he pounded out a single to drive in Porter with the run which made the score 7-7. Then Bill Dean stepped to the plate and hammered home the winning marker with a timely two-bagger.

Jim Roby, the league's leading pitcher was on the rubber when Williams Street put the game on ice. He came on in the second inning to replace Starter Jim Wright. It was Roby's fifth setback. He has won 16.

Fisher homered in the third for the winners and Lapp tripled with one aboard. Penner, of Lacy's, hit for the circuit in the fourth with one on base.

Bill Dean with three for four paced the Williams Street stickers while Bob Doak hit safely twice in three attempts. Penn obtained two of Lacy's six hits. Bill Underdonk went the route for the victors, notching his twelfth win against three setbacks.

Keegan's Jupers and North End Social and Athletic Club remained idle yesterday after the former team requested postponement of the game at 5 p. m., at which time it was raining.

Maccabees Move Up

The Maccabees replaced East Side in fourth place in the league standings by defeating the latter at Taylor field, 13-7. The victory gave the Bees a record of seven wins and seven losses for the second half.

Charley Abe, the Bees' third sacker, who has handled 32 consecutive chances at the hot corner without a slipup since being shifted from the outfield, had a perfect day at the plate by rapping out four hits. "Pete" Cecil hit another one of his round-trippers and Duncan, Ritchie and Crabtree banged out two bingles each. The Maccabees gathered 15 hits while Mel Swick let East Side down with eight to chalk up his seventh win in 14 starts. Barnes garnered two of the blows.

Gaffney Stars In Relief

With Big Jim Gaffney tossing six innings of no-hit relief ball, the American Legion nine defeated the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 5-2, at Community Park.

Gaffney was inserted in the second inning after the Vets had collected two runs and three hits off Roy Taylor in the opening stanza. Only three men reached first base, two on walks and one on an error after Gaffney took command.

The first half champs won the game in the third by scoring three runs. Bob Dougherty doubled to center, moved to third on Howie Wilson's one base knock and both runners scored as Bill Raupach doubled to left. Raupach counted when Vet shortstop Kenny Sherman let Lou Bell's hot grounder get through him.

Dougherty and Wilson led the Legion offensive with two hits each. The scores:

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — From water boy to coach within one year—that's the record of Max Krause, former halfback from the Washington Redskins.

Racing's FBI Reveals Allpulch Is Ringer

Horse Is Actually Sea Command, Son Of War Admiral; One Bettor Cleaned Up $30,000

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 31. (AP)—Racing's "FBI" wound up an eight-state investigation of alleged "ringer" cases at several race tracks today, and announced that one horse has been running under false identity for eight months and that one man cleaned up more than $30,000 on him in one race.

Spencer Drayton, the former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, who heads the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, charged that this horse has been running in Florida and New England since last November as Allpulch, a five-year-old brown gelding once purchased for a mere $210, when actually it was Sea Command, a five-year old son of War Admiral. The records list Allpulch as having won five races in the last eight months.

Scratched At Rockingham

The horse entered as Allpulch was ordered scratched from today's fifth race at the Rockingham Park track in New Hampshire, where it was listed under the ownership of the Frances Stable. Drayton asserted Allpulch was bought in June 1945 for $210 "by an agent acting for" William P. Mink of Wilmington, Del. J. A. Creal, an owner, said he bought the horse, "sight unseen" for $500 last November. Sea Command has not been seen in action since he was claimed for $3,750 at Pimlico last fall. Drayton announced that "Robert Drummond's, trainer for W. F. Mink, has stated that he claimed Sea Command for Mink in the name of another party."

Mink and another Wilmington man, Paul Middleton, who owns a dairy farm in Delaware, are under charges in Maryland of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the alleged substitution of the horse Don't Delay for All Flo in a race at Bel Air tracks last Wednesday. Drayton contended that case, too, was the result of the investigation of his TRPB.

Won At Fancy Price

Drayton explained Drummonds related that after claiming Sea Command for $3,750, he shipped the horse, at Mink's direction, "to a farm in Delaware," from where he was re-shipped to Rockingham. He arrived at the New Hampshire track, Drayton added, with "the jockey club registration certificate for Allpulch." On November 13, he was entered as a $1,250 claimer in a race for maidens. A maiden is a horse that has never won a race. He won that race at a fancy $28.40 for $2 pay-off.

"It has been definitely established that Mink was in New England at the time," Drayton went on. "It has furthermore been developed that an unknown individual cashed over $30,000 worth of winning $100 tickets when the horse won what was supposedly its maiden race."

Since then the horse entered as Allpulch won another race in 1945 and has won three races and $6,300 so far this year.

Beat Cheaper Horses

In disclosing the investigation, Drayton explained that his agents had gone into Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Maryland, Delaware, Florida, Texas and Pennsylvania looking for evidence of "practices of certain individuals of putting over ringers at several race tracks." He described the practice as "the means of entering a horse of better breeding or speed in the name of a cheaper horse and running him against cheaper horses."

Tippen Suffers Leg Fracture As Tony's Cops Frostburg Tilt

FROSTBURG, July 31 — Bobby Tippen, catcher for Tony's Club, suffered a fractured leg in the first inning of today's Frostburg Softball League game between Tony's and the Century Athletic Club while sliding into second base. He was taken to Miners' hospital.

Tippen's leg was broken above the ankle.

Twenty-four bases on balls were issued by two pitchers in today's game in which Tony's was the winner by the score of 8-7. Jack Wilhelm, Century hurler, issued 17 walks while Joe Tippen gave seven free tickets. Tony's coupled five walks with three hits for six runs in the third inning. "Stony" Jackson, of Century, was the only player credited with two hits. Layman, of the winners, drew four bases on balls. The score:

The Doge Establishes Atlantic City Record

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 31 —(AP)—The Pentagon Stable's The Doge set a new six furlongs track record of 1:10 4-5 when he was a handy winner of the Margate Purse, sixth and feature race of today's program at Atlantic City Race Track.

The Doge, under top weight of 122 pounds, finished four lengths ahead of Rampart, the only filly in the field of eight.

Just as easily as The Doge won, Rampart was second best. She had forced the fast pace at all times and finished 3¼ lengths ahead of Marine Victory. Viva Teddy was fourth. The first four horses never changed positions during the running.

The estimated crowd of 15,000 had made a standout favorite, making the straight payoff on the winner $3.20 for $2.

Purse Upped 300 Per Cent

* * * *

That "Hidden Ball Trick"

* * * *

Murphy Has Good Season

* * * *

Jim Leads Whitewashers

By C. V. BURNS

Announcement by the Cumberland Fair Association that the purse for the Clifton W. White Handicap this year has been upped from $1,000 to $1,200 indicates an increase of 300 per cent over the purses offered here for the main event ten years ago.

The top purse in 1936 was $400 while the minimum was $300 for the other six races on the card that year. Only seven races daily were run then.

The minimum today is $800 per race, which is a boost of 167 per cent over the amount paid to horsemen in 1936.

Last year at Fairgo, seventy-eight $800 purses and two $1,000 purses were offered—a total of $64,400 for eighty races. This year the program calls for seventy $800 events, nine $1,000 contests and one $1,200 race—a total of $66,200.

We don't know whether racegoers are aware of the fact but it will be dusk when they leave Fairgo after the eighth race daily this season. War time prevailed a year ago and it was actually 5:15 Eastern Standard Time when the last race was run here. And the 1945 meeting, which got under way August 7, ended on August 18, two days before this month's program is slated to start.

It was during last year's session the good news was received that Japan surrendered, ending the Second World War. That memorable date was Tuesday, August 14, which marked the opening of the second week of racing at the local half mile plant.

A rare play was executed in the first inning of the second game of Sunday's doubleheader here between American Legion junior nines when Jimmie Collins, centerfielder of Fort Cumberland Post became the victim of the ancient "hidden ball trick."

It was rare inasmuch as two players handled the ball before Collins was caught flatfooted off first base. We've seen players step off a base and get nailed by the guardian of that hassock but rarely do two players get away with such a killing.

Collins, first up, beat out a hit through the box. Jimmie apparently figured that the pitcher had possession of the ball and he took a few steps off base. Jim Bashelor, Leonardtown second sacker, then lined the ball to Francis Mattingly, guardian of the initial station, and Collins was a dead duck. The expression on Jimmie's face as he walked to the dugout indicated that it was a most embarrassing moment for him.

Garden State Park at Camden, N. J., doubted the popularity of the "daily double" and decided to test public opinion about this form of betting. The management soon found out. The vote was 9 to 1 for it so the "double" will be continued at the track's fall meeting which opens August 19.

Merle Lockard, who served as mascot for Cumberland Colt teams managed in past years by Eddie Eichner, dropped in to say "hello" the other evening. He's been employed at the Glenn L. Martin airplane manufacturing plant in Baltimore for three years. Merle, a former student manager of Fort Hill's basketball team, left greetings for his many friends and requested that we tell Bobby Cavanaugh to "run this town right until he comes back."

Presley "Red" Mauk's South Cumberland Athletic Club amateur boxers will resume their tour of the summer circuit tomorrow night when they appear on a card at Ebensburg, Pa.

Mauk hopes to land seven of his boys on the program, namely, Bobby Goss, Eddie King, new Negro bantam, Jimmie Catanese, Pat Murphy, Bill Frazier, Mike Leslie and Frank Metz or Charley Smith, a heavyweight just out of the navy.

The SCAC leather pushing team has figured in shows at St. Michael, Ebensburg, Windber, Pa., and Grafton, W. Va., this summer and has a record of seven wins and thirteen losses in a total of twenty bouts away from home.

Pat Murphy, the bantamweight, is the current ace of Mauk's string with three wins and one defeat. Murphy lost his first out-of-town match to Frank Chippie at St. Michael on May 24 then whipped Vic Tosa, at Ebensburg, June 7, duplicated the feat at Windber, June 12, and decisioned Don Post, of the Zan A. C. in Grafton, July 19. Murphy has won five out of seven matches since he entered the break-busting business last winter.

After tomorrow's show Mauk will get a team of five boys ready for the show at Portage, Pa., August 14.

When Keegan's Jupers were swamped by Williams Street, 30-0, in a City Softball League game Monday it was the eighth shutout suffered by the team which bears the police commissioner's name. Lacy's Delicatets is the only City loop team that has escaped a goose egg diet this season and the Cifala-backed outfit has engaged in 34 contests. Eighteen shoutouts have been recorded to date in the league.

Jimmie Wilkinson, B.P.O. Elks' pitching ace, is the local champ when it comes to dealing out horse collars to opposing teams. Four of his twelve wins were shutouts and his victims were the Jaycees, Outdoor Club, Texcel and the Legion. Jim has won his last five starts. His losses for the season total four.

Wilkinson has scored enough shutouts to qualify for membership in Whitewashers' Local No. 898¾.

Doerr's Single Robs Bob Feller Of No-Hit Game

Cleveland Ace Fans Nine And Scores 20th Win Over Boston, 4-1

CLEVELAND, July 31—(AP)—Bobby Doerr's single in the second inning robbed Bob Feller of a no-hitter today as the Cleveland Indians' fireball ace became the second major league hurler to notch 20 victories with a 4-to-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

BOBBY DOERR

Rapid Robert whiffed Ted Williams for the first time this year and fanned eight other Sox to rocket his total for the season to 239. Feller swept honors for the day by belting a towering two-run triple in the second and scoring the Indians' third marker a moment later.

Rudy York, hefty Boston first baseman whose heavy hitting has been a feature of the league leaders' pennant drive, went down swinging three time on Bob's fast ball and Feller humbled Williams in the fourth frame. Other strikeout victims of Feller were Dominic DiMaggio, losing Pitcher Mickey Harris, John Lazor, Wally Moses and Don Gutteridge. Box:

TIGERS BLANK YANKS, TAKE SECOND PLACE

DETROIT, July 31 (AP) — Big Alton Benton, making his first start since May 5, shut out the New York Yankees 6 to 0 on a five-hit performance today to pitch the Detroit Tigers into second place in the American League.

Birdie Tebbetts, Hank Greenberg and Dick Wakefield backed up Benton's air-tight flinging with a homer apiece, knocking in four of the Tiger tallies.

Both the other Detroit runs were forced across the plate when starting Yankee Pitcher Marius Russo walked Roy Cullenbine with the bases loaded in the first inning and passed Wakefield with the sacks jammed in the second.

Mel Queen, who relieved Russo in the second, hurled one-hit ball until the seventh when Hoot Evers singled, Greenberg blasted his 24th home run of the season and Wakefield followed with his fifth circuit swat.

Detroit's second straight triumph over the New Yorkers gave the Tigers sole possession of second place with a percentage of .583 to New York's .582. Box:

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox scored three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Athletics, 3 to 2, today after the A's had taken a lead with two runs in the seventh.

The A's scored two runs on four hits to assume a 2 to 0 lead in the seventh.

REDS CAPTURE PAIR

PHILADELPHIA, July 31 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds overwhelmed their Shibe Park jinx today, sweeping a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and 2-0 before 13,569.

Bill McKechnie's crew had to go eleven innings to win the opener, and when they did it was largely on the strength of three Philadelphia errors that sent two runs across the plate to break a 2-2 tie. The Phils rallied but could score only once in their their half of the frame. Ray Mueller homered for the Reds in the second inning.

Ewell Blackwell outpitched Blix Donnelly in the nightcap, but needed some last-inning help from Harry Gumbert. Held to four hits in the first eight frames, the Phils got three more to load the bases in the ninth before Gumbert forced Frank McCormick to hit into a game-ending double play. Box:

Cards Emerge From Slump To Trounce Dodgers, 10-3

St. Louis Evens Series As Dickson Cops 9th; Brecheen To Oppose Vic Lombardi Today

BROOKLYN, July 31 (AP) — Exploding from a dismal batting slump, The St. Louis Cardinals today shelled three Brooklyn hurlers for 15 solid hits in piling up a 10-3 victory that sliced the Dodgers' league lead to 2½ games.

In squaring their "crucial" series with the Brooks, Eddie Dyer's awakened Redbirds ran up their biggest hit total since July 3, and routed Lefty Joe Hatten to disprove Leo Durocher's theory that they are easy meat for southpaws.

Murry Dickson, a 28-year-old righthander from Tracy, Mo., with a matchstick build, weathered a fourth-inning storm to get home with a 10-hit decision, his ninth of the season to three setbacks and his second in a row over the Dodgers.

For the finale of the short series tomorrow, Dyer named Harry (The Cat) Brecheen who has won seven and dropped 10 to oppose Brooklyn's Vic Lombardi, also a southpaw, with a 10-5 record. Box:

CUBS TRIP GIANTS

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, with Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson hitting home runs, shellacked the New York Giants 8-1 before a paid attendance of 25,288 tonight.

Claude Passeau, aided by a 14-hit attack, coasted to his eighth victory of the season as he limited the Giants to five hits.

A double by Willard Marshall and a single by Johnny Mize gave them a 1-0 lead in the third inning, but after Pafko tied up the game with his fourth inning home run, Peanuts Lowrey doubled to bring in two more Chicago runs. A double by Phil Cavarretta highlighted a four-run sixth inning.

The victory was Passeau's first since June 25 and ended a five-game losing skein. The veteran righthander had been on the sidelines with an ailing back. Score:

ST. LOUIS, July 31 (AP)—Four hits and an error produced four runs in the eighth inning for the St. Louis Browns tonight in their 6-2 triumph over the Washington Senators behind Nelson Potter's six-hit pitching.

Potter faltered in the ninth as Washington filled the bases on three walks but with two out Relief Pitcher Tom Ferrick forced Joe Grace to pop out to Vern Stephens at short.

Grace assisted the Senators to an early two-run lead with his first-inning homer followed by successive doubles by Gerald Priddy and Mickey Vernon which produced the second tally.

The Browns waited until the sixth to tie the score with Walt Judnich's single which drove in Stephens and Jeff Heath. They loaded the bases in the third with two out but couldn't get a man home. Score:

The Dean brothers—not Dizzy and Paul but Harry and Bill—pulled a game out of the fire for Williams Street yesterday on the Rolling Mill diamond when they provided timely base hits in the last of the seventh inning to sink Lacy's Delicatets by the score of 8-7.

Williams Street took its last turn at bat trailing by two runs and Harry Dean put the City Softball League leaders all-square with the Delicatets when he pounded out a single to drive in Porter with the run which made the score 7-7. Then Bill Dean stepped to the plate and hammered home the winning marker with a timely two-bagger.

Jim Roby, the league's leading pitcher was on the rubber when Williams Street put the game on ice. He came on in the second inning to replace Starter Jim Wright. It was Roby's fifth setback. He has won 16.

Fighting Frank Wins Over Armed In Chicago Race

Handicap Champ Suffers Third Loss In Row In $22,700 Event

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—Armed, the Calumet Farm's distance star which swept through an early eastern campaign to become the nation's handicap champion, suffered his third consecutive defeat in the $22,700 Quick Step Stakes at Washington Park today, finishing second to the speedy favorite, Fighting Frank.

The estimated crowd of 21,000 made Armed second choice in the wagering, an unique experience for the Calumet star, which was weighted with 130 pounds compared to 108½ carried by the winner.

The 3-year-old son of Fighting Fox, ridden by Jockie Georgie South, quickly went to the front and led all the way, while Armed trailed in the field of five starters. Fighting Frank, enjoyed a four length lead most of the way. Armed put on a stretch drive along the rail, but was still two and a half lengths behind the winner at the finish.

J. Howard Rouse's Three Dots ran third, six lengths behind Armed, and a head in front of Hal Price Headley's Little Nip.

Fighting Frank paid $5.20, $2.80 and $2.20. The place return on Armed was $3.00 with $2.40 to show. Three Dots paid $2.60 to show.

It was the first time Armed was held at more than even-money since winning the Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park last winter. Armed's next start will be in the $30,000 Sheridan Handicap at a Mile here Saturday.

Armed previous defeats since leaving Belmont last month for Arlington Park were recorded in the Equipoise Mile, where he finished third to Witch Sir and Old Kentuck, and in the Arlington Handicap which Historian won by a neck.

Ray And Charles To Clash Aug. 15

Topnotch Negro Heavies Meet In Forbes Field, Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 31—The Violent One is coming back to town and soon. That could be only Elmer (Violent) Ray, the murderous punching heavyweight from Hastings, Fla., who took the town by storm a few weeks ago when he flattened Larry Lane in two rounds at Zivic Arena.

The Rooney-McGinley Boxing Club confirmed the Violent One's return today with the announcement that Ray will meet Ezzard Charles, the flashy Cincinnati dynamiter at Forbes Field, Thursday night, August 15 in a bout that should come close to jamming the Oakland ball park.

Charles, the No. 1 lightheavyweight contender is a great local favorite and has established himself almost as a local boy by his impressive showings hereabouts. His last appearance at the ball park was in May when he handily trounced Archie Moore, to attain the No. 1 rating in his division.

Monday night in Cincinnati, the hard-hitting Charles knocked out Lloyd Marshall in six rounds. Marshall had previously scored a k.o. over Ezzard shortly after the dusky destroyer entered the army.

Fighting Frank Wins Over Armed In Chicago Race

Handicap Champ Suffers Third Loss In Row In $22,700 Event

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—Armed, the Calumet Farm's distance star which swept through an early eastern campaign to become the nation's handicap champion, suffered his third consecutive defeat in the $22,700 Quick Step Stakes at Washington Park today, finishing second to the speedy favorite, Fighting Frank.

The estimated crowd of 21,000 made Armed second choice in the wagering, an unique experience for the Calumet star, which was weighted with 130 pounds compared to 108½ carried by the winner.

Fighting Frank, owned by Mrs. Louise S. Donovan, Muskegon, Mich., sped off with Washington's Inaugural six furlong stake by two and a half lengths in the fast time of 1:10 on a slightly off track.

The 3-year-old son of Fighting Fox, ridden by Jockie Georgie South, quickly went to the front and led all the way, while Armed trailed in the field of five starters. Fighting Frank, enjoyed a four length lead most of the way. Armed put on a stretch drive along the rail, but was still two and a half lengths behind the winner at the finish.

J. Howard Rouse's Three Dots ran third, six lengths behind Armed, and a head in front of Hal Price Headley's Little Nip.

Fighting Frank paid $5.20, $2.80 and $2.20. The place return on Armed was $3.00 with $2.40 to show. Three Dots paid $2.60 to show.

It was the first time Armed was held at more than even-money since winning the Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park last winter. Armed's next start will be in the $30,000 Sheridan Handicap at a Mile here Saturday.

Fighting Frank earned $15,450 for the victory.

Armed previous defeats since leaving Belmont last month for Arlington Park were recorded in the Equipoise Mile, where he finished third to Witch Sir and Old Kentuck, and in the Arlington Handicap which Historian won by a neck.

Ray And Charles To Clash Aug. 15

Topnotch Negro Heavies Meet In Forbes Field, Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 31—The Violent One is coming back to town and soon. That could be only Elmer (Violent) Ray, the murderous punching heavyweight from Hastings, Fla., who took the town by storm a few weeks ago when he flattened Larry Lane in two rounds at Zivic Arena.

The Rooney-McGinley Boxing Club confirmed the Violent One's return today with the announcement that Ray will meet Ezzard Charles, the flashy Cincinnati dynamiter at Forbes Field, Thursday night, August 15 in a bout that should come close to jamming the Oakland ball park.

Charles, the No. 1 lightheavyweight contender is a great local favorite and has established himself almost as a local boy by his impressive showings hereabouts. His last appearance at the ball park was in May when he handily trounced Archie Moore, to attain the No. 1 rating in his division.

Monday night in Cincinnati, the hard-hitting Charles knocked out Lloyd Marshall in six rounds. Marshall had previously scored a k.o. over Ezzard shortly after the dusky destroyer entered the army.

PHILS SIGN HIM—Star of the U. S. Naval Academy baseball team, Bob Hill, 22, of Washington, D. C., has been signed by the Philadelphia Phillies. Hill, a first baseman, batted .360 for the Navy nine and was the Middie heavyweight boxing champion.

Radio Programs To Pay Tribute To Army Air Forces

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 31—Programs paying tribute to Army Air forces day are to be found on Thursday night's schedule.

One of them is at 9 p. m. on ABC, with Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker and actor Ben Lyon participating in a dramatization, "Keeping the Peace."

Another is scheduled for MBS at 9:30, in which Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, Jimmy Doolittle, Johnny Stewart are among those to be heard.

Still an addition special, titled "Birth of the Atom Bomb" is to be displayed in drama form on ABC at 9:30.

America's Town meeting is back in New York via ABC at 7:30 for a discussoin of "How can Germany be united?" Among others the panel will include H. V. Kaltenborn, NBC commentator.

Patti Clayton will get the guest song spot in the Sound Off with Mark Warnow on CBS at 7:30. She will sing, yeah that's right, at least three times.

Elaine Carrington's playhouse, still running its merry way on the MBS available list at 7, will do "The Show Must Go On," a piece dealing with football and Shakespearean drama . . . At this same time on CBS, the Suspense eerie drama has been having a little trouble trying to decide what to put on. First it was "Blue Eyes," the latest scheduling making it "Commuters Ticket." In any case, the acting lead will be that of J. Carroll Naish.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Pfc John W. Woods, who was killed in action in France, August 1, 1944.

Will time never erase the anguish
That each dawn brings anew?
Is there no end to this sorrowing
Now that God has called on you!

Two years have passed since you answered,
And you are through of earthly trial.
You never returned to your loved ones here,
For you sleep under foreign soil.

Sadly missed by
MR. & MRS. TERENCE P. WOODS
& FAMILY,
St. Mary's Terrence,
Lonaconing, Md.
8-1-1t-N

In loving memory of Pvt. Earl L. Clites, who gave his life in France two years ago today, August 1, 1944.

So many years ago there came a boy,
Cradled and taught to walk, with tender care,
Growing to manhood, strong to do his share.
Then came the summons, oh, how cruel the blow!
How could he leave us, who loved him so?
Father, who seest us, hear our parent prayer,
As we watched here, O God, please watch him There
Sadly missed by his
BROTHER AND COUSIN.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Pfc John W. Woods, who was killed in action in France, August 1, 1944.

Will time never erase the anguish
That each dawn brings anew?
Is there no end to this sorrowing
Now that God has called on you!

Two years have passed since you answered,
And you are through of earthly trial.
You never returned to your loved ones here,
For you sleep under foreign soil.

8-1-1t-N

In loving memory of Pvt. Earl L. Cilles, who gave his life in France two years ago today, August 1, 1944.

So many years ago there came a boy,
Bringing to us our overflow of joy!
Cradled and taught to walk, with tender care,
Growing to manhood, strong to do his share,
Then came the summons, oh, how cruel the blow!
How could he leave us, who loved him so?
Father, who seest us, hear our parent prayer,
As we watched here, O God, please watch him There
Sadly missed by his

Rubber Workers To Vote On Plan To End Stoppage

Production At Kelly Plant May Be Resumed This Afternoon

If members of Local 26, URCLP-WA, who were working on Nos. 4 and 5 loop machines accept a compromise plan for operation of the machines at a meeting this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the union hall, it is hoped that production at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant will be resumed on the 3 o'clock shift this afternoon, Ralph C. Beard, president, reported last night.

Beard said workers on the machines are asked to attend the special meeting to be held in the union hall so they may accept or reject the proposed settlement of the present grievance.

The union official said the compromise plan which will permit continuous operation of equipment in the curing room was worked out at a meeting between officials of the company and union at the Kelly plant yesterday from 5 to 7 p. m.

Explains Proposal

The proposal will give the company approximately the production it desires and at the same time will guarantee the workers against any loss of pay, Beard explained.

The Kelly company wanted 60 heats each eight hour shift, the union official said, and added that the compromise plan will provide 60 heats by utilizing the equipment continuously through the use of relief crews during lunch periods.

Beard said workers of all three shifts of the Kelly curing room met yesterday with union officials and proposed that five men crews working seven and one-half hours would produce 28 heats and four man crews on No. 5 loop would produce 25 heats in the same time. The company, he explained, offered to furnish relief crews to relieve men during their lunch periods so that machines could be in continual use.

A company spokesman said the four man crew has been producing 24 heats each shift and that the company requested 27 heats from the four man crew with the addition of a relief man and 33 heats from the five-man crew with a relief man.

Offers Task Allowance

He added the compromise plan will offer a task allowance to enable the five-man crew to work up to their 33 heats which would allow them to maintain normal earnings level while they were working up to the higher output.

The Kelly official said work could be resumed on the 3 p. m. shift today if the company receives word in time but added that power house workers would have to be in the plant from two to four hours ahead in order to prepare for resumption of work on that shift.

The walkout of ten workers of the curing department early Tuesday morning in protest over a change in the production and number of men required to operate loop machines precipitated the strike which halted production at the Kelly plant Tuesday afternoon, throwing approximately 2,500 persons out of work.

Stream Pollution And Abatement Discussed Here

Sothoron Predicts Completion Of Savage River Dam In Two Years

Predicting that the Savage river dam, on which work was suspended during the war, would be completed within two years, State Senator L. Harold Sothoron, Prince George's county, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin told a meeting of the Upper Potomac River Board here last night, that the board should fill an important function in planning of the upper portion of the Potomac Basin.

Sothoron declared there is need for a regional agency to informally co-ordinate and plan the control and abatement of pollution which affect or are affected by pollution.

The commission chairman said that it may be necessary to create a sanitary district in order to economically carry forward a pollution abatement program, similar to that which has already been established, and now functioning in the Washington metropolitan area.

Abatement Delayed

Difficulties in the past have delayed the abatement of pollution not only in the Potomac Basin but also in other areas, Sothoron asserted. This lack of action by local and state authorities has led to the present trend toward federalized control which you have seen by the recent introduction of many bills for federal control of pollution abatement and the control of other natural resources, he added.

Stating that there are problems both of quantity of water available, and quality of the water, Sothoron declared that the North Branch of the Potomac from Luke to its junction with the South Branch is badly polluted and that during dry months conditions are so bad, many industries cannot obtain sufficient water for their manufacturing processes.

The chairman added that visual conditions and odors along the banks of the stream are so bad that property values are lowered and there is no chance for additional industry to establish in the area if they need water for their processes.

Sothoron declared there are a number of ways to correct the situation—construction of the Savage river dam, which would increase the low water flows to a point where sufficient amounts of process and cooling water will be available to industry although it will not be of good quality.

Since additional water is desirable during the summer months if the pollution problem is to be entirely solved, Sothoron said other methods for further increasing the low water flows should be investigated and plans should be made for those programs which seem to be desirable in this regard. The Upper Potomac River Board can and should encourage the logical existing agencies to proceed with these projects at an early date, the chairman added.

Need Increased Water Flows

In addition to increasing the water flows, it will be necessary to treat all of the sanitary sewage, industrial wastes and acid mine drainage in the area before a stream of reasonable quality can be expected, Sothoron declared. The board should investigate and study the desirability of forming a county sanitary district which may be the best method to solve the complex problems of the area, particularly those in the Georges creek basin.

Sothoron declared that industries should be encouraged to plan co-operatively for the control and treatment of their wastes to such a degree that the streams of the area will be able to carry the load without causing objectionable conditions. Steps should be taken to encourage the industrial concerns of the area to carry on research work upon the treatment of those materials which must be discharged as liquid wastes.

Sothoron said the board should interest itself in the following:

1—Flood control problems at Cumberland and Ridgeley, and in the Luke-Piedmont area.

4—Encouragement of soil conservational and proper forest practices as outlined in the present soil conservation program of the federal agencies.

Sothoron declared that the problem of pollution is so acute in this area that unless it is solved this region cannot develop economically beyond the point which it has now reached.

Board's Progress Reviewed

Senator Sothoron was presented by Mark W. Roe, who also reviewed briefly the history of the Upper Potomac River Commission, and progress it has made in surveys leading to the partial completion of the Savage river dam.

Roe stated that the commission decided at a meeting held at New Germany in May, to enlarge its membership to embrace civic sportsmen's and other groups interested in "clean and unpolluted water" in the area. About a dozen new names were added to the commission at the close of the meeting.

Several persons in the audience commented upon the problem, and Arthur P. Hoffa, mayor of Barton spoke at length urging consideration of water problems peculiar only to the Georges Creek Region.

The mortgage burning ceremony was preceded by a program of speaking and followed with a social hour. (See story page 5.)

Building Material Prices Discussed At Meeting Here

OPA Representatives Confer With Contractors And Sub-contractors

F. L. McClean, chief of the industrial material section of the Baltimore Office of Price Administration addressed a group of about 30 local contractors and sub contractors in the city hall auditorium yesterday, on a proposed area pricing order, for building material and labor costs in construction.

Owen E. Hitchins, county administrator for OPA introduced McClean, who outlined the proposal of OPA to establish percentage markups on labor and material here.

Frank Burnham, Baltimore, an OPA price specialist accompanied McClean here, and indicated he and members of his staff will be in Cumberland August 5, 6 and 7, to make a survey of local contractors for the purpose of arriving at equitable markups for this area. The price specialists will make their headquarters at the local OPA board offices in the Union street building.

Duane V. Ramsey of the National Housing Agency, who is here to probe the shortage of building materials, and to determine what is happening to building materials supposed to be used for homes for veterans, also attended the meeting.

At a meeting which preceded the price discussion Ramsey asked a number of pertinent questions, but contractors were of the opinion that building materials are not coming into the area.

The opinion was expressed by some that lumber mills and other producers of building materials have a labor shortage problem and sufficient building materials are not being produced.

Free Maternity Care Explained

In response to many inquiries and misunderstandings about the Emergency Maternity and Infant Care program administered by the Maryland State Health Department, the local Red Cross Home Service division has prepared a series of questions and answers designed to clarify the facts. They are:

1. Who is eligible for maternity care?

The legal wife of any member of the armed forces who holds one of the four lowest ranks, provided conception takes place previous to his discharge.

2. What does EMIC provide?

Free prenatal and postnatal examinations by the wife's personal physician, and hospital care in a ward. The patient may not pay for a private room herself and have free doctor's care.

3. How do I get EMIC?

The Red Cross office has the necessary blanks which should be completed as soon as possible after learning of pregnancy.

4. What care is given to the child?

Pediatric care is provided for children for one year after birth.

5. Can I use free care after my husband is discharged?

Yes, if the child was conceived while the husband was in service.

6. If there is a question as to date of conception may I apply?

West Virginia Man Held On Bad Check Charge

L. W. Kessell, Williamsport, W. Va., was lodged in county jail yesterday afternoon on a bad check charge, after being arraigned in trial magistrates' court. Kessell waived a hearing and Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., had him committed in default of $350 bond.

Kessell is charged by city police with cashing a check for $25 at Shonter's Furniture Company, North Centre street. The check was drawn on the Grant County Bank of Petersburg, W. Va., and Chester C. Stewart of the furniture store said the check was returned as Kassell had no account there.

The man is being held for action of the October grand jury.

German Writes He Is Interested In Stamp Collecting And Eating

A letter received at the city hall yesterday evoked considerable comment and interest, and was passed about among nearly all the city hall employees, finally being presented to Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary in the engineer's office, who is reputed to be a stamp collector, but she says it's "just a hobby".

The letter is addressed to "The Chief of Finance Office in Cumberland, Maryland, USA, and is from Hans Kohl, Hohenzollernstr, 89, Ludwigshafen, Rhine, Germany.

Kohl explains that he is a chief of finance officer and is not and never has been a Nazi. He is interested in eating and also in stamp collecting.

He offers to exchange stamps for their equivalent value in food, with any person interested.

His letter says in part, "Please excuse my writing, but I am a German finance official like you are an American and therefore I ask you whether you would do me a favor.

"I am collecting stamps and I am looking for an address of an American which is collecting stamps too and with whom you are acquainted. If you know somebody in your office, who is collecting stamps, please give him these lines.

"I am collecting stamps of Germany, Poland, General Government, Bohemia and Moravia, but I shall take care for all stamps which you require.

"I like to get no more but food as equivalent because we have a great food shortage in Germany. I am forced to choose this uncommon way and I am requesting for comprehension for my situation.

"Please give me your assistance. I should be very thankful for this. Besides I never have been a Nazi and I have many witnesses about it.

"I am waiting for your answer. Sincerely, Kohl".

Attached to a letter were a number of French stamps, which Miss Shoemaker plans to add to her collection. She did not indicate whether she plans to answer the man's letter, but commented, "I guess he never heard about the meat and butter shortage over here".

Rec Club Increases Admission To Dances

Admission to Rec club dances at Central YMCA, beginning this Friday, will be increased from 25 to 30 cents, Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of the Y, reported after a meeting of the Rec club council.

Arthur Shaffer, business manager of Jay Van's orchestra, was a guest at the meeting and explained some problems experienced by orchestras.

A committee, Lynn Sheetz and Lyndon Gump, was appointed to arrange for an orchestra for a dance on Thanksgiving day following the annual football game. Sisson announced that Jay Van's orchestra will play for the Friday night dance that week as usual. He added that there will be no dance on Friday August 30, because of improvements to be made to the gymnasium at that time.

Thomas Powers, president of the council, presided. The next meeting will be August 20.

New Cleaning Plant Permit Is Issued

A building permit for construction of a cleaning plant at the rear of 64 Greene street, was issued at the city engineer's office yesterday for W. L. Sherman, 722 Washington street. The permit was taken out C. F. Ballard, for Sleeman Brothers construction firm of Frostburg.

The structure will be an "L" shaped concrete block building with metal roof. Cost is estimated at $900.

Three other permits included a three-room house 30 by 30 feet at 320 Eastern avenue, for Lester H. Hamilton, to cost $400; an apartment over a garage at 6 Zihlman Way, to cost $723, for Howard V. Brockey; and porch enclosure and remodeling interior of house at 126 Hanover street for Joseph Ottiert, at a cost of $1,400.

Local News In Brief

The Mt. Savage Junior Order Band will present a program tonight at the LaVale Volunteer Firemen's festival to be held on the lawn at the LaVale fire hall. Thomas Lewis is director of the band.

Newly elected officers of Fulton Myers Post No. 153, American Legion, will be installed at a meeting to be held Friday night, August 2, at 8:30 p. m.

Army Needs 7,589 Officers At Once

Announcement was received at the local army recruiting station yesterday from Major John J. Lavin, of the Baltimore Recruiting District, that 7,589 vacancies for veteran army officers exist.

Officers who have gone on inactive duty, or terminal leave and who desire further active duty should contact the recruiting office at once, Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, local recruiter said.

The War department has announced it is going to recall to active duty, strictly on a voluntary basis, 1,125 reserve and national guard officers, and over 6,000 other vacancies still must be filled.

Samuel A. Graham To Head Mountain Legion District

Samuel A. Graham, immediate past commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion was unanimously elected vice commander of Mountain District last night, at a convention delegate caucus held at Farrady Post No. 24, 15 East Main street, Frostburg.

Nine Legionnaires from the Mountain district were also elected to represent the district as department executive committeemen for the new fiscal year.

They include, Phil Fleming, commander, Thomas F. Conlon, service officer and Russel Paupe, adjutant of Fort Cumberland Post; Arthur Norris and James McNeil, Jr., of Farrady Post; William Rankin, of John P. Love Post No. 92, Lonaconing; Horace P. Whitworth and Okey Michaels, of Victory Post No. 155, Westernport; and Edward Kohl, of Proctor-Kildow Post No. 71, Oakland.

The election of the district vice-commander and executive committeemen preceds the convention, is then submitted to the convention for ratification, Legionnaires explained last night.

The Mountain district has a total membership of 4609 Legionnaires, which gives it 92 delegates at the convention. This is based upon one for 50 members. Executive committeemen, of which nine are chosen, are based upon one for each 500 Legionnaires in the district.

Graham, a veteran of World War I, and immediate past commander of Fort Cumberland Post, will succeed Frank Powers, of Frostburg, as district vice-commander. He served the local post as commander until last month when he was succeeded by Phil Fleming, a veteran of World War II.

Graham has been active in Legion affairs for about 15 years and has been a resident of this city for almost 20 years.

State Department Commander Iverson of Baltimore attended the meeting last night, and accompanied a group of Legion officials on visits to Memorial Post No. 159 at Mt. Savage, Corriganville Post No. 190, Fulton Meyers Post No. 153, here and Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, Ridgeley, W. Va.

LaVale Directory To Be Issued Soon

W. S. Tower, LaVale, who has been working on a directory of the LaVale area for several months, reported yesterday that he hopes to have the guide ready for use during the American Legion convention which convenes here August 16.

Tower reported the scope of the guide has been extended to include the area from Locust Grove to Donahue's service station above the Six Mile house on Route 40, the Mt. Savage road to near Corriganville, and part of Cash Valley road.

About 1,300 homes representing some 2,000 families will be included in the directory which will be the first extensive survey of the LaVale area to be made.

Roads and streets will be marked as part of the survey, Tower said, and all lots will be numbered.

Is Critically Ill

Friends here were advised yesterday that Roy Funderburk, international vice president of the Chemical Workers Union, was critically ill in a Charlotteville, Va., hospital Monday. Funderburk visited here often recently while organizing Local 261, Chemical Workers Union, at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

First Steps Taken To Train Veterans For Farm Work

Agricultural Advisory Committee Is Named At Meeting Here

Organization of a Veterans Agricultural Advisory committee to assist in the operation of an on-the-job farmer training program in Allegany county was effected yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of the state board of education, the Veterans Administration, the local board of education and county farmers.

J. D. Lonnholm, director of veterans' education in the county, was named chairman of the group and Ralph F. McHenry was chosen as secretary.

Under the program, veterans will be trained, through practical experience and classroom work, to do various types of jobs in agriculture. Subsistence allowances are provided under the GI Bill of Rights to assure economic stability to veterans taking the training, according to Lonnholm.

Practical Experience Required

The training program will be of two types. One will be carried on for a one-year period and another will extend over a period of two years, Lonnholm said, pointing out that because of the seasonal nature of agriculture, effective farmer training programs must be given throughout the entire year, and that there must be year-around experience on a farm under the supervision of an approved, successful farmer or approved training agency.

In addition to practical experience, a minimum of 200 hours per year of instructional training, supervised instruction and individual co-ordination and instruction is required. Of the total amount of hours, 150 are to be instructional training given by a qualified teacher of agriculture in the public school system.

Lonnholm pointed out that veterans interested in the program should contact the Veterans Administration office in the Union street county building to obtain information and advice and to fill out initial forms, which are available there.

Will Recommend Farms

The advisory committee, which will organize and co-ordinate the program in the county, will recommend farms for training centers, recommend wage and hour scales, advise and make suggestions as to the related instructional program, make recommendations for equipment and housing for related instruction, and make suggestions to the state department of education for training programs.

Members of the committee named yesterday include, besides Lonnholm and McHenry, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools; J. R. House, co-ordinator and teacher of vocational agriculture; Martin Gordon, of the Soil Conservation service; Albert O'Neal, chairman of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration; B. B. Snyder, Farm Security Administration, and the following seven county farmers: J. H. Weimer, Mt. Savage; R. T. Gilson, Little Orleans; Elwood Crabtree, Oldtown; Theodore Stegmaier, Williams road; J. William Loar, Rawlings, James A. Morgan, Frostburg, and W. L. Frazee, Flintstone.

Speakers at the meeting yesterday included D. W. Zimmerman, supervisor of special education, state board of education; and Ralph Hutchins, training officer of the Veterans Administration.

Kiwanis Club Will Meet At "Y" Today

Due to the shutdown of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, caused by a walkout of workers, the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club scheduled to be held at the plant today had to be cancelled, and instead of meeting at the Kelly the Kiwanians will meet at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m.

Kelly officials informed officers of the Kiwanis club yesterday that the plant cafeteria has been closed along with the other departments, and that the luncheon for the Kiwanians followed by a tour of the plant would have to be postponed until a later date.

W. Rodes Lewis, Arlington, Va., lieutenant governor of the Capital Kiwanis district, arrived in Cumberland yesterday afternoon and will speak at today's meeting. Plans also call for an army recruiter to appear on the program in connection with the army's new recruiting plan in which the local Kiwanis club will participate.

Henley, 39, manager of Peter Pan cleaners, 1136 Holland street, was "resting fairly comfortably" last night in Allegany hospital where he was admitted yesterday shortly after 4 p. m. for treatment of serious injuries suffered when he was struck by a car in front of the local cleaning shop at 536 North Centre street.

X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of injuries suffered when the man was struck, police said, by a Mr. Ringer of Cash Valley at 4:10 p. m.

Mrs. Henley told the News last night that physicians said the muscles of Henley's right arm were torn loose by the impact and that he sustained a right eye injury, brush burns and bruises of the left shoulder and was suffering from a lump in the region of the kidneys.

Was Struck on Hip

Witnesses explained that the local man was struck in the hip and knocked for some distance against a parked car.

The local man said he looked and did not see any cars approaching when he stepped into the street. It was raining at the time of the accident, witnesses said.

Officer J. Carl Stouffer conducted the preliminary investigation for city police.

Harold Christner, 25, Garrett, Pa., was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 3:30 p. m. for treatment of possible head injuries. The Western Maryland Railway worker told attaches he was struck by a lining bar at 1:30 p. m. Attaches said X-rays were taken to determine the extent of his injuries. # Police Rescue Man From Wills Creek

The man, booked as Glenn Kimble, 709 Henderson avenue, was rescued about 7 p. m. by Officers Ernest M. Powell and Guy Williams who reached down the wall and pulled the local man to safety.

Police said witnesses reported the man jumped into the creek from the Mechanic street side and floundered around in the shallow water for some time before he was rescued.

Officers said they were somewhat puzzled as to how the local man could have gotten into the stream and out with so few injuries since, they said, several bruises on the forehead and a severe wetting was the apparent extent of the damage.

Police Seek Man, 70, Selling Stock In Firm

State police last night were on the lookout for a slightly built, gray-haired man of 70, who, they said, was selling stock in a South American firm on the strength of a small glass jar filled with dirt he claims came from the plant site.

The request to arrest the man came from Pennsylvania State Police who informed Maryland officers he boarded a bus headed from Bedford toward Cumberland before noon yesterday.

Police said the man gave the name of "Dr. J. W. Biggs," but that they did not know how much money he had made by selling stock in his allegedly fictitious firm.

A description of the man listed him as five feet ten inches tall, with gray hair and wearing gold-rimmed glasses. Officers said he carries his false teeth in his pocket and goes by several aliases.

Harry Flook Lands Plane On Highway Near Pittsburgh

Pilot And B. J. Lyons Are Uninjured; Fog Forces Landing

Harry E. Flook, Jr., as a former army air force pilot flew 51 combat missions over Europe, but he probably never saw a more welcome landing strip than the three-lane William Penn highway in Pittsburgh's suburbs where he landed about 12:30 p. m. yesterday.

Flook, whose home is in The Dingle, was flying Bart J. Lyons, 118 Wilmont avenue, purchasing agent of the Celanese plant, to Tarentum, Pa., on business, when he become lost in the fog and set his two-seated Globe Swift plane down on a straight stretch of the highway a half mile from Edgewood Country Club where an amateur golf tournament was in progress. Neither Flook nor Lyons was injured.

Traffic on the highway prevented Flook from landing at once, but after circling four or five times and making a dozen passes, G. F. Purdy, a player in the tournament, sensed what he was trying to do and flagged down approaching automobiles.

"Socked In" Suddenly

Flook and Lyons took off from Cumberland about 11:30 a. m. yesterday and experienced good weather until they reached McKeesport, Pa., the veteran pilot reported last night.

He said radio reports from Allegheny County Airport, Pittsburgh, had indicated a ceiling of 1,200 feet and visibility of a mile, but that a heavy fog "socked in" suddenly and "funneled" the ship down toward the ground.

The Globe Swift was not equipped with flying instruments, so Flook had been flying by watching the ground beneath him, he recalled. Finally, he said, "We were down so low that we were pulling up over power lines and hills and I thought we better land while we were still in one piece."

Allegheny County airport was the closest landing field, Flook said, but added that he learned airliners were coming in on instruments there. He said he tried to turn back toward Cumberland but that the fog was too thick and he decided to land on the highway. "We flew over the highway once and I kept it in mind," he said.

Once traffic was stopped and the landing was made, news reporters and photographers covering the golf tournament deserted their assignments for the moment to get spot news stories and pictures of Flook, Lyons and the plane before it was towed to a field beside the road. A policeman stood guard over it last night.

Turned Out Well

The forced landing turned out better than possibly could have been anticipated, both Flook and Lyons said.

The latter related that he met friends at the country club and that he and Flook were "treated royally all afternoon." More friends arranged for them to have a suite of rooms at the Pittsburgh Athletic Club where they spent last night.

Flook said he hopes to take off from the highway this morning if the weather is good and that he and Lyons will return to Cumberland since the latter completed his business after the forced landing.

Three other planes made forced landings on a golf course eight miles away as a result of the same "soup", Flook said he was informed, but he added that he knew nothing of the circumstances.

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP) — A 22-year-old mother carrying her newborn baby in a shopping bag walked unescorted into the Volunteers of America hospital today and was placed under doctor's care, Capt. John Logan, head of the institution, reported.

He said the mother told astonished hospital attendants the boy was born at her Baltimore home without the assistance of a physician.

She wrapped the boy up, placed him in the bag, and hailed a motorist to drive her to the hospital, where she handed the bundle over to a nurse with the words, "Here's my premature baby," hospital officials said.

Rubber Workers To Vote On Plan To End Stoppage

Production At Kelly Plant May Be Resumed This Afternoon

If members of Local 26, URCLP-WA, who were working on Nos. 4 and 5 loop machines accept a compromise plan for operation of the machines at a meeting this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the union hall, it is hoped that production at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant will be resumed on the 3 o'clock shift this afternoon, Ralph C. Beard, president, reported last night.

Beard said workers on the machines are asked to attend the special meeting to be held in the union hall so they may accept or reject the proposed settlement of the present grievance.

The union official said the compromise plan which will permit continuous operation of equipment in the curing room was worked out at a meeting between officials of the company and union at the Kelly plant yesterday from 5 to 7 p. m.

Explains Proposal

The proposal will give the company approximately the production it desires and at the same time will guarantee the workers against any loss of pay, Beard explained.

The Kelly company wanted 60 heats each eight hour shift, the union official said, and added that the compromise plan will provide 56 heats by utilizing the equipment continuously through the use of relief crews during lunch periods.

Beard said workers of all three shifts of the Kelly curing room met yesterday with union officials and proposed that five men crews working seven and one-half hours would produce 28 heats and four man crews on No. 5 loop would produce 25 heats in the same time. The company, he explained, offered to furnish relief crews to relieve men during their lunch periods so that machines could be in continual use.

A company spokesman said the four man crew has been producing 24 heats each shift and that the company requested 27 heats from the four man crew with the addition of a relief man and 33 heats from the five-man crew with a relief man.

Offers Task Allowance

He added the compromise plan will offer a task allowance to enable the five-man crew to work up to their 33 heats which would allow them to maintain normal earnings level while they were working up to the higher output.

The Kelly official said work could be resumed on the 3 p. m. shift today if the company receives word in time but added that power house workers would have to be in the plant from two to four hours ahead in order to prepare for resumption of work on that shift.

The walkout of ten workers of the curing department early Tuesday morning in protest over a change in the production and number of men required to operate loop machines precipitated the strike which halted production at the Kelly plant Tuesday afternoon, throwing approximately 2,500 persons out of work.

Stream Pollution And Abatement Discussed Here

Sothoron Predicts Completion Of Savage River Dam In Two Years

Predicting that the Savage river dam, on which work was suspended during the war, would be completed within two years, State Senator L. Harold Sothoron, Prince George's county, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin told a meeting of the Upper Potomac River Board here last night, that the board should fill an important function in planning of the upper portion of the Potomac Basin.

Sothoron declared there is need for a regional agency to informally co-ordinate and plan the control and abatement of pollution which affect or are affected by pollution.

The commission chairman said that it may be necessary to create a sanitary district in order to economically carry forward a pollution abatement program, similar to that which has already been established, and now functioning in the Washington metropolitan area.

Abatement Delayed

Difficulties in the past have delayed the abatement of pollution not only in the Potomac Basin but also in other areas, Sothoron asserted. This lack of action by local and state authorities has led to the present trend toward federalized control which you have seen by the recent introduction of many bills for federal control of pollution abatement and the control of other natural resources, he added.

Stating that there are problems both of quantity of water available, and quality of the water, Sothoron declared that the North Branch of the Potomac from Luke to its junction with the South Branch is badly polluted and that during dry months conditions are so bad, many industries cannot obtain sufficient water for their manufacturing processes.

The chairman added that visual conditions and odors along the banks of the stream are so bad that property values are lowered and there is no chance for additional industry to establish in the area if they need water for their processes.

Sothoron declared there are a number of ways to correct the situation—construction of the Savage river dam, which would increase the low water flows to a point where sufficient amounts of process and cooling water will be available to incustry although it will not be of good quality.

Since additional water is desirable during the summer months if the pollution problem is to be entirely solved, Sothoron said other methods for further increasing the low water flows should be investigated and plans should be made for those programs which seem to be desirable in this regard. The Upper Potomac River Board can and should encourage the logical existing agencies to proceed with these projects at an early date, the chairman added.

Need Increased Water Flows

In addition to increasing the water flows, it will be necessary to treat all of the sanitary sewage, industrial wastes and acid mine drainage in the area before a stream of reasonable quality can be expected, Sothoron declared. The board should investigate and study the desirability of forming a county sanitary district which may be the best method to solve the complex problems of the area, particularly those in the Georges creek basin.

Sothoron declared that industries should be encouraged to plan co-operatively for the control and treatment of their wastes to such a degree that the streams of the area will be able to carry the load without causing objectionable conditions. Steps should be taken to encourage the industrial concerns of the area to carry on research work upon the treatment of those materials which must be discharged as liquid wastes.

Sothoron said the board should interest itself in the following:

1—Flood control problems at Cumberland and Ridgeley, and in the Luke-Piedmont area.

2—Establishment of priorities upon the streams of the area for municipal and industrial water supplies.

3—Encouragement of recreational activities in the parks and streams of the area.

4—Encouragement of soil conservational and proper forest practices as outlined in the present soil conservation program of the federal agencies.

Sothoron declared that the problem of pollution is so acute in this area that unless it is solved this region cannot develop economically beyond the point which it has now reached.

Board's Progress Reviewed

Senator Sothoron was presented by Mark W. Roe, who also reviewed briefly the history of the Upper Potomac River Commission, and progress it has made in surveys leading to the partial completion of the Savage river dam.

Roe stated that the commission decided at a meeting held at New Germany in May, to enlarge its membership to embrace civic sportsmen's and other groups interested in "clean and unpolluted water" in the area. About a dozen new names were added to the commission at the close of the meeting.

Several persons in the audience commented upon the problem, and Arthur P. Hoffa, mayor of Barton spoke at length urging consideration of water problems peculiar only to the Georges Creek Region.

Building Material Prices Discussed At Meeting Here

OPA Representatives Confer With Contractors And Sub-contractors

F. L. McClean, chief of the industrial material section of the Baltimore Office of Price Administration addressed a group of about 30 local contractors and sub contractors in the city hall auditorium yesterday, on a proposed area pricing order for building material and labor costs in construction.

Owen E. Hitchins, county administrator for OPA introduced McClean, who outlined the proposal of OPA to establish percentage markups on labor and material here.

Frank Burnham, Baltimore, an OPA price specialist accompanied McClean here, and indicated he and members of his staff will be in Cumberland August 5, 6 and 7, to make a survey of local contractors for the purpose of arriving at equitable markups for this area. The price specialists will make their headquarters at the local OPA board offices in the Union street building.

Duane V. Ramsey of the National Housing Agency, who is here to probe the shortage of building materials, and to determine what is happening to building materials supposed to be used for homes for veterans, also attended the meeting.

At a meeting which preceded the price discussion Ramsey asked a number of pertinent questions, but contractors were of the opinion that building materials are not coming into the area.

The opinion was expressed by some that lumber mills and other producers of building materials have a labor shortage problem and sufficient building materials are not being produced.

German Writes He Is Interested In Stamp Collecting And Eating

A letter received at the city hall yesterday evoked considerable comment and interest, and was passed about among nearly all the city hall employees, finally being presented to Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary in the engineer's office, who is reputed to be a stamp collector, but she says it's "just a hobby".

The letter is addressed to "The Chief of Finance Office in Cumberland, Maryland, USA, and is from Hans Kohl, Hohenzollernstr, 89, Ludwigshafen, Rhine, Germany.

Kohl explains that he is a chief of finance officer and is not and never has been a Nazi. He is interested in eating and also in stamp collecting.

He offers to exchange stamps for their equivalent value in food, with any person interested.

His letter says in part, "Please excuse my writing, but I am a German finance official like you are an American and therefore I ask you whether you would do me a favor.

"I am collecting stamps and I am looking for an address of an American which is collecting stamps too and with whom you are acquainted. If you know somebody in your office, who is collecting stamps, please give him these lines.

"I am collecting stamps of Germany, Poland, General Government, Bohemia and Moravia, but I shall take care for all stamps which you require.

"I like to get no more but food as equivalent because we have a great food shortage in Germany. I am forced to choose this uncommon way and I am requesting for comprehension for my situation.

"Please give me your assistance. I should be very thankful for this. Besides I never have been a Nazi and I have many witnesses about it.

"I am waiting for your answer. Sincerely, Kohl".

Attached to a letter were a number of French stamps, which Miss Shoemaker plans to add to her collection. She did not indicate whether she plans to answer the man's letter, but commented, "I guess he never heard about the meat and butter shortage over here".

Organization of a Veterans Agricultural Advisory committee to assist in the operation of an on-the-job farmer training program in Allegany county was effected yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of the state board of education, the Veterans Administration, the local board of education and county farmers.

J. D. Lonnholm, director of veterans' education in the county, was named chairman of the group and Ralph F. McHenry was chosen as secretary.

Under the program, veterans will be trained, through practical experience and classroom work, to do various types of jobs in agriculture. Subsistence allowances are provided under the GI Bill of Rights to assure economic stability to veterans taking the training, according to Lonnholm.

Practical Experience Required

The training program will be of two types. One will be carried on for a one-year period and another will extend over a period of two years, Lonnholm said, pointing out that because of the seasonal nature of agriculture, effective farmer training programs must be given throughout the entire year, and that there must be year-around experience on a farm under the supervision of an approved, successful farmer or approved training agency.

In addition to practical experience, a minimum of 200 hours per year of instructional training, supervised instruction and individual co-ordination and instruction is required. Of the total amount of hours, 150 are to be instructional training given by a qualified teacher of agriculture in the public school system.

Lonnholm pointed out that veterans interested in the program should contact the Veterans Administration office in the Union street county building to obtain information and advice and to fill out initial forms, which are available there.

Will Recommend Farms

The advisory committee, which will organize and co-ordinate the program in the county, will recommend farms for training centers, recommend wage and hour scales, advise and make suggestions as to the related instructional program, make recommendations for equipment and housing for related instruction, and make suggestions to the state department of education for training programs.

Members of the committee named yesterday include, besides Lonnholm and McHenry, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools; J. R. House, co-ordinator and teacher of vocational agriculture; Martin Gordon, of the Soil Conservation service; Albert O'Neal, chairman of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration; B. B. Snyder, Farm Security Administration, and the following seven county farmers: J. H. Weimer, Mt. Savage; R. T. Gilson, Little Orleans; Elwood Crabtree, Oldtown; Theodore Stegmaier, Williams road; J. William Loar, Rawlings, James A. Morgan, Frostburg, and W. L. Frazee, Flintstone.

Speakers at the meeting yesterday included D. W. Zimmerman, supervisor of special education, state board of education; and Ralph Hutchins, training officer of the Veterans Administration.

Kiwanis Club Will Meet At "Y" Today

Due to the shutdown of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, caused by a walkout of workers, the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club scheduled to be held at the plant today had to be cancelled, and instead of meeting at the Kelly the Kiwanians will meet at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m.

Kelly officials informed officers of the Kiwanis club yesterday that the plant cafeteria has been closed along with the other departments, and that the luncheon for the Kiwanians followed by a tour of the plant would have to be postponed until a later date.

W. Rodes Lewis, Arlington, Va., lieutenant governor of the Capital Kiwanis district, arrived in Cumberland yesterday afternoon and will speak at today's meeting. Plans also call for an army recruiter to appear on the program in connection with the army's new recruiting plan in which the local Kiwanis club will participate.

Police said witnesses reported the man jumped into the creek from the Mechanic street side and floundered around in the shallow water for some time before he was rescued.

Officers said they were somewhat puzzled as to how the local man could have gotten into the stream and out with so few injuries since, they said, several bruises on the forehead and a severe wetting was the apparent extent of the damage.

Police Seek Man, 70, Selling Stock In Firm

State police last night were on the lookout for a slightly built, gray-haired man of 70, who, they said, was selling stock in a South American firm on the strength of a small glass jar filled with dirt he claims came from the plant site.

The request to arrest the man came from Pennsylvania State Police who informed Maryland officers he boarded a bus headed from Bedford toward Cumberland before noon yesterday.

Police said the man gave the name of "Dr. J. W. Biggs," but that they did not know how much money he had made by selling stock in his allegedly fictitious firm.

A description of the man listed him as five feet ten inches tall, with gray hair and wearing gold-rimmed glasses. Officers said he carries his false teeth in his pocket and goes by several aliases.

Harry Flook Lands Plane On Highway Near Pittsburgh

Pilot And B. J. Lyons Are Uninjured; Fog Forces Landing

Harry E. Flook, Jr., as a former army air force pilot flew 51 combat missions over Europe, but he probably never saw a more welcome landing strip than the three-lane William Penn highway in Pittsburgh's suburbs where he landed about 12:30 p. m. yesterday.

Flook, whose home is in The Dingle, was flying Bart J. Lyons, 118 Wilmont avenue, purchasing agent of the Celanese plant, to Tarentum, Pa., on business, when he become lost in the fog and set his two-seated Globe Swift plane down on a straight stretch of the highway a half mile from Edgewood Country Club where an amateur golf tournament was in progress. Neither Flook nor Lyons was injured.

Traffic on the highway prevented Flook from landing at once, but after circling four or five times and making a dozen passes, G. F. Purdy, a player in the tournament, sensed what he was trying to do and flagged down approaching automobiles.

"Socked In" Suddenly

Flook and Lyons took off from Cumberland about 11:30 a. m. yesterday and experienced good weather until they reached McKeesport, Pa., the veteran pilot reported last night.

He said radio reports from Allegheny County Airport, Pittsburgh, had indicated a ceiling of 1,200 feet and visibility of a mile, but that a heavy fog "socked in" suddenly and "funneled" the ship down toward the ground.

The Globe Swift was not equipped with flying instruments, so Flook had been flying by watching the ground beneath him, he recalled. Finally, he said, "We were down so low that we were pulling up over power lines and hills and I thought we better land while we were still in one piece."

Allegheny County airport was the closest landing field, Flook said, but added that he learned airliners were coming in on instruments there. He said he tried to turn back toward Cumberland but that the fog was too thick and he decided to land on the highway. "We flew over the highway once and I kept it in mind," he said.

Once traffic was stopped and the landing was made, news reporters and photographers covering the golf tournament deserted their assignments for the moment to get spot news stories and pictures of Flook, Lyons and the plane before it was towed to a field beside the road. A policeman stood guard over it last night.

Turned Out Well

The forced landing turned out better than possibly could have been anticipated, both Flook and Lyons said.

The latter related that he met friends at the country club and that he and Flook were "treated royally all afternoon." More friends arranged for them to have a suite of rooms at the Pittsburgh Athletic Club where they spent last night.

Flook said he hopes to take off from the highway this morning if the weather is good and that he and Lyons will return to Cumberland since the latter completed his business after the forced landing.

Three other planes made forced landings on a golf course eight miles away as a result of the same "soup", Flook said he was informed, but he added that he knew nothing of the circumstances.
